Jury Finds 'Guilty With Malice'

Ruby Gets Death Sentence

Fiery Attorney Plans to Appeal

(Times News Services)

DALLAS — Jack Ruby was convicted today of murder with malice in the killing of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, and was sentenced to death in the electric chair.

Chief defence lawyer Melvin Belli, red-faced and shouting, told reporters he will appeal.

He accused the jurors of having pre-judged the case.

Ruby sat stone-faced as jury foreman Max Causey, the first juror selected, handed over the verdict and Judge Joe B. Brown read it.

Officers hurried him back to solitary confinement in the county jail before anyone could question him.

MELVIN BELLI
. . . blows his top

The jury of eight men and four women received the case at 1:05 a.m. CST today, began its deliberation at 9:15 a.m. and reported it had reached a verdict at 11:34 a.m.

A date for formal sentencing will be set later.

In dead stillness, Brown read the verdict reached by the eight men and four women: "We, the jury, find murder with malice . . . and assess his punishment at death.

In Texas, the jury not only determines guilt or innocence but fixes the extent of the penalty.

The verdict in the courtroom was televised and broadcast nationally — as was the explosive moment of the shooting of Oswald last Nov. 24.

'Jury Shoved Down Our Throats'

Belli and his aides contend the jury had made its mind up before final arguments that stretched into early today. Belli called it a "kangaroo railroad" by a "jury that was shoved down our throats."

"The greatest kangaroo railroading disgrace in the history of American law," said Belli.

"Appeal, appeal," Belli screamed "today!"

He said he would go to the state capital, Austin, to file. Courts, however, are closed on Saturday in the state capital.

He raged more than he had during the frequent legal clashes at the trial.

He denounced the jury for wanting to continue in yesterday's marathon 16-hour session that ended at 1:05 a.m.

"Even in darkest Africa, you wouldn't argue for a man's life after midnight."

"A violent miscarriage of justice," said Asst. Defence attorney Joe H. Tonahill, "I am about to throw up."

Belli said Ruby did not say a word.

"I think he didn't get the full import of it."

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade said he thought the "facts fully warranted" the death penalty. He had said immediately after the handcuffed Oswald was shot to death that he would seek the death penalty.

Wade said it was a killing of "our government and law rather than men . . . not guilty would have put our civilization back to barbarianism."

In final arguments, he asked the jurors to show Ruby "the same compassion he showed Lee Harvey Oswald."

'I Think It Was a Proper Verdict'

Wade added, in a news conference, "I am very well satisfied with it. I think it was a proper verdict. I didn't think acquittal or a term of years was the proper verdict."

Assistant District Attorney William F. Alexander reviewed the entire prosecution case against Ruby Friday.

In tones dripping with sarcasm, he tore into the defence story that Ruby was unhinged by the assassination of the president, whom he "loved very much."

Alexander pointed out that at the time of Kennedy's motorcade in Dallas, Ruby was framing a newspaper advertisement for one of his night clubs. The 52-year-old girlie show operator has two establishments in Dallas.

"He wouldn't stir himself to walk five blocks to see the president," said Alexander.

Coming to the core of the state's argument for the death penalty, Alexander shouted: "American justice is on trial. Lee Harvey Oswald was entitled to the protection of the law until there was time to try him."

The lawyer shot out a long arm toward the accused man and said:

"You were the judge, the jury and the executioner. You

There is also the Legislative Press Gallery, a place and a group which has no official status in Parliament.

The place—half the place, rather, is a four-foot-wide shelf behind the oaken barrier that stretches across one end of the magnificent Chamber, its run broken midway by the ornate gable under which sits all-powerful Mr. Speaker on his throne.

Ten not very comfortable wooden chairs front a sloping oak counter from which at intervals jut plywood-boxed amplifiers. There are also ink-wells with swingout lids. For years, these have been dry as a back bencher's maiden speech.

Dreamers Awake

Here sit the newsmen assigned to this choice but difficult beat. View them from public or ladies' galleries and they look to be asleep or day-dreaming. But let the member from Juniper Junction intrude into his verbiage something that matters, and the pencils move as one.

From each wing of the shelf, stairs a trifle steeper than a destroyer's companionway pitch to a well that opens by a narrow door into Speaker's corridor. Those stairs haven't killed anyone yet. At least, not quite.

Parliament has its bar against strangers. Ours, though not of visible and well-shined brass, is equally solid. None save an accredited gallery member or a message-bearing page boy or attendant may risk his neck on our stairs.

Who's Invisible?

So much for the half of the place and institution which in theory (though definitely not in fact) is invisible to the Honourable Members.

The other half consists of two high-ceilinged rooms a pace beyond the corridor doors. They hold desks, antique typewriters, old orders of the day, and telephone booths scorched by sulphurous parleys between gallery men and their niggling editors.

Here are also reporters and correspondents (that's a reporter away from home), who type with two, four or nine fingers at fantastic speed. In the annex room are huge leather-covered armchairs sent down from a former Government House.

Pictures by the dozen gaze out of this orderly confusion. There are press gallery groups of bygone years, and photographs or sketches of great men from Bennett through Pattullo and on to times which few inmates now remember

Merry Blaze

The main room has a fireplace sealed off with a metal sheet. It stood open once, but on a cold night long ago, a reporter whose name is still legend decided to eke out the warming powers of whisky with a merry blaze.

This he obtained by prying up a yard or so of wooden parquet floor, and firing it with a bundle of private members' bills. Next day, by Mr. Speaker's edict, in came the steel plate.

TURKISH CYPRIOTS FEARFUL

(Times News Services)

NICOSIA — Disappointment because Turkish troops have not landed, Turkish-Cypriots expressed fears today of a fresh wave of violence.

Many Turkish-Cypriots had gone to bed Friday night with high hopes that Turkish paratroopers and elements of its fleet would be here by morning.

Cyprus Tension Eases

CP from Reuters-AP

NICOSIA—The tense situation over troubled Cyprus appeared to ease from the brink of war today following a Turkish statement welcoming urgent moves to set up a United Nations peacekeeping force for the island.

The statement, issued after a cabinet meeting late Friday night, superseded an earlier warning to Cyprus of Turkish unilateral intervention if sweeping measures were not taken to restore peace and normality to the island.

Reports that 10,000 Turkish troops had embarked in ships at Iskenderun, a seaport on Turkey's southern coast facing Cyprus, had backed the Turkish warning and heightened the already sizzling tension in the three-month crisis.

GREECE HAPPY

In Athens, a Greek government spokesman expressed satisfaction with the Turkish statement. Following a two-hour emergency cabinet meeting, a government source said the Greek armed forces would be in a state of preparedness until the UN force arrived in Cyprus and guaranteed the integrity of the island.

A small reconnaissance party of Canadian soldiers and airmen arrived in Cyprus today to arrange for the landing of about 1,150 Canadian troops tentatively earmarked for the peace force.

Earlier Greek-Cypriot President Makarios had rejected the Turkish warning and following talks in Athens, where he had attended the funeral of King Paul, said if the Turks landed in Cyprus the Greeks would come too.

He said the Turkish warning constituted "further untenable" interference in the internal affairs of Cyprus.

In Paris, the NATO permanent council met at the request of Greece to discuss the situation which, due to Greece and Turkey's membership in the western defence alliance, has been regarded as a potential serious NATO problem.

On Cyprus itself, people relaxed as the threat of a possible Turkish invasion receded. But there still were rumblings.

Several shots were heard in Nicosia suburbs this morning. They were thought to be accidental.

New de Gaulle Bid

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle flies to Mexico Sunday to show the French tricolor and launch a new trade-and-aid offensive in the western hemisphere.

'HIGH AND NOBLE PURPOSE'

Special Sitting Okays Canadians for Cyprus

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Canadian government today had Parliament's approval to send troops to help United Nations' peace-keeping in Cyprus and the first group of soldiers was packing gear to leave Sunday afternoon from Quebec City.

Both the Commons and Senate met in emergency sessions Saturday night to approve Prime Minister Pearson's decision to commit Canadian troops to the force.

He said the 1,150-man force was undertaking "perhaps a more difficult and dangerous role than any United Nations force since the world organization began."

But he said, "I ask the House to approve a contribution by Canada to this force for a high and noble purpose."

The Canadian Army flew a 26-man reconnaisance group to Cyprus Friday to prepare for the Canadians' arrival. They landed in Cyprus today.

A defence department spokesman said the first troops would arrive on Cyprus Monday afternoon and that the entire Canadian contingent would be on the embattled island in two weeks or so.

Transport aircraft were being flown from across Canada to get ready for the airlift. Small arms will go on the planes but vehicles and other heavy equipment are expected to be moved on the Canadian aircraft carrier Bonaventure.

The Canadian force is made up of the 1st Battalion of the famed French-Canadian Royal 22nd Regiment, the "Van Doos," from Valcartier, Que., with a reconnaisance group from the

IRISH GET SET TO GO

DUBLIN (Reuters). — The defence department announced today an advance party of Irish troops will leave Dublin shortly to pave the way for an Irish battalion going to Cyprus as part of the United Nations peace force on the island.

Will Join Force

HELSINKI (AP) — The Finnish government decided today that Finland will send a battalion of soldiers to join the UN peace force on Cyprus.

A spokesman said it will take several weeks before the soldiers are trained and ready to take on such an assignment.

Security Council Issues Unanimous Plea for Calm

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The first troops of a UN peace force were flying to Cyprus today, and the Security Council called for renewed calm among the parties concerned in the festering dispute there.

The council adjourned an emergency session on Cyprus shortly before midnight with a unanimous appeal to all parties to do nothing to worsen the situation.

Earlier, Turkey had assured the council it had issued no ultimatum to Cyprus, dispatches from Ankara said Turkey had dropped plans for any immediate landing of troops there.

Russia and Czechoslovakia attacked Turkey for "flagrant violations of the UN charter" and "a reversion to the principles of Hitler Germany," but neither Communist nation voted against the resolution introduced by the five non-permanent members of the council calling for renewed calm.

As the resolution was passing, word came from Ottawa that the Canadian Parliament had authorized the sending of 1,150 men to Cyprus as part of a UN force.

A UN spokesman said that with the Canadians on the way the UN force "can be considered to be in operation."

The advance contingent of Canadians flew in to Cyprus today in an RCAF Yukon. It carried 42 officers and men of the Royal 22nd Regiment, the Royal Canadian Dragoons and the RCAF.

They were met at the airport by the temporary commander of the international force, Maj.-Gen. Carlos Flores de Paiva-Chaves of Brazil.

Indian Lt.-Gen. P. S. Gyani, named by Secretary-General Thant as the force's permanent commander, is on a week's leave of absence in India for what have been described as "urgent personal reasons."

Turkey and Cyprus squabbled briefly in Friday night's debate over the interpretation of the resolution's call on all member states "to refrain from any action or threat of action likely to worsen the situation in Cyprus or endanger international peace."

Turkey said this was a clear reference to the Greek-Cypriots, but the Cypriots said it referred to Turkey.

The five sponsors of the resolution — Brazil, Bolivia, Ivory Coast, Norway and Morocco — did not rule either way. Norwegian Ambassador Sivert Nielsen said both sides should strive to keep the peace.

SECURITY INFORMATION SOUGHT

Store Manager Abducted

VANCOUVER (CP) — A supermarket manager and his pyjama-clad wife were held at gunpoint for more than two hours Friday night while two bandits threatened them in efforts to get information about security measures at Canada Safeway stores.

Cecil Bedford, 50, was abducted as he fixed a flat tire on his car outside his store in the Dunbar district. The bandits forced him into his car and made him drive to his Burnaby home, then forced his wife into the car.

They were driven to a wooded area and forced out of the car. The men drove away.

They robbed the couple of $3, using $2 for gas for the car. During the ride the men asked Mr. Bedford about security, safes, burglar alarms and working hours at the stores.

The couple walked out of the area and called police early today.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

On Thursday morning this week marine reporter Monte Roberts overslept and arrived at the office 35 minutes behind schedule.

Roberts

The ingenious Monte, however, did not come empty-handed. When city editor Lloyd Baker needled him about his tardiness, Roberts produced a bulletin of the SCPA (of which he is a director) describing him as "late columnist, The Victoria Times."

The SCPA was more correct, possibly, than it knew. For tonight Monte leaves the Times to join CKDA as editorial director—where, incidentally, he will work alongside His Favorite Wife, Cy

Monte has been with us for 12 years.

During that time he has been feature writer, columnist, marine reporter, and special navy correspondent. He has also been vice-president in charge of dogs cats, and Abner Goon, Our Very Own Correspondent at Luncliville, V.I.

Monte is an "old pro" with a wacky sense of humor. Times staffers, sorry to see him go, will bid him adieu at a farewell soiree tonight.

(One member of the staff is bearing up gamely.

Says his deskmate: "I'm trying to look at it on the bright side. It's not that I'm losing a partner so much as I'm gaining a telephone.)

The Michael Stephen credited with creating a "tour de force" (by drama critic Herb Whittaker) in the Dominion Drama Festival at Vancouver this week is the son of well-known local businessman Hugh Stephen.

"Our children constantly surprise us," Hugh told a friend. "When I first went to the College to see Mike act, I had no idea of his talent. At the end of the show I was prepared to believe that he could apprentice with the Old Vic."

From a modest man like Hugh that's praise any son should relish.

Some people just love paying bills.

Well, sir, I have a couple . . .

It seems Victoria Golf Club, which completed extensive renovations last spring, owed a city furniture house about $500. The Oak Bay club was never billed.

The club was aware of the debt, however. And finally, with cheque in hand, someone went down to pay the bill and clear the books.

"Sorry, sir," said the employee in the furniture firm's accountant's office, "but the bill has already been paid!"

They checked further. It turns out that Uplands, which also had purchased furniture for its new clubhouse, received Oak Bay's bill and had paid it without question!

University of Victoria students turned out 998 strong to vote for six student council positions last week, which is commendable.

But it was discomfiting to note that our senior level of scholars, doctors and engineers perhaps, managed to spoil 362 ballots.

Comments the lead editorial in The Martlet:

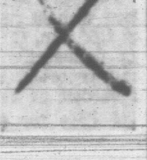
"What fools still mark their ballots with a check rather than a cross, although the cross is the universal means of scoring a ballot and instructions on the ballot said so?"



This is a cross

Please, future leaders, before the next provincial and federal elections . . .

An article in Wednesday's Roundabout column said Victoria had long enjoyed Mount Baker from across the Strait of Georgia, but now ski enthusiasts are enjoying it at closer range.

Lort

Librarian John Lort was quick to report this attraction for the snow-capped mountain was not new. In fact, it was a Victorian who made the first ascent on Mount Baker.

Mountaineer, author, librarian and artist, Edmund T. Coleman came to Victoria in 1863. Two years later he became Victoria's first librarian in charge of the Mechanics Institute Library.

Then, in 1868, he crossed the Strait and proceeded to make the first ascent up the mountain he had enjoyed for five long years from the Victoria waterfront.

Today his expeditions are recorded in the mountaineer collection of the Vancouver Public Library.

I was fascinated to read about that African king who was accused of eating four prisoners, including two ex-ministers of state.

Recently in our Ask the Times corner we advised that the family of a deceased person has two choices, interment or cremation. But we have been told by a mortician that his firm will conduct sea burials.

Personally, we prefer the idea over the first alternatives. In fact, we wonder if there isn't a business opportunity here for churches who need funds for their charities and missions. We roughly estimate a body could be decently laid to rest at sea in a weighted plastic envelope for less than $50.

Can anyone tell us why this isn't done? We can recall a wartime sea burial that lacked for nothing in dignity and conveyed a sense of immortality as the living sea took our friend to its bosom.

50,000 Canadians Have Served With UN

OTTAWA (CP)—Nearly 50,000 Canadian servicemen have taken part in United Nations and similar duties in distant parts of the world since 1950.

Most of these—29,000—served with the Canadian brigade in the 1950-53 Korean War. Thousands of sailors also saw duty in Korean waters and two score Canadian airmen flew jets.

Some 20,000 Canadians have served in Indochina as members of the international truce supervisory commissions in Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia. This is not a UN operation.

About 9,500 Canadian soldiers and airmen have served with the UN emergency force in Egypt. Another 50 have worked with the UN in Yemen, more than 100 as truce observers in Palestine, another 80 as UN observers in Kashmir, 30 more in the three-months UN operation in New Guinea last year.

A total of some 1,700 Canadians have served for the UN in the Congo.

Cost of these Canadian contributions are not known in detail. Canada paid some, the UN others.

Royal Canadian Dragoons stationed at Camp Gagetown, N.B. In addition to 1,050 soldiers, about 100 Royal Canadian Air Force officers and personnel are included in the Canadian contingent.

Canada had held out for one other nation to commit troops before meeting UN Secretary-General Thant's call for a Canadian contingent. Ireland's commitment paved the way for Sweden's entry and then Canada's. The prime minister also said he hoped Finland would enter.

MARTIN PHONED

The prime minister asked for the emergency sitting after External Affairs Minister Paul Martin's telephone calls to Thant, and to Swedish, Finnish and Turkish governments indicated arrangement of a peace force was possible Friday evening.

Pearson won almost unanimous support for his resolution. Two French-Canadian Creditistes said Canada should spend money to help the needy at home before going abroad.

The Prime Minister said Canada was footing the estimated $2.6 million cost—including one-way transportation—for the first three months approved by the UN Security Council although the financing arrangements were a departure from past practice and "from what is desirable."

ALL SHOULD PAY

He said Canada maintained all UN members should contribute to UN peace-keeping operations and said he did not know how such operations could be carried out satisfactorily unless better arrangements are made.

Pearson said he was sorry about the delay in appointing a mediator to attempt a political solution but said he hoped the presence of a peace force will ease the atmosphere sufficiently to make some solution possible.

Fewer than 100 of the Commons' 265 seats were filled and the galleries only sparsely occupied when the prime minister opened debate.

DESK THUMPING

But his appeal for support drew loud desk-thumping from Progressive Conservative, New Democrat and Social Credit as well as government benches.

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker supported the resolution but asked that in future leaders of opposition be given more information as the crisis develops.

New Democrat Leader T. C. Douglas said although Canada was taking on a "hazardous, thankless and discouraging task" it was necessary to prevent "bush-fire" wars developing into global war.

SOCRED TOO

Social Credit spokesman A. B. Patterson (Fraser Valley) gave his party's full support and Creditiste Gilles Gregoire finally chimed in despite his two colleagues' earlier opposition.

Gregoire said he was proud Canada was sending a force and added that his colleagues' earlier opposition stemmed more from the government's attempts to hammer through the resolution without allowing any objections.

denied Oswald what you are asking for yourself. Lee Harvey Oswald's lips are sealed. He can't be recalled. He's dead."

Alexander also ripped into the defence contention that Ruby was insane. He recalled to the jury the fact that Ruby talked with psychiatrists sent by the defence but refused to discuss the killing with those sent by the state.

"Is this the position of a crazy man? To refuse to talk to some psychiatrists? To follow the advice of his attorney about others?" Alexander asked.

'Send Him Where He Belongs'

Belli and his two assistants argued that Ruby is "a sick man—a very sick man." They urged the jurors to "send him where he belongs." Presumably, they meant a mental institution.

The defence sought to convince the jurors that advanced psychiatric techniques show Ruby has organic brain damage—psychomotor epilepsy—and did not know what he was doing when he killed Oswald.

The defence based its entire case on Ruby's sanity.

"They didn't make a very good case of it and didn't ask for leniency or mercy," Wade noted.

Belli, volatile "king of torts" from San Francisco, began shouting his wrath to the press immediately after the jury filed out of the courtroom.

The scene grew so intense that Judge Brown came in without his robe and said: "Get those television cameras out of here or I am going to throw them out."

He then ordered the entire courtroom cleared.

Belli said he had information that one juror, whom he did not identify, told his employer that if he got on the Ruby panel he was going to vote the death penalty.

"Any independent appraisal of this all over the world," Belli said of the verdict, "would give a pretty good impression of one of the sore spots of America. If this venom spreads throughout the country, God help us all. This is the most disgusting thing I've ever seen in my life."

His voice rising, he added:

"Now, do you believe there is justice? And that there's an oligarchy in Dallas?

"Do you believe this is a part of the U.S.?

'Little Bit of Russia in the U.S.'

"You people (the press) have been here five weeks looking at a little bit of Russia in the United States.

"Dallas is a city of shame forevermore.

"This is one of the sore spots of America, and if this venom spreads through the whole country, God help us all."

Belli said that President Kennedy had come to this sort spot and been assassinated.

"The festering sore that is Dallas now announces itself as the most shocking thing I have ever seen in my life.

"This jury wasn't concerned with listening to us."

The verdict left unblemished Wade's record of convictions in capital cases.

It was the 24th time he has secured a maximum penalty in a murder with malice trial.

It was the climax of months of legal manoeuvering and four weeks of trial.

The trial began Feb. 17 after a week-long hearing on a defence motion for a change of venue to another Texas city.

Attorneys for Ruby contended he could not receive a fair trial in Dallas because of widespread publicity and sentiment in the city so recently shocked by the assassination of President Kennedy on Nov. 22, just two days before Oswald was killed.

It took another two weeks to choose a jury from more than 160 prospective veniremen.

Another two weeks of testimony was taken up in questioning of 66 witnesses, several of them policemen and eight qualified as experts in the field of psychiatry, psychology or neurology.

Court stood in recess for most of Friday while the defence argued 41 objections to points in the charge. A night session finally got under way Friday after 9 p.m. EST and final arguments lasted until 1:05 a.m. when the jury of eight men and four women got the case.

The weary jurors retired to their barracks-like quarters for the rest of the night without deliberation on the case.

3 Babies Abandoned, Police Hunt Parents

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP)—Police Chief Wilfred Whiteman Friday issued a warrant for the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Cofell of Ottawa, parents of three infant boys found abandoned here Monday in an unheated home.

The couple was charged with abandoning the children, one only 12 days old.

The children — Douglas, 12 days, Delbert, 18 months, and Christopher, 3 — were found Monday, shivering, covered with sores and suffering from malnutrition.

Chief Whiteman said a widespread search is being conducted for the man, about 25 and also known as Douglas Smith, and the woman, about 23, who also is known as Selena Helen Smith.

The children's father was last seen Sunday and their mother, formerly Hilda Michelek of Ottawa, was last seen Monday.

Mrs. Cofell's mother, Mrs. Edmonds Michelek, in a telephone interview from Ottawa Friday, confirmed that the boys are her grandchildren.

BIG WELFARE BOOST 'COST ONLY $500,000'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of the B.C. Association of Social Workers said Friday the provincial government could radically improve B.C.'s welfare services by spending an extra $500,000 a year.

Ronald E. Hawkes said that is what it would cost to increase the staff of the welfare department by 30 per cent.

He told a Community Chest meeting the government would save the money in the long run.

"As a taxpayer, this doesn't frighten me a bit, for an extra $500,000 we will radically improve welfare services in the province," he said.

'Weekend' Vote Ends Park Row

The parks battle faded from the legislature—at least temporarily — late Friday afternoon after only 17 minutes of debate.

That's all it took for the House to approve the salary of Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan just before the weekend adjournment.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett pulled out the vote after more than three hours of debate on bills.

It worked.

The night before a marathon sitting failed to resolve the question of whether or not the government intended to allow new industry into the parks.

When the subject came up Friday, House chairman William Speare suggested MLAs confine themselves to direct questions as the policy issue had been dealt with "at length" Thursday.

The opposition submitted.

Mr. Kiernan leaves Sunday on a trip to California where he will kick off a tourist promotion tour. He won't return until Wednesday night. Then he will have to face the House again for approval of the rest of his recreation estimates.

Chairman Speare promised the Opposition it could ask more about the parks policy at that time.

Friday Mr. Kiernan refused to commit himself about further development of the Buttle Lake area for recreation.

He said he would go and look at the area with parks officials after the session.

Naturally, no such nonsense goes on among today's press gallery card-holders. They work, mostly.

This half of our working world is open to visiting members except for the day each session when the budget must be boiled into news stories. Then, and perhaps on one or two other extraordinary occasions, a 'Closed' sign hangs on the doorknob.

Press conferences held in these cluttered quarters have foreshadowed significant events in British Columbia history. The gallery has guested politicians destined for fame . . . or for dismal extinction at the next election.

As I have noted, the press gallery has no official existence even though it holds annual elections, boasts its own letterhead, and these days is processing a generous share of your news.

End of Term

Invisible though it may be, the member for Outer Yakh is conscious of its presence, and the quality of debate has been known to improve remarkably when newsmen by ones and twos begin to retire from their perilous shelf.

When a session trails to its close, all but the handful of topnotch "regulars" who cover the government year-round can't get away fast enough. But before the year has gone full circle we fret to be here again.

B.C. BANK FOR B.C.

'Bullies' Stay Home

VANCOUVER (CP)—A warning to eastern financial "sharks" and "big financial bullies" not to attempt a takeover of the proposed bank of British Columbia was issued here Friday night.

Ralph Loffmark, Social Credit member of the legislature for Vancouver Point Grey, issued the warning at a public meeting at which he spoke with Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

"The people of B.C. are going to get first crack at buying shares (in the new bank)," said Prof. Loffmark. "And the B.C. government is going to be sitting quietly in the background with its 25 per cent share and make sure some sharks from the east do not come in and take over control.

"We have nothing against foreigners as long as they look for an honest investment, but we are not going to sit and let some big financial bully take control."

Mr. Loffmark, a professor of commerce at the University of B.C., who has been touted as potential cabinet material for Premier W. A. C. Bennett, also said the provinces are saddled with obligations under the British North America Act but without adequate sources of revenue to carry out these obligations.

"If you have a government 2,000 miles away from the people who have to pay taxes you have a dictatorship of a kind," he said.

"It is as far, ladies and gentlemen, from Victoria to Ottawa as from Boston to London," Prof. Loffmark added in an apparent reference to the Boston Tea Party.

Trustees Move Into Union Hall

MONTREAL (CP)—The maritime board of trustees has dispatched representatives to seven seamen hiring centres across Canada and moved a senior official into the Montreal headquarters of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.) for the first time.

A spokesman said the moves, which coincided with the discovery that trustees' headquarters telephone lines were being tapped, were made to ensure trustee control of the five maritime unions under their jurisdiction as the start of the Great Lakes shipping season approaches.

The trustees installed top security measures after their suspicions the telephone lines were being tapped were confirmed by Bell Telephone Company technicians, the spokesman said. The wire tap was made from other buildings in the area and police have been unable to find the tappers' identity.

The trustees moved representatives into Vancouver, the Lakehead, Thorold, Ont., Toronto, Montreal, Quebec City and Halifax to ensure that their directives will be obeyed, the spokesman said.

The representatives will supervise hiring hall procedures and be available to hear seamen's grievances, the spokesman said.

The trustees moved an official into the SIU headquarters to facilitate administration of the union, the spokesman said. A trustee accountant had been visiting the SIU headquarters daily to check union spending and other officials had gone there periodically.

The trustee move resulted in reported grumbling at the SIU executive's bi-monthly meeting.

'Top Cat' Honored

LONDON (Reuters)—Peter, a cat on the British government payroll for 16 years, was buried Friday with full honors. Flowers, an oak coffin and a velvet cloth were provided for the cat, an expert mouse-catcher, who worked in the home office. Peter had a treasury grant of £6 10s ($19.50) a year, supplemented by staff contributions.

Caouette Roadblock Beaten by 'Footwork'

OTTAWA (CP) — Some fast footwork in the Commons Friday night helped to get around a threatened procedural blockade of the Cyprus peace force resolution.

Real Caouette, leader of the 13-member Creditiste group, told the house Friday afternoon that his party would oppose any move for early introduction of the resolution.

Under the rules, unanimous consent was required to waive the formal 48-hours notice required for resolutions. One MP would be enough to block such consent.

Mr. Caouette left about an hour later for a speaking engagement at Trois-Rivieres, Que.

Shortly after he left, the government proposed that the Commons hold a special Friday night sitting instead of adjourning at 6 p.m., EST, as scheduled. This was approved.

At the 8 p.m. start of the night sitting, Mr. Pearson rose and moved the Cyprus resolution, prefacing his remarks with the words, "by leave."

He had been speaking for less than a minute when Antoine Belanger, Creditiste MP for Charlevoix, interrupted to protest that Mr. Pearson did not have unanimous consent to introduce the motion.

Deputy Speaker Lucien Lamoreux ruled Mr. Belanger out of order, saying his objection came too late.

Only two other Creditiste MPs were in the house, leaving the group two MPs short of the five necessary to force a formal vote on the issue.

They claimed Pearson acted in a "cavalier" manner by continuing with his resolution after slowness in the Commons simultaneous translation system caught them napping before they could object to its introduction.

Mr. Belanger and Charles-Arthur Gauthier (Roberval) later protested passage of the resolution. But the third Creditiste, House Leader Gilles Gregoire, supported it after earlier procedural objections.

LBJ Sees Flood, Promises Help

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Flood victims along the Ohio River and its tributaries—most of them now waiting for the water to go down—had assurance from President Johnson today that federal aid would be on the way soon.

He flew over the area and saw what they had lived with for almost a week — isolated towns, submerged homes and roads and other devastation from the third worst flooding in this century.

As Johnson made his flight Friday the river was receding at Louisville and upstream. But its crest had yet to pass western Kentucky and southern portions of Indiana and Illinois.

It already has left 11 dead, more than $50,000,000 in damages and affected, by Red Cross estimate, 110,000 persons.

Johnson said he will designated parts of five states — Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, Kentucky and Missouri—disaster areas, possibly today. This will make those states eligible for millions of dollars in federal grants Illinois and Pennsylvania will be eligible for less sweeping federal assistance such as free grain for livestock and easy-credit loans for property owners victimized by flood waters.

Back Hoffa, Vancouver Union Urged

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Teamsters Union Joint Council here today urged its members to remain loyal to international president James Hoffa despite his conviction on a jury tampering charge in Nashville, Tennessee.

In a statement to members, council president Ed Lawdson said:

"As a matter of policy there should be no hesitation on our part as officers and members to declare to general president Hoffa that he has our loyalty and we will stand behind him until he has had total recourse to those measures of the law he is entitled to.

"Surely this is not too much to ask. It is no more than we would seek for ourselves."

Victoria local 885 business agent Robert Milliken said he would not comment until the next general meeting of Teamsters here, April 2.

Red Cross Sickroom Loan Cupboards in 575 centres across Canada loaned thousands of sickroom supplies on a free basis to more than 31,000 Canadians.

JOHN R. GARLAND

Revenue Minister Dies Suddenly

OTTAWA (UPI) — Revenue Minister John R. Garland, one of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's youngest cabinet colleagues, died early this morning on a train enroute to his home town of North Bay, Ont.

The 46-year-old cabinet minister collapsed and died, apparently of a heart attack, on a train pulling out from Ottawa's Union Station.

When the death was discovered, the train pulled back into the station and the body was removed. Funeral arrangments will be made over the weekend.

SPECIAL SITTING

Earlier in the evening Garland had attended the emergency sitting of Parliament which ended in formal approval for a Canadian contingent in the United Nations peace-keeping force for Cyprus.

The minister was going home for the weekend in his home riding of Nipissing, Ont., which he has represented since 1949.

One of the mildest and most conscientious members in the Commons, both in government and opposition, Garland perhaps was also one of the least-known in a personal sense.

He was born Jan 1, 1918. He was married.

OTHER DUTIES

Besides his revenue post he was also in charge of the National Housing Act and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

In cabinet his colleagues describe him as "highly respected."

In North Bay he will be remembered as "one of the most popular people around the place even before he went to Ottawa," a friend said.

He was active in sports promotion in his home town and at one time ran a softball team. In Ottawa he carried this interest over to the program for fitness and amateur sport.

Judge Raps Insurance 'Fine Print'

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—Ontario Supreme Court Justice E. G. Thompson attacked "fine print clauses" in insurance policies here Friday in dismissing a claim against a United States insurance company.

"These fine print clauses have always given me concern," he said.

Alvin Foster, 49, proprietor of a welding shop in Wallaceburg, 15 miles northeast of here, claimed $2,513.65 from the United States Fidelity and Insurance Company for damages he had to pay in 1962 to the owner of an oil truck which exploded in his shop.

The company disclaimed responsibility on the basis of a clause in the policy issued to Mr. Foster. The clause ruled out payment in any case where Mr. Foster was doing work on the damaged article at the time of the accident.

Mr. Justice Thompson, in dismissing the claim for damages, said evidence proved that mudguards were being welded to the truck at the time of the accident.

He observed that the policy was labelled "comprehensive general liability" on the cover, and the exemptions were set out in finer printing on another page.

"A layman might well think this took care of all eventualities, even though he was only paying a premium of $46.50 a year," the judge commented.

Accepting a Responsibility

UNDER MR. PEARSON'S leadership Canada has stepped into the front rank of responsible nations by deciding to send troops to Cyprus to keep the peace as part of a United Nations force. As the prime minister says, a threat to security in any part of the globe is a threat to security of the whole world. He has recognized the need for prompt action to halt the violence on Cyprus and has placed Canadian arms at the disposal of the world's peace-keeping organization.

This is in conformity with the general policy which Mr. Pearson has long seen as Canada's responsibility in a nuclear world. He set the pace at the time of Suez, he supported Canadian aid to the Congo, and now he has played a leading part in organizing an international force for Cyprus. Swedish and Irish troops will also join the British units already on the island.

The conditions which Mr. Pearson required have been fulfilled. These related to the period for which the forces were to be committed, the assent of the Cypriot government and workable arrangements to permit the force to achieve its peace-keeping objective. The three-month period for which the present forces are being sent will not, Mr. Pearson admits, be anywhere near long enough to find a permanent solution to the problem of Cyprus. But it sets a limit to the operation which can only be extended by United Nations agreement.

One point still bothers Mr. Pearson, as it will most persons anxious to see the United Nations succeed in its objectives. Canada will pay the expenses of its force because the emergency demands immediate action and will not wait on agreement among UN members to contribute towards the costs of the operation. But peace-keeping is a responsibility of the United Nations as a whole, and the costs of its work should be met by the members as a whole, not by a few conscientious participants. It is to be noted, however, that both Turkey and Greece, intimately concerned in the island controversy, have offered cash contributions to help put a neutral UN police force on Cyprus.

The crisis — and it is recognized in many quarters as one of the most serious to face the world in recent times—has brought another matter to immediate attention. If the Cyprus quarrel had been even more urgent than it is, there was no United Nations force which could have been immediately dispatched to the trouble scene to prevent the outbreak of open warfare.

Even now the response of many members has been reluctant and delayed. This does not reflect the true intent and responsibility of the United Nations as a body to preserve security throughout the world and act quickly to maintain the peace. The question of a permanent UN police force is therefore once more a very pertinent one and should receive attention.

In the meantime, we may be proud that Canada, a country of notably moderate armaments, is using what it has to halt violence and serve the cause of world peace.

For Work Outside Jail

MR. DAVID BARRETT'S BILL regarding the rehabilitation of prisoners stood little chance of passage at this session but deserves consideration and discussion.

Briefly, it sought for the warden of a provincial jail authority to release prisoners "for reasonable hours" to seek work, carry on work he was doing at the time of committal — including the care of a family and housekeeping in the case of women — attend an educational institution or receive medical treatment.

The person earning money in such released time would be required to pay board and keep for accommodation and meals during his hours of incarceration, would be held in custody on weekends and overnight, except in special circumstances, and would have to make restitution to his victim.

Economically, points out Mr. Barrett, the arrangement would lift a burden from the taxpayer now forced to meet costs of keeping such individuals in jail, would make it possible for prisoners to contribute to the upkeep of their dependents from their earnings and, if anything were left, would give them a nest-egg on release.

Probably more important, the arrangement would retain the individual's contact with the world outside the walls and tend to discourage a lapse into "jail living" by keeping the person exposed to ordinary society. The discipline, apparently, would come from the loss of leisure and social time forfeited when he or she returned to jail at the close of the working day and on weekends and by requiring the convicted person to meet his responsibilities.

The proposal raises obvious points and questions. Such treatment could scarcely be extended to all prisoners, extremely anti-social as some are. And it is yet to be determined if society in general is convinced that correction rather than punishment is the task of the prison system.

The fact remains that most prisoners, if not all, are released, sooner or later, and face the difficult task of returning to the world outside. Many of them are ill prepared, partly because of the influences to which they have been subjected during their terms of imprisonment.

Mr. Barrett's plan suggests a means of making the transition smoother — and he supports it with the economic argument that prisoner earnings outside jail would reduce the load on the taxpayer.

Certainly the proposal invites study — study which should include the partial application of the system to some inmates of federal penitentiaries and provincial jails in Canada, to others in the state of Wisconsin and to many in a number of European countries.

Gagging On Gaglardi

HIGHWAYS MINISTER P. A. Gaglardi answered two questions in a television interview this week.

Asked to comment on Alex Macdonald's legislative question on the suitability of a Gaglardi church deacon as a "tire consultant" (at $8,000 a year), the minister shouted: "That's a typical Communist smear."

Then, when asked what his government would contribute to a system of freeways in Vancouver, Mr. Gaglardi replied: "It depends on the federal government. They give millions and millions to Quebec, nothing to B.C. It's rank discrimination."

This latter statement is, of course, wholly untrue—the federal government has contributed as high as 90 per cent of the cost of building Mr. Gaglardi's roads in difficult terrain. Even worse, it attempts to play on current tensions between Quebec and the rest of Canada, to set one province against another.

Some gospel for a minister! Some smear!

An E. E. Winch Park

WHILE THE WINDS OF DISCORD howl over British Columbia parks, it is gratifying to hear one note of harmony introduced into the general discussion.

Mrs. Lois Haggen has asked if a park can be named after the late Mr. E. E. Winch. The minister has expressed the opinion that such action would be appropriate when the opportunity arises.

Mr. Winch would have appreciated such a memorial. No one, political friend or foe, ever doubted the sincerity of his concern for the human family, his hopes that its condition might be improved. How better to mark that trait than by naming after him a recreation area dedicated to the healthful enjoyment of all our people?

'Chinatown, My Chinatown . . .'

MR. CHUCK COUSINS, CHAIRman of a special Courtenay-Comox-Cumberland Chamber of Commerce committee, has invited support from all parts of Vancouver Island to restore the old Chinatown near Cumberland as a historical site.

This is an invitation which might well catch receptive ears in Victoria. Given a little support from this city, Victoria could then approach Courtenay-Comox-Cumberland for a little help to waken from its present sleep the plan to make Victoria's Chinatown an attractive tourist asset. Or is Victoria waiting for Ottawa to play Prince Charming?

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

ON a ramble or a hike, no matter where you go, along the road, through the forest, by the stream or down by the sea, there is wood in many shapes and forms.

One can never feel alone when among the trees or can see and feel wood that brings beauty and warmth into our daily lives.

If you wander by the shore there are many drift logs, some of fantastic shapes to spur the imagination.

Beside the road you often find a tree that is not a native; perhaps it is Flemish Poplar or an apple or a pear gone back almost to its wild state. One wonders who planted it—did Johnny Appleseed leave it there?

In the forest the rugged conifers stand straight and tall, singing and whispering in the wind.

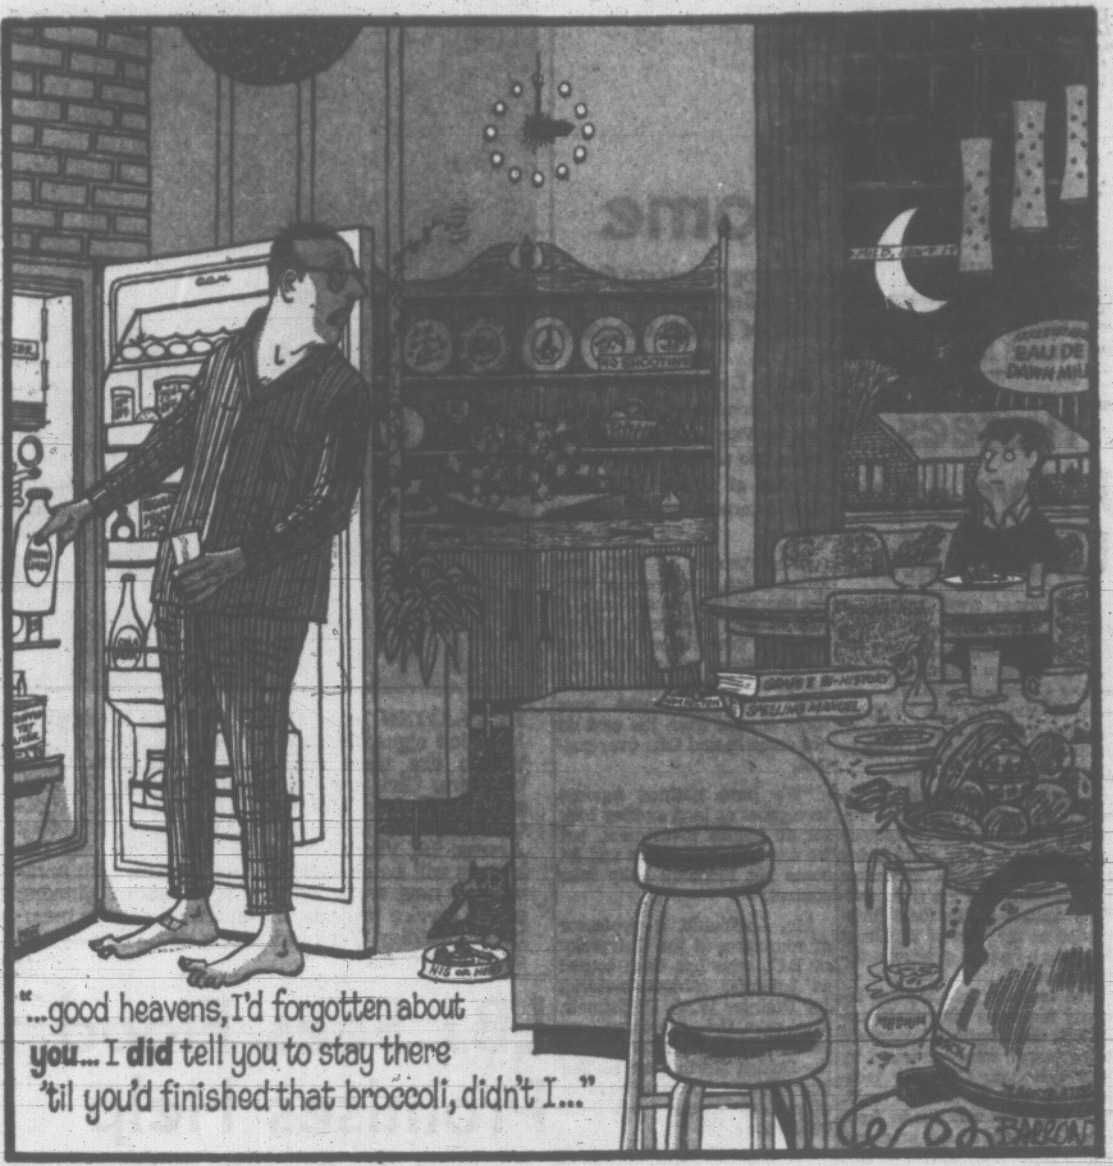
Look at the rugged bark and see the home of many insects which in turn attract birds.

If you come across fire scar on a tree try and find out its history. How did the fire start—was it by lightning strike or perhaps part of an old forest fire? Perhaps it was set by some bygone traveller. Evidence of the gradual healing process can help you to put this story together.

If you come across a logging operation look at a freshly sawn stump. There you can see by the ring growth the age of the tree. You can even tell what the weather was like many years ago.

Some trees, especially the Maples and the Garry Oaks, have large burls on them. Some of these have been caused by a chronic fungus growth, others by insects, or even by the irritation of another tree or branch. Some causes are not yet quite understood.

Wood in its many forms, from the homes we live in to the fire that warms and cheers us, make me think that it is perhaps the world's most useful material to man's comfort.



"...good heavens, I'd forgotten about you... I did tell you to stay there 'til you'd finished that broccoli, didn't I..."

NEW HOME FOR TURKS?

By WALTER LIPPMANN

An Absence of the Sense of Cypriot Nationality

THE United Nations has been asked to take on a thankless and difficult task in Cyprus, and almost certainly it will be best to regard the enterprise as providing not a solution to the conflict, but a sedative and stopgap. The prevailing fact in Cyprus is that 83 per cent of the people are Greeks, and only 17 per cent are Turks. Few of them have any sense of their Cypriot nationality. The crucial problem is whether they can live together again, as they have for many hundreds of years in the past; and if so, on what terms.

Lippmann

The United Nations has no solution for this problem, and what it is really being called on to do is to police the island because the government of Cyprus does not do it.

Policing the island to pacify and to stop the killing is, of course, the first condition. But we have to look beyond that, and the question we must consider is what might be a workable solution.

We must assume, I should think, that whatever one may think of Archbishop Makarios, events have proved the validity of his claim that the constitution which was worked out in 1959 has proved to be unworkable. The veto power of the 17 per cent Turkish minority is surely excessive.

On the other hand, we must also suppose that it will be very difficult indeed to separate the Greek and the Turkish people into a kind of cantonal confederation of the Swiss model. The greatest obstacle to such a solution, which requires so high a degree of political maturity, is that it is likely to come to grief owing to the contrary pull of Greece on the Greek Cypriots and of Turkey on the Turkish Cypriots.

Many observers have come to believe that the trouble requires drastic surgery and that the only hope of achieving is by way of an exchange of populations, or of populations and territories, involving Cyprus, Turkey and Greece.

One such proposal is that Istanbul's 80,000 Greeks change places with Cyprus' 103,000 Turks. But the ways of life of these two populations are so different that an exchange would probably be disruptive to the people involved and costly to the governments responsible for their welfare.

Arnold Toynbee, who knows the Middle East well, has suggested the possibility of moving Greeks from Thrace into Cyprus and moving the Turks from Cyprus into Thrace. But the difference between the climates of Cyprus and Thrace presents an obstacle to this solution.

Another idea has been to exchange the Greeks of the Greek island of Lesbos, or of Rhodes, with the Turks of Cyprus and give the island to Turkey. Cypriot nationality would then be extinguished; "Enosis" would be achieved; Greece would gain the revenues of Cyprus; Turkey would gain an island in sight of the Turkish mainland.

In view of the condition of inflamed nationalism which now prevails in both Greece and Turkey, such exchanges do not look very feasible.

What else is worth thinking about? Of all the ideas which I have heard, the one that seems to me the most plausible is that there might be a migration of some considerable part of the Turkish minority from the island onto the Turkish mainland.

This idea can be entertained, of course, only if the migration is not forced, only if the Turkish Cypriots who remain are fully secured, only if those who migrate are indemnified for the property they leave behind and only if generous provision is made for re-establishing them on the Turkish mainland.

What will be indispensable is that the Turkish government and people should welcome their returning kinsmen. Is that inconceivable?

The Turks, too, indeed the Turks most of all, have a vital interest in not being at war with Greece, and they have a vital interest in preserving the NATO alliance. They must know that Cyprus can never be a part of Turkey and that Cyprus is in fact predominantly a Greek island.

If Prime Minister Inonu were to take the initiative in seeking a solution he would lose nothing that is really vital and substantial to Turkey. On the contrary, he would augment greatly the security and the international prestige of his country.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Lodge . . . the Egg Salad at the Doubtful Smorgasbord

THE obvious effects of the New Hampshire primary are quite explosive enough to satisfy the gamiest taste for political drama. First of all, Sen. Barry Goldwater, only two months ago touted as the new Man of War of Republican politics, has been revealed as one of the sorriest nags that ever entered a major political race. He went into New Hampshire a four-to-one favorite. He came out only a hair ahead of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and a mile behind Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Alsop

He even succeeded in passing on the infection of disaster to his chief backer, the strongest Republican politician in New Hampshire, Sen. Norris Cotton. Cotton's own town of Lebanon, despite the senator's anguished personal pleas, disavowed Cotton by giving Lodge a thumping majority.

Secondly, Governor Rockefeller put up a stout fight, and he can still hope to regain lost ground in the Oregon and California primaries (for there is less concern about divorce on the West Coast than in New Hampshire). But a lot of the Lodge votes ought to have been Rockefeller votes, and these votes only went for Lodge because of the governor's remarriage. Hence, this prickly issue has been kept very much alive.

Thirdly, former Vice-President Richard M. Nixon has no more to crow about than Rockefeller or Goldwater. Nixon, after all, had first place on his party's ticket last time; and it was no more difficult to write in his name than the name of Lodge. But twice as many persons chose Lodge as chose Nixon, which suggests a sad lack of enthusiasm for Nixon at the grass roots.

In New Hampshire, in truth, enormous numbers of voters obviously approached the ballot box as you might approach a very poor smorgasbord table. They said to themselves, in effect, "The herring looks too fishy, the ham looks too hammy, the chicken looks too clammy; I guess we'll have to fill up on the egg salad." Ambassador Lodge was the egg salad in question.

This does not leave Ambassador Lodge in the position of the Republican front-runner. He has won a solid personal triumph, of which he can be proud. But if the triumph is not to fade into oblivion—if Lodge is to prove that he is not a regional candidate and is capable of selling himself to the whole country—he is going to have to leave Saigon and hit the national campaign trail without much further delay.

As to the sole important Republican personality who was a total non-participant in New Hampshire, he, too, has none the less been deeply affected by this lunatic primary's remarkable result. Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania has been affected, though not hurt, simply because the primary calls into the question the plan of action which he long ago adopted.

The pre-New Hampshire Scranton plan of action was based on the reasonable assumption that the Republican Party was divided into two great, competing power blocs, each of whose champions was totally unacceptable to the opposing bloc. He further assumed that the nomination was not worth having without the consent of both of the competing blocs.

Being one of the very rare politicians who are totally immune to buck fever, Scranton therefore played it cool. The idea was that if each bloc killed off the other's hated champion, both blocs might then be interested in Scranton; and if this situation did not arise, Scranton himself would not be interested in the nomination.

Now, however, both the supposed bloc-champions, Rockefeller and Goldwater, have been semi-hamstrung by the New Hampshire result; in the case of Goldwater, indeed, some would say that he has been both hamstrung and spavined. Thus the old Scranton plan can no longer be expected to work. If he wants the nomination in these circumstances, the Pennsylvania governor is going to have to make some sort of early move to get the nomination, probably before April 1.

SIMPLE AND HARD LIFE AT NAZARE

By TONY EMERY

Too Late to Find the 'Unspoilt' but Portugal Tries

IF you are looking for a corner of Europe that is what is called "unspoilt," I think you have postponed your quest until it is too late. Nowhere that you might think of as offering cheap accommodation, fine weather, good food and wine, and some scenic attractions remains still to be discovered, and the reason is simple enough. The Sunday Times of England, to take only one example, devotes about four of its pages every week to travel articles and advertisements; it offers excellent advice to those seeking peace and quiet, warmth and a good table, with perhaps a little scuba diving or water skiing thrown in: efforts of one national newspaper.

Emery

Multiply that by, say, ten for the British press, and add the authoritative organs of France and Germany, Holland and Switzerland and Scandinavia, all yelling about the charms of some picturesque and "unspolit" fishing village in Portugal or Spain, the Balearics or Canaries, the Costa Brava or the Cote Vermeil, and you are in a position to answer Question One: Why does the coast from Alicante to Port Bou closely resemble Kingsway, Vancouver, or the Reeperbahn, Hamburg?

There are, mercifully, degrees of ruination, and the process has not yet reached its extremity in Portugal, although the signs are there for anyone who has the skill to read them.

Fortunately, in a sense, Dr. Salazar is too much concerned with keeping himself in power to devote much time to developing "tourism," and if he did, I would wager that the results would not be very awe-inspiring, since governmental efficiency in the Iberian peninsula is not the feature that one would choose if one had to select its most impressive contribution to the common stock of human skills.

But the country is beautiful, and the people charming. If the government is authoritarian and repressive—and the ordinary Portuguese makes no secret of his discontent with Dr. Salazar's methods of administration—it has not the skill to carry out more than a percentage of its aims, and there is room for the Portuguese to live as happily as he may on the rewards of his extremely hard labor. To find a people that works as hard for such a small return I think you would have to look outside Europe altogether.

At Nazare, a fishing village fifty miles north of Lisbon, we found a mode of existence that reminded me irresistibly of the village of Mahim, on the road from Bombay to Juhu beach, which I travelled often as a boy. There was the same overpowering stench from the fish drying in the sun; the same barefooted fishermen and their womenfolk struggling to launch the country craft through great combers that have the whole fetch of the Atlantic behind them; the same grey-looking children with pot-bellies, a ring of flies clinging like mobile mascara to their staring little eyes.

The men of Nazare are celebrated for their tartan trews, the patterns of which are copied freely from those of the Scots in Wellington's army; the women wear from six to ten petticoats with embroidered hems, and as they trot up the road, balancing four or five large trays of fish on their heads, their exaggerated hipswing sets these stiff skirts in rhythmic motion, first one way, then the other. The gait is precisely that of the Indian woman jogging rapidly along from the well, with her large earthenware "chattee" balanced on her head.

Boats are built on the edge of the beach. I watched an offshore sardine fishboat, of the kind that will be familiar to all whose journeys have taken them through the waters of the Bay of Biscay, being hacked out with bow-saw and adze and a small selection of chisels: the tools of the trade in Nova Scotia and the Queen Charlottes and anywhere else with a boatbuilding tradition before the advent of power tools and fiberglass.

These boats have a rocking-horse sheer and a considerable flare to their beamy hulls as well, so that they give an impression that can only be described as the visual equivalent of a Viennese waltz. Painted in gay colors, uninhibited by any consideration of "good taste," and bearing religious names, these fascinating craft cluster thick on the golden beach, surrounded by sightseers, natives, and photographers from Holiday magazine, commissioned to publicize the charms of this "unspoilt" and "primitive" village for the delectation of several million receptive readers.

Smaller boats are launched through the surf with a skill born of centuries of experience, to pull a net round in a semi-circle for the old men and women to haul in. For a couple of hours you will see them walking steadily up the beach with the line, breaking off when they reach the small boy who is coiling it for the next "cast." The catch, if any, is pitifully small, and has to be shared, with The Company. A hard life.

ON THE TIMES By ART STOTT

A Recaptured Glory

WHEN you've been on the heights you can appreciate the broader view. Which probably puts the smile on Jimmy Ball's face when he discusses the space given to him in "An Illustrated History of the Olympics"—the finest volume I've ever seen on the subject.

Stott

This is a Borzoi book, compiled by Richard Schaap and published by Alfred Knopf Inc., distributed simultaneously by Random House and Random House of Canada, Ltd. It sells for less than it would cost to send a team to the Olympics, but don't look for it on the racks of your favorite paperback dealer.

The work is produced for the American reader, but is generous in crediting fine performances by athletes of other nations—and its introductory pages on the history of the original Games in Olympia catch your immediate interest.

It was sent to Jimmy by his daughter in Los Angeles, and for very good reason. Jim ran for Canada in two Olympics, won the Lou Marsh Trophy as the country's outstanding male athlete in his heyday and has lost count of the awards he has earned.

* * *

The smile comes to his lips because the section devoted to the 1928 Games in Amsterdam gives about a page to the description of the 400 meters. Jim lost by a hair—and would have won had it been five meters longer—to Ray Barbuti, the Syracuse football player who ran for the United States.

In the same Olympiad Vancouver's Percy Williams electrified this country by capturing the two Olympic sprints—the 100 and 200. But though credit is paid to him—along with a glowing tribute from Charlie Paddock, once "the world's fastest human"—his races were not described.

For people in this nation, the Williams' triumphs are athletic history and legend combined. In the United States, Ray Barbuti's feat holds a somewhat comparable place, because, as Jim points out, "it was the only track event they won in those Games." After earlier sweeps, the great American predominance in that branch of athletics came apart at the seams at Amsterdam.

This is mild criticism. Certainly it should not detract from a magnificent compilation and very good, as well as interesting, writing about Olympics old and new. But it tickles me because of earlier comment in the book.

The writer points out that in the original revival of the Games at Athens in 1896 a certain delicate bias seemed to color the reports of one of the Greek newspapermen covering the show. While the American pick-up team was crowding victory on top of victory, the Greek reporter sang of the grace displayed by Greece's losing high-jumper, the harmony and dignity of the defeated Greek discus champion.

Jim Ball, also, finds a gentle irony in the number of lines describing the 400 meters at Amsterdam, and the absence of description of Percy's sprint performances.

The irony has to be gentle, because he knows as well as anyone else that the news importance of such events weighs heavily on what "our boys and girls" did, most particularly if they happened to win.

* * *

Ignore this characteristic of the book and concentrate on the really splendid job it does of telling the stories of triumph and disaster, of humor and pathos, of harmony and discord, the human interest side of the events, the actual and the apochryphal, the spirit of the Olympics and you have magnificent reading and some of the finest pictures, some in color, that have ever rolled off the press on pages devoted to sport.

The names in the book conjure up their own magic—Paavo Nurmi, Jesse Owens, Jim Thorpe, Willi Ritola, Jack Kelly, Bob Pearce, Eddie Tolan, Ralph Metcalfe, Betty Cuthbert, Fanny Blankers-Koen, Wilma Rudolph, Sonja Henie, Toni Sailer, Barbara Ann Scott, Dawn Fraser, Helene Madison, Herb Elliott.

The parade is endless—the new Russians, the Germans, the Japanese swimmers of 1932, the Flyng Finns, the Australians.

You read the book, look at the pictures, and if you've been fortunate enough to have attended an Olympiad you join Paul Galico, who was a severe critic of the idea that such events create goodwill, in the familiar quotation, "Mine eyes have seen the glory."

And just before you drown in a flood of memories, sentimental and otherwise, you remember the smile on Jimmy Ball's face.

Gerald Waring ...REPORTING

OTTAWA — Monday being Budget Day, public interest cannot help but be centred on whether tax rates go up or down or stay where they are. But the budget is much more than tax rates, and its most significant revelations may be in other areas.

Number one, I'd say, is how the budget will answer the question, "Are the Liberals running out of ideas?"

The economic policies put forward in the budget are to the national economy what the sculptor's hands are to clay. In his first budget last June Finance Minister Gordon came up with new ideas and new applications of old ideas to achieve a number of economic objectives. One idea was to use tax incentives to encourage the establishment of new industries in Canada and the establishment of new manufacturing facilities in depressed areas. Another was to use punitive taxes to prevent foreign take-overs of Canadian companies and to encourage sales to Canadians of equity in foreign-owned Canadian subsidiaries. Another was to subsidize employment of older workers. Another was to encourage U.S. investors to buy Canadian corporation bonds rather than equity shares. And there were others.

The takeover tax idea was a real lemon, and was withdrawn. But others have been more or less effective in meeting problems on which Mr. Gordon and his colleagues deemed action necessary. Now Parliament will receive a new budget, and the way that budget tackles old and new economic problems will say much about the quality of the Liberals' imagination and courage, and indeed about the quality of government that the Liberals are giving the country.

* * *

Mr. Gordon made such a poor showing with his initial 60-day budget that he's right under the gun this time. Or under several guns: the prime minister's, the opposition's, and the public's.

In spite of the damage Mr. Gordon did to Liberal prestige last June, Prime Minister Pearson gave him a second chance. If he fails this time he won't get a third—but of course there is no intention that he shall fail. I expect that the cabinet, or at least a substantial number of ministers, will go over the budget with Mr. Gordon on Monday, just to make as sure as they can that the finance minister won't come another cropper Monday night.

This will be a new departure, but despite the enhanced risk of budget leaks, it is only a sensible precaution. It is the same procedure the cabinet followed in vetting Health Minister LaMarsh's statement on the Canada Pension Plan before she delivered her speech in the Commons last July.

* * *

The most recent example of Mr. Gordon's maladroitness, and one which must have made the Liberals uneasy, came last Monday. Creditiste MP Gilles Gregoire announced he had spotted a $104 millions discrepancy between what Mr. Gordon had told the House last May, and what he had told it last week. He brashy called on Gordon to resign.

Oh, yes, said Mr. Gordon in effect. That was a mistake in addition made by the former government. I learned about it late last fall and I decided then to tell the House about it "at the very first opportunity."

Somehow no opportunity presented itself between October and March. And if Mr. Gregoire hadn't been alert, that opportunity might still not have arrived.

BEREAVED PARENTS HIT AT U.S. LAW

VANCOUVER (CP) — A couple whose son died in a California car accident left here Thursday to join a campaign seeking better drunk-driving laws in the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Malkin of Vancouver said they will arrive at Stanford University near Palo Alto about Sunday.

"I'll stand on street corners until we have enough support to see the governor," Mr. Malkin said.

Christopher Malkin, 22, UBC graduate at Stanford, was killed in November, along with fellow student John Barth, 25.

Their car was struck by another vehicle driven by a drinking driver who was sentenced to 12 months in jail. His licence was not suspended.

GREAT IDEAS FROM THE GREAT BOOKS

Renaissance Caused Split Of Individual, Society

By MORTIMER J. ADLER

Dear Dr. Adler:

Conformity and individuality seem to be two opposing forces. Today, more than ever, one must conform to the image that society regards as correct, and risk losing one's individuality. What did the great minds value more, conformity or individuality? How did they decide between the individual interest and the public good?

Miss Carmel T. Pandozzi,
1936 Broad Street,
Hartford, Connecticut.

Dear Miss Pandozzi:

The view that the individual and society stand in an essential and inevitable conflict with one another is, by and large, a modern one. In ancient and medieval times, the prevailing viewpoint was that the individual achieves personal fulfilment only as a participating member of the political or religious community.

Beginning with the Renaissance, however, the fragmentation of the traditional social and cultural bonds was accompanied by an accentuation on the multitudinous individual potentialities for fulfilment, and the individual good tended to be set off against the public good.

New Pressures

Modern forms of social and political organization, in their turn, brought new kinds of collective pressure on individual thoughts, tastes, and actions. The new industrialization and mass forms of communication were accompanied by a standardization of mental as well as material products, and by an appeal to mass mentality or public opinion.

This development brought forth vehement and anguished cries of protest from many eminent 19th-century thinkers

Kierkegaard

Among the most penetrating and significant of the responses to this new threat to individual human personality was that of Soren Kierekegaard. The great Danish religious philosopher inveighed with masterly literary and intellectual power against the blatant "untruth" of the crowd, the anonymous, faceless, phantom "public" which rules modern society. "A crowd in its very concept," he said, "is the untruth, by reason of the fact that it renders the individual completely impenitent and irresponsible, or at least weakens his sense of responsibility by reducing it to a fraction."

In all matters of unconditional ethical and religious obligation, said Kierkegaard, it is only the individual person who can operate. It is only the individual who can stand in an essential relation to eternal truth and value. "The individual," said Kierkegaard, "is the category through which, in a religious respect, this age, all history, the human race as whole must pass."

Anonymous They

The crowd, on the other hand, the ubiquitous, conscienceless, anonymous "they" or "public," constitutes a cowardly refuge, an evasion of personal responsibility to the truth and to the task of being or becoming one's self.

Kierkegaard admitted that preachers and prophets of the truth address throngs of men, but he insisted that they do so only insofar as the throngs consist of real, living individuals. They address the individual heart and conscience, and in doing so, they, in effect pull the individual out of the crowd and restore him to his personal individuality.

Kierkegaard also sought to distinguish between a sphere of "temporal, earthly, wordly matters," where the crowd may justly have the final say, and an ethico-religious sphere where it has no say at all, except to speak untruth.

Takes Issue

Martin Buber, an Israeli religious philosopher of our own day, has taken issue with Kierkegaard's view of the relation between the individual and the community. Buber agrees that the mindless, conscienceless will of a mere crowd or collectivity must be resisted by the individual person who stands related to transcendent truth and value.

But Buber refuses to admit that the crowd is the only form in which men come together in social and political life, or, moreover, that we can separate the unconditional ethico-religious sphere from the everyday sphere of human relations.

Part of Society

The individual person, in his full responsibility, says Buber, is called upon to decide and act, not apart from but as a part of his community. The body politic need not be a crowd, in which individuals are bundled together like sticks, but must become a living community of concrete persons who are bound together by a common tradition, situation and destiny.

Furthermore, the individual person cannot exist on his own, apart from all roots in a common past, and apart from his relations and responsibilities to other human beings who are his companions in place and time. Through personal responsible action in the common situation where he is placed, the individual becomes a person and the body politic becomes a genuine community.

You can win a 54-volume set of the Great Books of the Western World by writing a letter, not to exceed 150 words, incorporating a question of general interest for Dr. Adler to consider for inclusion in this column. Each week he will select as first prize winners the writers of the three best letters. He will use ONE of these letters as a basis for a future column and will answer it in terms of the intellectual heritage of the Great Books—443 works by 74 authors, spanning 30 centuries of thought. Address the letters to Dr. Mortimer J. Adler, in care of The Times.

U.K. Paper: 'Canada Into The Breach'

LONDON (CP) — The Daily Mail says Canada enabled United Nations Secretary-General U Thant to forge a breakthrough toward formation of a UN peace-keeping force for Cyprus.

In its top story of the day headlined Canada into the Breach, the London newspaper says:

"Canada's initiative seems to have made the breakthrough possible."

The Mail refers to Thant's statement in New York Thursday that Britain has promised to provide up to 3,500 troops and that he now has enough promises of financial support to send a UN force of 7,000 to Cyprus for three months.

Canada is prepared to provide 1,000 troops and to begin flying them to Cyprus today, says The Mail. Canada was ready to leave them there longer than the three months stipulated by the UN and also to pay their costs.

Aging Stairway Can Be a Hazard

Stairways don't improve with age. They tend to squeak and creak. Rails may break loose and balusters may break with time. Stair treads wear and stair coverings become loose.

At best, an aging stairway is merely annoying. At its worst it is hazardous.

If you silence a noisy stairway, you have also avoided some future danger at the same time.

COME TO TERMS

The horizontal board, the one you step on, is the tread. The vertical board behind is the riser. The front edge of the stair tread rests on the riser below it. The tread also hangs out over the riser for a short distance. Molding generally covers the seam between the two.

Squeaking is caused by friction between tread and riser. Before attempting to repair the stair, determine the manner of construction.

Either the treads are nailed to the riser or they are of tongue and groove construction. Look for indications of nails. If they are present, you can be reasonably certain that tread and riser were fitted together.

If you are still uncertain, pry off the molding that covers the joint.

If nails were used, force down the tread and drive finishing nails through the tread and into the riser. Best way to force down the tread is to have someone stand on it. Drive the nails in pairs and slant them toward each other. With a nail set drive the heads below the surface and fill with wood filler.

IN THE GROOVE

If the stairs are of groove construction, use thin wooden wedges and drive them tightly into the joint. You will have to remove the molding before you can do this. If you coat the wedge with glue it will make the joint just that much stronger.

Trim off the part of the wedge that sticks out and replace the molding.

If the stairway is open underneath you can drive the wedges in from the underside and avoid the work of removing and replacing the molding.

Handrails become loose with time and should be tightened before they break away. The outside rail is very dependent on the condition of the newel post—the post at the front of the stairway and the rail's main support. Tighten the post by making the joint between it and the board or the section of wall behind it more secure.

NO SUPPORT

Balusters—the small posts that support the rail—often become loose or broken.

Broken balusters should be replaced or repaired, but in either event, remove to do the job. Sometimes stock balusters can be found to match. Otherwise a cabinet shop or a friend with a wood lathe may be able to make you a new one.

You can make the repair by drilling a hole in each piece so that a dowel can be inserted inside the baluster. Coat the dowel with glue, fit together and then glue the broken ends of the dowel. Clamp or tie until completely dry, then refinish.

The handrail on the wall side may be loose due to nothing more than a loose wall bracket or two. Screws become loose in the plaster wall. Use larger screws. Use anchors if none were used before. Toggle bolts or bolts with expanding shields will make the bracket secure.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Art of Rose Pruning An Uncomplicated Skill

By JACK BEASTALL

Newcomers to this southwestern corner of Canada ask many questions about rose pruning, and this week I shall try to give the answers.

Here are some typical queries:

Why not prune roses in the fall as we do in the east?

Since roses are never fully dormant here, why should they not be pruned until March?

Jack

The answer to these and similar questions can be stated in one word—climate.

Due to the climate in some areas of Canada, roses are pruned before the snow flies. Once they are covered with the white blanket they will be safe from temperatures far lower than we ever expect to see on the West Coast.

In other areas the roses are lifted, and stored indoors over winter, or laid in trenches and covered with straw and soil.

Our climate is such that roses stand all winter in the open garden exposed to any weather that may come, and being optimistic we never expect anything severe.

LESSON LEARNED

But once in a while we are fooled as we were in January, 1950. This period taught us a lesson, and losses were experienced in both pruned and unpruned plants although they were greater in the group which had been pruned the previous fall.

The appearance of a few leaves in February seems to drive some gardeners to distraction. Nothing will satisfy but to reach for the secateurs and prune frantically before any more unfold.

This reaction causes neighbors to enquire if they should do the same, and what will happen to their plants if they wait another six weeks.

It is very difficult to persuade gardeners to ignore this precocious growth, and it is only when the weather in late February or early March does some damage to the plants that the wisdom of patience is appreciated.

Imagine for a moment a strong growing hybrid tea rose which had canes four or five feet in length at the end of last season.

These canes were shortened to possibly 30 inches to prevent whipping around in the November gales.

In January buds were evident every few inches from the top to the bottom of these canes, and in mild weather the topmost buds may start to unfold their leaves.

It is well known to rose growers that the topmost buds always open first, and when sufficient have opened to supply the plant's needs, the rest will remain dormant for months or until something happens to damage those above.

When the gardener cuts off these opened buds something has happened, and the next set of top buds are activated. If the cutting is repeated there comes a time when the lowest buds will break and leave nothing to make further growth if they are lost to weather.

The experienced grower, while not pleased to see growth in January, never interferes because he wishes to keep those lower buds dormant until he is reasonably sure they can develop in safety as far as weather is concerned.

MID-MARCH

In our climate the safe period is, on the average, after mid March in gardens close to salt water and from April 1 to 15 in gardens further inland where late frosts so often persist.

In other words, we delay our rose pruning until after March 15 because our climate is fickle and nearly always "unusual."

There is no need to quiver and quake over pruning a rose. It will bloom if it is never pruned, only the flowers will be small and probably out of reach. And it will also bloom if over-pruned provided a few growth buds are left. In the latter instance the flowers will be few and near-perfect.

The first step in pruning is to study the bush, noting its growth habit and the condition of the various canes. Some varieties grow tall and spreading, others tall and upright. Some make a few heavy canes while others make a lot of small twiggy growths.

REMOVE DEAD CANES

Begin pruning by removing entirely all dead pieces, cutting back until the pith in the centre of the cane shows pure white or until the entire cane is removed.

Next remove completely all small branches or twigs of less diameter than an ordinary lead pencil, unless the variety makes all small growths in which case the strongest are retained.

Everything remaining should be good usable wood and the amount of this good wood to be retained will depend on the fancy of the gardener.

If a few near-perfect flowers are wanted to sweep the board at the local show he may cut back the canes to 12 inches or less. Or, for a good garden display and bouquets for home and friends, the canes may be left some 18 inches long.

The final cut is usually made immediately above a bud which faces outwards or away from the centre of the bush. Exceptions are when an outward growth would interfere with a path or lawnmower, and when it is desirable to restrict a spreading habit.

That is all there is to pruning a bush rose.

When pruning is completed, clean up the bed, removing all prunings and old leaves to the burning pile. Spray the bushes and the soil with a rose fungicide against black spot.

Aphides and rose slugs will appear in due course so that regular spraying with a combined insecticide-fungicide suitable to roses is necessary if good foliage and blooms are to be maintained.

Climbing roses are pruned after flowering, usually in August or September, the flowered side growths being removed and a few new canes being trained in to replace those three or four years old.

QUIZZING the GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

Q.—Are any prize lists or catalogues out yet for this year's shows? If so, could you tell me where to apply for them as I want to do the spring planting and sowing with the shows in mind? Thank you.—New Exhibitor, Victoria.

A.—The only local show catalogue to hand is from the Victoria Horticultural Society, Secretary George A. Wiggan, 1840 Ferndale Road, Victoria. It covers both the summer show in June and the fall show in September.

Q.—Will you please let me know the reason for my lawn being yellow in patches? My neighbors' around me are green. —W.G.P., Oak Bay.

A.—There are many reasons for yellow patches in lawns. Rock or rotting wood not far below the surface; visitations from dogs; poor drainage, although this usually affects larger areas than could be called patches; spilt oil from lawnmower or fuel supply hose; various turf diseases such as dollarspot; lawn moths and other turf insects; insufficient feeding or the spotty application of fertilizers.

You will need to decide which fits the case and then eliminate the cause. Reseeding of patches can be done in April, a freshly prepared sand and compost mixture being used to replace the old soil in the affected areas.

WINDOW "LEAKS"

Leaks around the framework of basement window sashes and frames can be sealed with caulking compound. This will allow the sash to be open without much trouble when the weather gets warm and ventilation may be required.

BATTLE FOR SOCCER CUP MAY 2

West Ham, Preston in Final

LONDON (Reuters) — West Ham United, London's First Division side, and Preston North End, Lancashire's Second Division club, will meet in the English Football Association Cup final at Wembly May 2.

West Ham, one of the most effective sides to adhere to the 4-2-4 system in British soccer, knocked out the holders, Manchester United, 3-1 on the neutral ground of Hillsborough, Sheffield.

Preston, one of the oldest soccer clubs in England, dashed the hopes of Wales getting a team in the final for the first time since 1927 when they beat Swansea Town 2-1 at Villa Park, Birmingham.

Today's two semi - finals, though both affected by torrential rain which turned the pitches into swamps, produced all the thrills expected.

A crowd of 65,000 saw West Ham take the initiative after a scoreless first half. They scored twice through inside Boyce before Manchester struck back through Denis Law.

Manchester United, who scraped through twice against Sunderland in the quarter-finals with late goals, looked as if they were going to stage one of their now-famous rallies, but West Ham, always assured and in complete control, settled the issue with a third goal by inside left Geoff Hurst.

REMARKABLE GOAL

An equally big crowd at Villa Park saw Preston pull up from a goal down in the first half to beat Swansea. The Welsh club took the lead in the 43rd minute when Irish international winger Jimmy McLaughlin scored. Preston equalized with a penalty from Alex Dawson seven minutes after the half and reached the final with a remarkable winning goal in the 71st minute. Preston centre half Tony Singleton, dallied with a loose ball from 40 yards out, took a swing and the ball soared over the heads of Swansea defenders and goalkeeper into the net.

West Ham have appeared in a cup final only once—in the inaugural match at Wembley in 1923 when they were beaten by Bolton

Preston have won the cup twice—in 1889 and 1938. They have appeared in six finals.

The final maintains a south-north interest and West Ham, a relaxed confident side, must start strong favorites to carry off the cup for the first time in their history.

WIDESPREAD RAIN

While the four semi-finalists were battling to meet in the showpiece of English soccer, widespread rain affected the league programs with 10 matches postponed and three abandoned in England and Scotland.

One of the matches postponed was Tottenham Hotspur's match with Burnley. With Spurs the English First Division leaders, inactive Everton took the opportunity of moving up to share first place with a 6-1 win over Nottingham Forest.

Both Tottenham and Everton have 44 points. Blackburn, who drew their league match Friday night, are one point behind, but Liverpool lost a chance by going down to the only goal scored at Fulham today. Liverpool has 42 points.

In the First Division of the Scottish League, first - place Rangers, defeated second-place Kilmarnock 2-0 while Dundee United beat Hearts, in third place, 4-0. Fourth-place Celtic defeated Hibernian 5-0.

Operation at 104

SOUTHAMPTON (AP)—Mrs. Mary Wakeford sat up in her hospital bed in this English city Saturday recovering from surgery — at the age of 104. She became the oldest person to be operated on in a British hospital Friday when surgeons pinned together her left thigh bone, broken in a fall a week ago.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

When he was six years old and looked like a fire hydrant in short pants, they called him "Porky." Sometimes a name sticks, however inappropriate . . .

★ ★ ★

George "Porky" Andrews sat in the neatly cluttered physical education office at Victoria High School and answered the question.

"Yes, I'm through. For good? For a while, let's say."

Some sterling soul will step into his job of basketball coach at Victoria High. Man is ever dispensible. But there has been no stampede of volunteers. After Andrews, what do you do for an encore?

"I heard how people suffer with ulcers," Andrews was saying. "I don't want to find out personally. This is a pressure situation. It grows and grows . . ."

If all the trophies won by Victoria High basketball teams were elephants, they would need a coliseum to harbor them.

For the last nine years, Victoria High has won the Lower Island high school championship.

Twice, in 1959 and 1962, Victoria High won the B.C. high school championship.

No coach scores baskets nor dumps the enemy's best marksman on his cantata.

★ ★ ★

"I have never seen any high school coach with his cunning. He has actually won games from the bench."—Bro. Hensley, St. Louis College.

★ ★ ★

Each year, Mr. Andrews, your teams started off as if they were pulling logs uphill. By Christmas the corpse was breathing strongly but his chances for success were anemic.

Yet, when you hit the Island or B.C. finals, you pumped everybody full of indigestion while enjoying the feast. You weren't playing possum early, of course.

He threw back his head. "Let me tell you about this year. Before the season I lost three boys. One was six-three. I thought, 'there she goes!'

"But I stayed with the same routine, fundamentals and more fundamentals. I aimed for the Island and the B.C. You have to shoot for something or else all you do—all the boys do—is pointless. They played their hearts out . . ."

"The best high school coach? He's the best I know, period. In discipline and fundamentals, his teams stand out.

"Tough? I have never heard a youngster say a word against him in six years.

"Sure he might have a piece of them if they repeat their mistakes. But they like it. They know where they stand."—Bill Garner, former coach, Victoria University.

"I played on the Dominoes when we won the Canadian championship in 1936 and when we lost it at home in '37," Andrews said. "Then Paul Rowe talked University of Oregon into giving me a scholarship.

"I didn't know basketball before Oregon. Our coach was Howard Hobson. One of the top five in the U.S., they said. Went to Yale later as athletic director.

"He taught you not only what to do but explained why. All I have done is tried to show the what and the why . . ."

There was a spell of pro ball with the ill-fated Vancouver Hornets—"I could hardly believe it; they were paying me to do what I most enjoyed"—and two years at Alberni.

Then Victoria. "I remember telling Bill Roper, the phs-ed director when I was a student, that I would like to have his job. When he died I was asked if I wanted it. I did and took it, but I felt badly in a way."

★ ★ ★

"I respected him. We all did. No matter what he said, we would do it. At the first practice you hardly saw a basketball. Just calisthenics. You were a little sore at him but next practice everybody was out.

"He taught you everything . . . run, dribble, shoot, pass. Offence and defence. He made you discipline yourself. If you goofed he would pull you off and sometimes not say anything. You knew what you had done wrong but you didn't have him screaming in your ear.

"During a game . . . fantastic. He can diagnose strengths and weaknesses unbelievably well. A time-out, a few words and everything works."—Darrel Lorimer, former VH star.

Discipline? Diagnosis? Against Magee, the top Vancouver team in this year's B.C. mardi gras, Victoria trailed 36-18. Prince Rupert, the team that went on to seize all the trappings, earlier had squeezed past Magee 62-61 in a game tied 28 times.

"I made two substitutions," Andrews recalled. "And they started to go."

High school boys play only eight-minute quarters. Bets on Victoria were not exactly stylish. But when the buzzer sounded up there on the board it read: "Victoria 47; Magee 41." Fourth-place honors in the knockout tourney to Victoria.

We talked about the generally fine calibre of basketball and coaching in Greater Victoria high schools. About the Christian Brothers and Gary Taylor at Oak Bay and Ed Fougner and others. Fougner has worked large miracles at Esquimalt.

"You've seen it," Andrews said. "Print it. They don't do this for dough. Only for satisfaction? And go lightly on me."

He grinned. "I just coach basketball teams."

Yankees in Shaky Spot; Score Only One Victory

Balanced Japanese Squad Grabs 3-1 Badminton Lead

By DOUG PEDEN

It's strictly uphill the rest of the way for the birdmen of America and it may have been just one bad swing that pushed them behind the badminton eight-ball.

The men who make up the U.S. Thomas Cup team will never know whether or not they frittered away one decision at the Racquet Club Friday night. But they do know they'll have to pull a few remarkable tricks out of the shuttle bag in order to survive when the North American zone final with Japan resumes tonight.

They trail Japan 3-1 in the best-of-nine tie after Friday's four battles and thus need four victories in five matches tonight to retain their zone crown. It all adds up to an almost impossible task against a better-balanced Japanese squad that owns younger, sturdier legs, an edge in speed and all the confidence that comes from a 3-1 advantage.

Two more triumphs will send the overseas bird-bashers into the inter-zone finals at Tokyo against winners of the European, Asian and Australasian zones. The winner at Tokyo will move into the challenge round against Indonesia, current holder of the Thomas Cup, which is emblematic of world team supremacy in badminton.

Poole Gave Yankees an Early Lead

Friday's matches produced plenty of exciting badminton for the crowd of about 500 fans, but most of the drama was packed into two matches. In the other two, the Japanese, averaging under 24 years and displaying power in every player, overwhelmed the Americans, who have only one campaigner under 30.

American champion Jim Poole, 32, gave his country the lead in the opening singles match by chalking up a 15-11, 18-13 win over 24-year-old Yoshio Komiya, Japan's No. 1 player.

Takeshi Miyanaga, 23, lacking some of the power but more accurate and less prone to errors than Komiya, had too much all-around strength for Manny Armendari, 30, and evened the score with a 15-2, 15-2 victory.

It was in the first of two doubles tussles that one mis-hit shuttle may have kept the Yankee swingers from again grabbing the lead.

Mike Hartgrove and south-paw-swinging Don Paup, picking up steam after a shaky start, trailed Eichi Nagai and Eiichi Sakai 13-14 in their first game. On their second service, Paup, 24, and Hartgrove, 30, manoeuvred their rivals out of position and had a chance to pound a cripple for an easy kill.

The shuttle hit wood on a Yankee racquet and zipped into the net. The easy kill had turned into an error and instead of knotting the count at 14-14 and still serving, Paup and Hartgrove lost the serve and a fine opportunity to take the game.

Sakai, 24, and Nagai, 26, smiled in appreciation, then took advantage of the break to grab a point and a 15-13 verdict.

Demon at the Net

Hartgrove and Paup were in command most of the way in the blazing rallies of the second game and the first-game flub looked mighty big after they pounded out a 15-8 win.

In the deciding game the Americans lost their fine touch and the lanky Nagai, owning a semi-Beatle haircut and a tremendous back-court smash, and Sakai, a demon at the net, gradually pulled away to make it a 15-13, 8-15, 15-9 triumph.

Komiya came back for the final doubles duel to partner 22-year-old Yoshinori Itagaki against the No. 1 U.S. pair of 38-year-old Joe Alston and 41-year-old Wynn Rogers.

Despite the fine teamwork developed in 14 years of playing together, Rogers and Alston couldn't contain their hard-hitting, cat-quick opponents after running up an early 4-1 lead.

Alston played some great shots but Rogers was having an off night and Komiya and Itagaki, playing superb badminton, continually exploited Rogers and forced him into errors as they hammered out a 15-7, 17-7 win.

Play in the opening singles match and the first doubles tussle had just about everything a shuttle fan could ask for and Poole was particularly impressive.

Superior Tactics

The tall, strong lefthander covered the court with deceptive speed and hit all his strokes with accuracy and power. Despite the closeness of the score, Poole always seemed to be holding a bit in reserve and his superior court tactics forced the muscular Komiya to do most of the running.

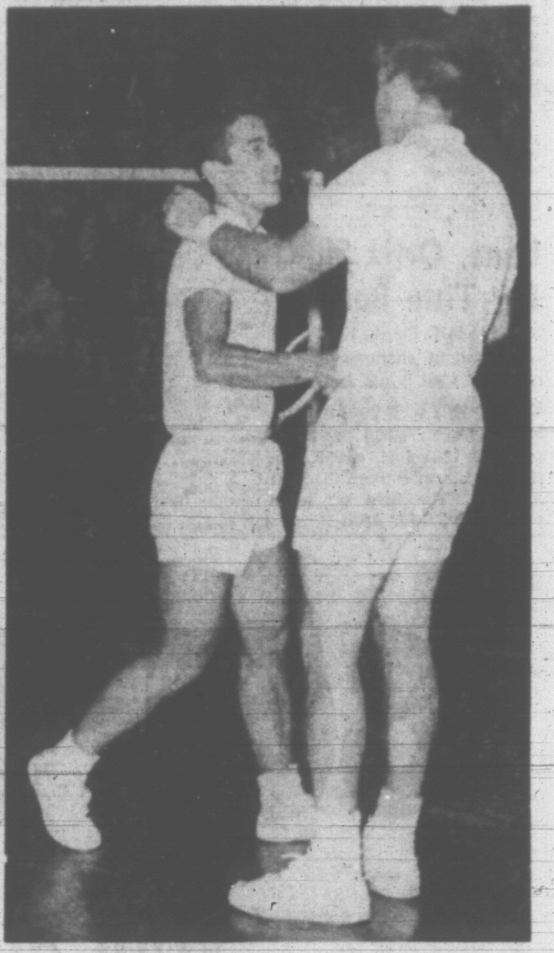
"I wasn't worried about it going three games," Poole said later. "I wasn't tired. He had been doing most of the running.

"Fortunately, his smash was slowing down and all I was doing was keeping the bird in play and letting him make the mistakes."

Poole, who believes he may have to change tactics slightly tonight against the steady Miyanaga, looked like a good bet to collect two singles victories.

The only trouble is that by the time he takes to the court, the tie may have been decided in two earlier singles matches.

Paup and Nagai open hostilities at 7:30 and will be followed by a clash between Komiya and Armendariz. After the Poole-Miyanaga tussle, Hartgrove and Paup take on Komiya and Itagaki before Alston and Rogers wind up the tie in the second doubles against Nagai and Sakai.



FIRST BLOOD FOR U.S.

Stocky Japanese ace Yoshio Komiya smiles as he congratulates husky Jim Poole after losing to American champion in exciting opening singles match Friday night in American zone badminton finals at Racquet Club. It was only win for U.S. team in four matches and Japanese are favored to wrap up zone title during tonight's concluding five matches. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

IF YOU CAN TAKE IT . . . . . . EARLY IN DAY

Sip Beer, Putt Better

MIAMI (AP) — About 20 golfers at Doral Country Club swigged beer before playing to test a theory that a beer before golf can improve putting skill.

The club said 45 per cent of the men and women in the testing improved their putting scores by at least 10 per cent after a drink of beer. Forty per cent showed no change and 15 per cent did worse.

The experiment was conducted by club president Howard Kaskel, a ranking New York amateur golfer, and Frank Strafaci of Miami, club tournament director and leading amateur.

Some players refused to take part in the tests on grounds they couldn't stand a brew so early in the day. Others said they didn't hold with using a stimulant to improve their score.

"They don't permit horses to be doped before a race," said one.

During the test the participating golfers each downed a beer and teed up dry on alternate days.

Rugby Decisions To Titans, Bays

Victoria High Titans, whose well-known spirit has been a lacking thing in recent matches, pulled up their socks Friday and picked up an 11-5 victory over Claremont in a Senior Inter-High Rugby League game.

Playing on the Vic grounds, Barry Gerard and Goodman Goodmunseth scored a try apiece for Titans. One was converted by Brian White. John Clemens booted a field goal.

Claremont collected its points on a try by Bob Hewlett and a conversion by Lee Schablitzke.

Oak Bay maintained its supremacy over winless Esquimalt by scoring a 20-0 decision in the day's only other match.

Oak Bay's points came from Alan McGill (2 trys), Barry English (try), John Fraser (try), Lloyd Murphy (try) and Bob Panton (convert and penalty goal).

FIRST UNITED TAKES ISLAND HOOP CROWN

Victoria's First United team is ready for the B.C. juvenile girls' basketball semifinal series.

United will face the mainland champions in Victoria next weekend.

The Victoria cagers picked up the Island championship Friday, defeating Cumberland 32-28 to win the two-game series by 27 points.

Gail Streeton sparked United with a brilliant 18-point display Friday.

Coast Curlers Eager To Host World Event

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Pacific Coast Curling Association will probably make a bid to hold the 1967 world championships here.

Keith Deacon of Vancouver, PCCA president, said Thursday he's "tremendously enthused" over the idea and will bring it up at a PCCA directors' meeting Sunday.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Wednesday that if Lyall Dagg and his rink, the Canadian champions, win the world title in Calgary next week he will personally campaign for B.C. to hold the 1967 championship.

Deacon said the PCCA likely will bid regardless of how the Dagg rink performs in Calgary. The six-nation world championship is being held outside of Scotland for the first time in its six-year history.

Wendy Dons Glasses And Doffs Her Skates

TORONTO (CP)—Wendy Griner, the figure skater who may have lost a championship because she wouldn't wear glasses on the ice, has decided to don her glasses and doff her skates.

The 19-year-old skater, four times Canadian champion and runner-up in the 1962 world championships, said Friday she has retired from active competition and hopes to study sociology and philosophy at the University of Toronto.

The petite blonde won the North American title and finished fourth in the world championships last year but lost her Canadian title to Miss Burka and finished 10th in the Olympics and 11th in the world competition this season.

Her coach, Sheldon Galbraith, blamed Miss Griner's recent performances on her refusal to wear glasses while skating.

JUNIOR PLAYOFF

Vikettes, Legion Battle to a Draw

VANCOUVER — University of Victoria Vikettes and Vancouver's Mount Pleasant Legion have turned the B.C. junior women's basketball final into a sudden-death affair.

Sparked by Sylvia Campbell, Vikettes tied the defending Canadian champions 46-46 Friday night in the opener of the two-game, total-point series.

Second game will be played tonight with winners entertaining the eastern standard-bearers in the Canadian final.

Miss Campbell was Friday's standout, dropping 21 points. Marilyn Rice (9) and Mary Pearson (8) also contributed greatly to Victoria's cause.

Cheryl McIntosh and Judy Hilliard each scored 12 points for Legion.

Mount Pleasant — Mair Campbell, Marilyn Stothers 3, Sue Ellis, Cheryl McIntosh 12, Janet Robinson 11, Elizabeth Craig, Sharon Frederick 6, Dianna Morris 2, Judy Hilliard 12, Janet Bailey. Total 46.

University of Victoria—Gail Bonner 2, Ann Elliott, Mavis Fishleigh, Marilyn Rice 9, Sylvia Campbell 21, Sue Kelly, Mary Pearson 8, Diane Wilson, Clare Johnson 2, Bernie Clemenhaga 4. Total 46.

Kelowna Builds Up Commanding Lead

KELOWNA (CP)—Kelowna Teddy Bears Friday night took a commanding lead in the B.C. senior B women's basketball final when they defeated Victoria Traflagars, 55-35, in the opening game.

Both clubs exchanged basket-for-basket in the first half with the Teddy Bears holding a 29-21 half time lead.

Employing a fast break out of a tight zone in the final half, the Teddies outscored the Island team 26-14 to grab a 20-point win.

Heading the scoring for Kelowna was sharp-shooting guard Shirley Tataryn who hit the hemp for 20 points. Nita Wood hit the basket for 12 points to lead Victoria.

As a result, Kelowna will carry a 20-point lead into tonight's second game of the two-game, total-point series.

HIGH-SCORING centre with Arena Cougars, Paul Bion will lead junior mates against Dorman Cavaliers. Sunday afternoon (4:30 p.m.) game at Memorial Arena is third and deciding game of Victoria Hockey League's best-of-three semifinal.

Deadline for entries in the women's 16th annual Good Friday tournament at Gorge Vale Golf Club has been set for March 21.

Entries for the event, open to all golfers with CLGU handicaps, should be submitted to the Gorge club.

A DRIVING FORCE . . . '. . . AS MUCH AS SEX'

Chancellor Shrum Supports Sports

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's athletes should stay in Canada, says Dr. Gordon Shrum.

The flow of young men to United States colleges for expert instruction can be stopped, he says, and he plans to do so as chancellor of the new Simon Fraser University.

Dr. Shrum, in an interview Friday, said he will press for three things at Simon Fraser when it opens next year—athletic scholarships, top-flight coaches, hired from the U.S. at first, tutorials for athletes as necessary.

"We will have three faculties—arts, science and education. Education will be a large and important faculty because we will be training teachers for our B.C. schools. It is imperative then that we have the best training program and facilities in physical education."

Dr Shrum said it is a serious mistake to underestimate the importance of physical fitness in early life.

"I don't say that athletics is the panacea for all our problems, but I feel that, in young people, athletics are as much as driving force as sex."

He said the U.S. is draining off more than athletic talent.

"These people, all of them, can make an important contribution. Most of them become physical education teachers but there are limited job opportunities for them in Canada. Many more become doctors and engineers, people we need. To keep them, we must encourage them."

Government funds could not be used for athletic scholarships but Dr. Shrum said he is sure outside funds would be available.

"I would not lower our academic standards but for any athlete capable of doing university work, I am in favor of scholarships and bursaries."

Until Canadians grow in coaching experience Americans will have to be imported for the job, he said.

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY

Since it is getting near playoff time, teams are a little more cautious in their play than they are at the start of the season.

Early in the season everybody's trying to get a few goals and a few wins to get the pressure off and they more or less throw caution to the winds. I think the scoring tends to be a little higher then for that reason.

Now that playoff positions are at stake, I'm staying back as anchor man when we have the puck in our opponent's zone, if the puck is on the left side of the net.

Our centre, Alex Delvecchio, will be on the play at all times. And our left wing, Parker MacDonald, goes in to help him, whereas I pull up just inside their blue line where I can move in to get a quick shot.

* * *

At the same time, I'm in position if they get possession, so that I can check, or come back on the play and have at least one side checked.

If three men break out, there'll be a man-on-man situation right away, since the defencemen each have a man and I'll take care of the odd winger.

On occasion, we'll try something different and confuse them a little. We'll send all three forwards in and work like crazy, just throw caution to the winds.

* * *

Then when the next line takes over, they'll be instructed to send only one man in. You try to get the opposition thinking, confuse them.

We have another play which we call a playoff play. When they get possession, our centreman doesn't even bother to backcheck. He comes out of their end and drops behind our defencemen, possibly even standing alongside our goalie, Terry Sawchuk.

If the other team is throwing the puck in as soon as they get it over the red line, then our centre gets possession of it. If it looks like they're going to carry it in, then he moves up and fills the gap, maybe gets a chunk of the puck carrier.

SUPPORT NEEDED

Game Body Urges Strong Parks Act

Spring is getting ready to bust out all over and things are bustling around the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association.

Much of the activity concerns improvement of facilities at the club's Goldstream property and making plans for what promises to be one of the most interesting summer seasons in the club's history.

Among the busy sportsmen this week were members of the club's conservation committee, who drew up a brief asking support of the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs in a campaign to persuade the government to take a new look at B.C.'s much-criticized parks policy.

Here is the proposal being sent by the VFGPA to the B.C. Federation:

"The Conservation Committee of the Victoria Fish and Game Club hereby submits the following points with respect to parks policy:

"1. A strong 'Parks Act' is definitely required. This act should set forth definite policies for the administration and maintenance of parklands, the protection of parklands and should actually designate wilderness areas within existing parks.

"2. Wilderness areas within the province should be established. The total area of these wilderness areas should not be less than the present total areas of all Class "A" parks. In particular, it is submitted that the whole of Strathcona Park should be designated as a wilderness area.

"3. The use of parks generally should be governed by the principals of "optimum recreational use" rather than the so-called "multiple use" concept which many foresters and politicians seem to favor. The dominant or primary use of a park is recreation and this use should be expressedly guaranteed by the proposed statute.

"4. Parklands should be specifically excluded from the operation of any other statutes pertaining to the use of natural resouces, e.g.: The 'Minerals Act,' 'Water Act,' 'Highways Act,' etc. As an example, it is possible under the 'Minerals Act' for a man to prospect and stake claims anywhere in the province.

"5. The practice of disposing of parklands and park timber in exchange for potential parklands is open to abuse and should be discontinued.

"6. No further sales of park timber should be made, no mineral claims or mineral leases should be granted in any park nor should any parklands be alienated in any way until the proposed 'Parks Act' has been passed."

* * *

Sunday will be a big day for juniors at the club's Goldstream grounds.

All juniors who passed the junior safety training course last fall and those who graduated last month are invited to take part in the "Free Shooter" they were promised. The youngsters will have a chance to fire five types of shotguns and .22 rifles.

Money for the Junior Safety Training Program comes mainly from an outdoor movie sponsored by the club each year and this time the VFGPA has obtained one of the best wildlife films available.

It is titled "The Last Wilderness" and the color film is filled with spectacular views of big game animals and mountain scenery. It was filmed by Roy D. Clark, who will be narrator when the film is shown March 20 and 21 at Victoria High School auditorium at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at most sporting goods stores.

* * *

This month's general meeting, scheduled Monday at 8 p.m. should be an interesting one for bird-hunters. Guest speaker will be biologist Fred Zuickel, who will discuss blue grouse.

Diploma-Reaching Students on Time

Vikings, Chiefs Advance to Final

By ERNIE FEDORUK

They give away diplomas in May — not October — so University of Victoria students move accordingly.

That's how it is with the Vikings' hockey team.

And that seems to be one reason why Vikings find themselves in the Esquimalt District Hockey League final with the defending champion Pontiac Chiefs.

The league's best-of-five payoff series starts Tuesday at the Sports Centre.

Vikings passed their semifinal test Friday, edging Queen's Own Rifles 5-4 in a riotous, wing-ding affair that kept a standing-room-only crows on its feet until the final second. Chiefs reached the final via the shutout route, defeating Navy 4-0 in the opener of the Sports Centre doubleheader.

The double-barrelled offering drew 1,897 customers to Esquimalt's favorite 1,750-seat rink.

The Viking-Army shenanigans left 'em limper than last week's flapper pie.

Vikings showed plenty of promise at the start of the year but weren't regarded as a powerhouse. In the playoffs, however, the students suddenly seemed to mature.

DEFENCES PLUGGED

Especially noticeable has been the performances of defencemen Danny Buie and Jim Haggerty, backing up the always-steady Doug Bamberough. Winger Les Johansen came out, and the play of Glen Vickers improved to add depth to a Viking attack that previously had been centered around Glyn Harper, captain Bob Wilson and Ted Sarkissian.

Harper and Wilson each scored two goals Friday while Johansen rammed in the other.

Vikings led 4-1 after two periods but Army twice charged back to within a single goal. Thanks to some fine defensive play, coupled with several key stops by goalie Ted Hurd, the Rifles couldn't get closer.

In the first game, Chiefs scored two goals from faceoffs in the Navy zone. They seemed to take the heart out of a Navy attack that overwhelmed Pontiacs in the first period.

Navy's cause suffered further damage midway in the last period when scoring king Ken Maxwell suffered a possible broken wrist. X-rays were to be taken later today to determine the full extent of his injury.

PITCHING from GRASSY LIES
WHEN THE BALL LIES IN A GRASSY BANK NEAR THE GREEN'S EDGE, PLAY IT AS FOLLOWS:
① USUALLY THE BALL WILL BE SITTING UP FAIRLY WELL, SO LET THE SWING FOLLOW THE GENERAL SLOPE OF THE BANK — THAT IS, SWEEP THE BALL UP. THIS BRINGS IT OUT SOFTLY AND STOPS IT QUICKLY. SWING HARDER THAN IS NORMAL TO COMPENSATE FOR A HIGHER TRAJECTORY.
② THE SWEEPING METHOD LESSENS THE COMMON TENDENCY TO STICK THE CLUB IN THE GROUND BEHIND THE BALL. HOWEVER, IF THE BALL IS IN A HOLE, THERE IS NO CHOICE BUT TO HIT RIGHT INTO THE BANK. OPEN THE CLUBFACE AND SWING ALMOST AS IF THE LIE WERE FLAT. BE SURE TO STRIKE THE BALL FIRST.

Aussie Cashes In On Nicklaus' Tips

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Aussie Bruce Devlin, playing with some tips from American Jack Nicklaus, shot a sizzling second-round 64 Friday and grabbed a four-stroke lead at the halfway mark in the $25,000 St. Petersburg Open golf tournament.

The eight-under-par round came within a stroke of the record for the 6,215-yard Lakewood Country Club course. His 36-hole total was 133.

Four strokes back at 137 were Bob Shave and defending champion Raymond Floyd. Shave shot a 67 and Floyd 69.

Tied at 138 were Dave Hill, Billy Maxwell, Joe Campbell, Dave Ragan, Julius Boros, Juan Chi Chi Rodriguez, first-round leader Bob Harrison, Duke Gibson, Billy Farrell and Don Fairfield.

Nicklaus came in with a 69 for a 36-hole total of 140.

Al Balding of Toronto, was one of 20 competitors tied at 143. Balding added a 75 to his first-round 68.

Failing to survive the cut were Jerry Magee of Toronto, 69-75—144; Al Johnston of Montreal, 76-73—149, and Jack Bissegger of Val Morin, Que., 81-72—153.

Mike Krak, who shared the first-round lead with Harrison at 67, carded a 75 Friday and faded to 142, nine strokes behind Devlin.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Latest Outlook Rosier

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. business outlook took on a rosier hue this week.

It already was good but new estimates and reports enhanced it.

The stock market took note and advanced to a series of historic highs

The major developments:

—A prediction that U.S. business will increase its investment in new plant and equipment by 10 per cent this year.

—A survey indicated that consumer confidence reached a seven-year peak in the last three months.

—Manufacturers expect a steady rise in sales through June.

—Retail sales in February increased one per cent over January and four per cent over a year earlier.

SEES HIGHER SPENDING

Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges said business capital spending was expected to hit $43,200,000,000 this year, up $4,000,000,000 from 1963. This was more than double the increase from 1962 to 1963. It will be the third consecutive year that business investment has risen.

Hodges said the recent income-tax cut was a factor in the plans of business men to boost their spending.

Business investment is considered a major indicator of the economy's course because it creates new jobs.

A University of Michigan survey indicated consumers are in a mood for spending. The study called the income-tax cut "a positive factor." However, the report said the January survey showed consumers' plans to buy automobiles were lower than a year earlier.

The commerce department said a survey indicated that sales by manufacturers would increase $2,100,000,000 in the first half of this year.

SALES RISE

Retail sales in February rose to $18,500,000,000. A commerce department survey indicated that manufacturing and trading businesses expect sales to increase six per cent this year.

The automobile business went ahead with high production as if it hadn't heard any indication that softness might develop in sales. It turned out an estimated 164,700 passenger cars this week, up from 161,536 last week and 151,140 a year ago.

Assemblies for the year rose to 1,747,185 against 1,621,099 at this time last year.

Steel output ran into a minor setback last week for the first time in 10 weeks. Mills produced 2,312,000 tons of ingots, off about one per cent from the previous week.

However, demand for steel remained strong and industry sources expected gains in production and shipments this month and probably through April.

Lumbermen, IWA Fire Salvoes

VANCOUVER (CP) — Representatives of B.C. lumber companies picked holes in IWA demands as the two groups fired preliminary salvoes Friday on the eve of contract negotiations.

The union said it will ask for a 40-cent hourly increase over the basic $2.08 an hour when the contract meeting opens Monday.

"The wage bill paid by employers has substantially dropped in a five-year period while production has risen to an all-time high," the union said, claiming the work force has decreased 12 per cent.

The IWA said this was one factor that resulted in "astronomical profits of the employers" which the union estimates at a gross of more than $170,000,000 for 1963.

"Our proposed wage increase is not more than 15 per cent of these profits."

John Billings, president of Forest Industrial Relations, which represents the companies, termed the union's wage demand "incredibly high."

"A very great part of recent extra earnings of some companies . . . comes from the undependable source of a temporary premium on the U.S. dollar," he said. "Exchange rates fluctuate and British Columbia could lose today's advantage almost overnight.

Profits Down

CALGARY (CP) — Royalite Oil Co. Ltd. had net earnings of $2,653,467 in 1963, down $35,487 from the previous year.

The company's annual report said Royalite net crude oil and condensate production amounted to 1,637,726 barrels and gas production to 13,444,840,000 cubic feet.

Sales of refined products to all customers totalled 129,300,000 gallons, with gasoline, heating oil and diesel fuel sales through Royalite outlets increased by 7 per cent.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Copper Price Increase Will Aid Mines in B.C.

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Gordon Bell

The break-through in the long-standing 31-cent-a-pound (U.S.) copper price, initiated by the African producers and followed up by Anaconda Copper and American Smelting and Refining, will add enormously to the profitability of producing B.C. copper properties and could spur the rapid development of properties not yet in operation.

The significant thing to be watched in connection with the copper price rise will be the aluminum market, where a cent-a-pound price increase in the world market was pushed through by Aluminium Ltd. a week ago. It was this boost, as much as the continuing upward pressure on copper prices, that released the African producers from their long-standing pledge to hold the line on the red metal.

* * *

Copper and aluminum are highly competitive in many applications, particularly in the electrical conductor field, and when one metal gains a price advantage over the other users tend to switch over. The big copper producers in Africa, and to a lesser extent in Chile, have feared that a boost in copper prices before the aluminum producers made a move would only result in a loss of markets.

There is no general agreement, apparently, among metals market experts, as to whether the aluminum producers can hold their price rise. Paradoxically, at the same time the increase was announced, there were a number of price wars going on in various parts of the U.S. in fabricated aluminum, particularly in the siding field. There is also no shortage of aluminum to justify the price increase and the possibility that foreign producers will not go along must be kept in mind.

* * *

The point is that if the aluminum increase cannot be sustained it is unlikely that the copper increase will be either.

Just how difficult the aluminum business has been was outlined in the annual report of Aluminium Ltd. which revealed that net income for 1963 declined to $32,700,000 from $37,800,000 the previous year. This was despite an increase in sales and operating revenues to $670,000,000 in 1963 from 1962's $559,000,000.

Subsidiary Aluminum Co. of Canada had net income of $21,900,000, down $5,200,000 from 1962, despite an increase in sales and revenues of $48,700,000 to a record $415,300,000.

* * *

While the outlook for Aluminium will be brighter this year if the cent-a-pound increase is held, it must still be remembered that two years ago the metal was selling at a cent higher than the present price and three years ago at 3 cents higher than present. Also to be considered is the increase in world production capacity of aluminum.

Speaking of Aluminium's reduced earnings last year, president Nathaniel V. Davis said they could "only be termed disappointing in relation to invested capital" and to the record sales volume.

Earnings per common share after allowing for dividends on the new convertible preferred issue were $1.08 compared with $1.23 for 1962.

* * *

Annual report of Trans-Mountain Oil Pipe Line shows that despite the high level of business activity in B.C. last year, Vancouver oil refineries were less active than in 1962.

As a result of this, as well as the loss of revenues caused by introduction of B.C. oil from the Western Pacific Products and Crude Oil Pipe Line for the relatively short Kamloops-Vancouver haul, earnings for the year were down by 12.1 per cent.

The earnings for the year were $7,020,992 or 93.3 cents a share compared with $7,961,918 or $1.06 a share in 1962.

The picture is somewhat brighter for the first quarter of this year despite a lower throughput of B.C. crude which averaged 28,739 barrels daily during 1963 and is estimated at about 25,000 barrels daily at the present time.

Increased deliveries to the U.S. have boosted throughput for the first quarter this year to 221,000 barrels daily, an increase of about 10,000 barrels over the first quarter last year.

* * *

Both in numbers and total liabilities involved, bankruptcies showed a heavy increase in Canada last year.

The bureau of statistics reports that the number was up by 15.3 per cent—from 3,190 to 3,678—while liabilities rose from $149,440,000 to $193,771,000.

In B.C. the number of bankruptcies declined from the previous year—from 109 to 93—but the liabilities involved were up from $7,083,000 to $7,757,000. Quebec had the largest number of failures at 1,987 followed by Ontario with 1,390.

$20 Million Borrowed From Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—The Federal Reserve Bank of New York borrowed $20,000,000 from Canada late last year to counteract speculative pressures in the exchange market, Bank of Canada Governor Louis Rasminsky reported Friday.

He made the statement in commenting on the $250,000,000 reciprocal currency arrangement the Bank of Canada and the Federal Reserve Bank which was placed on a standby basis at the end of 1962.

Mr. Rasminsky said the value of this arrangement has been demonstrated several times, the most recent being the assassination of President Kennedy last November.

"At that time the federal Reserve acted quickly to reduce the risk of disorder by drawing various currencies, including Canadian dollars, under its credit arrangement with central banks and selling these currencies against U.S. dollars in the New York market," he said. "The uneasiness about the U.S. dollar in foreign exchange markets soon disappeared and the drawing on the Bank of Canada was fully repaid in mid-December.

Columbia Prepared To Compete

TERRACE (CP)—Columbia Cellulose Ltd. is willing to reduce is tree farm licence application in northern B.C., company president Paul M. Marshall has announced.

It would do this in order to compete for pulp mill wood supplies with MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., proposing a mill for Kitimat.

Columbia's existing application would supply two-thirds of the wood required for its Prince Rupert mill. The application by MacMillan, Bloedel would supply less than 40 per cent of the Kitimat mill's requirement.

Asked whether Columbia would be prepared to proceed with only 40 per cent of its wood requirement secured by a tree farm licence and compete for the remainder on an open market, Mr. Mashall said: "Yes."

Sawlogs would be released to private operators.

Mr. Marshall said he feels there is enough capacity to justify building both mills, adding that a tree farm licence is only a feasible method of arranging necessary financial backing.

The Columbia Cellulose kraft mill at Prince Rupert would cost $70,000,800 and MacMillan Bloedel would spend $86,000,000 on its Kitimat pulp mill.

WEEK ON MARKETS

Metals, Speculatives Feature

By IAN MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Activity in junior and senior metals and renewed interest in a select range of speculative mines were the main features on Canadian stock markets this week.

The big news as far as metals were concerned came Friday with the announcement that American Smelting and Refining Co. had increased the price of copper by one cent to 32 cents a pound, effective immediately.

This move followed price increases of African and Chilean copper from 29½ cents to 30½ cents a pound. U.S. copper prices have been steady at 31 cents since May, 1961, but Anaconda Co., third biggest American producer, followed American Smelting's lead after markets had closed Friday.

Copper issues on Canadian markets reacted strongly to the price boost with most of them surging ahead to establish new highs for the year. International Nickel touched $80.25, Hudson Bay Mining $67 and Noranda Mines $45.13.

Junior issues also moved higher, Opemiska closing Friday in Toronto at $9, Campbell Chibougamau at $4.95 and Lake Dufault at $9.95. Trading was heavy throughout.

NORTHCAL GAINS

In the speculative sector, Northcal made gains on heavy turnover. The company is exploring properties in Greece under an agreement with Placer Development. Unisphere, with a similar agreement, was active and higher.

Calvert Gas and Oils, the second heaviest trader for the week in Toronto, continued to advance. The company is renewing its interest in mine exploration with a drill test on Gaspe copper property.

One enigma as far as Toronto was concerned was Cowichan Copper, which hit a two-year low of 43 cents after it went into bankruptcy and removed from the board in Vancouver. It closed Friday at 44½ cents.

Turning to the industrial board, Canadian Collieries generated interest following the announcement that U.S.-controlled Western Plywood Co. intends to make a takeover offer of $13 a share. The Canadian company sold at $12.50 at one point before slipping back to $12.13 by week end.

Dominion Foundries and Steel continued to set new highs with rumors of a stock-split still in the air. The Hamilton company is planning a 30-per-cent increase in primary hot rolling capacity and is predicting a further good year in 1964.

OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Meanwhile economic indicators remained bright with higher earnings and dividends for the first quarter reported by a number of the larger corporations. Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp also has reported public and private investment in Canada this year will be up eight per cent from 1963. The only cloud on the horizon as far as brokers are concerned is the federal budget due Monday, but no predictions are being made.

Volume in Toronto was 17,515,761 shares compared with 16,345,926 last week. Value was $51,259,110 compared with $53,089,807.

On index in Toronto, the Exchange index rose 1.25 to 133.07, industrials 1.29 to 141.87, base metals 1.26 to 66.23; western oils .69 to 83.59 and golds slipped .32 to 135.24.

In Montreal, industrials traded 1,148,999 shares compared with 1,005,999 last week and mines traded 3,900,511 shares compared with 2,675,631.

On index in Montreal, industrials advanced 0.9 to 137.6, utilities 0.8 to 122.5, banks 1.8 to 120.7, composite 1.4 to 133.2 and papers dipped 0.1 to 121.3.

Collieries Keeps Name Despite Sale

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian Collieries Ltd. will retain its name, corporate identity and present management if its shares are bought by an American-owned firm, John Bene, president of Western Plywood, said Thursday.

He made the statement in denying reports Western Plywood, owned by U.S. Plywood Co., might absorb Canadian Collieries and destroy the firm's historic provincial identity.

"It is our plan that Canadian Collieries will remain a corporate entity as a subsidiary of Western Plywood," Mr. Bene said.

"It may not even be a wholly-owned subsidiary as some of its shares may remain in the hands of the public.

"But we consider its management efficient and we are satisfied with its corporate structure."

Western Plywood plans to offer $13 per share for outstanding Collieries stock. It was also planned to reconstitute Western Plywood's capital and to offer at least 25 per cent to Canadians.

Great Plains Shows Gain in Profits

CALGARY (CP)—Great Plains Development Co. of Canada Ltd. had net income of $659,231 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1963, compared with $193,851 in 1962. Revenue increased to $5,411,449 from $2,933,257. Working capital increased to $9,101,613 compared with $6,883,560 "primarily due to the $3,500,000 cash payment received from Burmah Oil Co. Ltd., L. W. MacNaughton said.

ALL THE WAY WITH LBJ —IN PAPUA, THAT IS

PORT MORESBY (Reuters) — Papua-New Guinea election officials are having trouble with the people of New Hanover Island—they want to vote for President Lyndon Johnson.

New Hanover is a tiny island off the north coast of New Ireland in the trust territory of New Guinea which is administered by Australia.

A native affairs officer said today that no amount of persuasion by election officials could make the natives change their minds.

The trouble was believed to have been caused by visiting U.S. air force personnel who recently visited the island and jokingly told natives Johnson was the best man to vote for.

Counting in the territory's first general elections starts next Wednesday after a polling period lasting 4½ weeks.

MLAs Like New Civic Voting Day

An amendment to the Municipal Act changing municipal election day from Thursday to Saturday is expected to win the full approval of the House.

There was no opposition to the proposed change when a bill to amend the act was approved in principal by the members Friday.

Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black said "Saturday elections" had the full approval of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

He said it would not effect Vancouver because the city had a separate charter.

Arthur Turner (NDP-Vancouver-East) said the change of day would help to stimulate an interest in municipal affairs.

"Interest in municipal affairs is at low ebb," he said. "Either we have a low level of municipal administration or the people are not interested in their affairs."

SPECIAL COURSE

Mr. Turner also suggested the department set up a special course on municipal affairs for newly-elected councillors.

"This would give them a better understanding of their duties," he said.

Mr. Black said he would consider the suggestion.

In submitting the bill for second reading, Mr. Black noted that one of the amendments allows lower taxes for golf courses, providing the owners agreed to maintain such open spaces for at least 10 years.

"This is to encourage green belts in cities," he said.

Crossing Crash Kills 4 CNR Men

OTTAWA (CP)—Five men, including four CNR maintenance employees and a federal civil servant, were killed in the Ottawa district Friday in two railway level crossing accidents.

The four CNR employees died when their railway handcar collided with an automobile at a railway crossing in nearby Nepean Township. The fifth man was killed when the car in which he was a passenger was struck by a CPR passenger train at a level crossing in west-end Ottawa.

NOT LESS THAN $50,000

Minimum Car Insurance Up

Automobile insurance minimums will be boosted to $50,000 in 18 months.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner Friday introduced legislation putting the new minimum coverage into effect on July 1, 1965.

The 18-month delay will allow motorists and insurance companies to adjust policies, he said. Present minimum is $35,000.

The necessary changes in the Insurance Act and the Motor Vehicle Act were presented to the legislature.

People who have to file proof they carry insurance will get an extra year's grace before the limits go up.

Mr. Bonner said only about 15 per cent of B.C.'s drivers carry less than $50,000 insurance at present.

Nine other bills were introduced.

Main one is a complete overhaul of the Petroleum and Natural Gas Act.

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said he will not seek second reading of the bill until next year's session. This will give the industry plenty of time to discuss it.

One major change affects lease rental agreements and exploratory drilling.

At present companies are allowed a reduction from $1 to 25 cents an acre on rental leases where they carry out exploration.

The new bill allows a reduction of only 50 cents.

The change affecting drilling doubles the number of units allowed from 144 to 288.

Another bill, amending the Laws Declaratory Act, is aimed to give sub-contractors an easier time filing claims against bonds when major contractors default.

A change in the Private Detectives Licensing Act allows employment of temporary investigators without being bonded or fingerprinted.

The Public Utilities Act will be changed to bring utilities under the Securities Act.

The Pharmacy Act and Chiropractors Act are to be changed allowing druggists who are not Canadian citizens to be licensed provided they have satisfactory training and chiropractors who are not British subjects to join the Canadian Chiropractic Association.

Royal Tour Opposed

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal St. Jean Baptiste Society has approved a resolution opposing the Queen's scheduled visit to Canada next fall.

SOCIALISTS DEMAND NEHRU QUIT

NEW DELHI (AP)—Ten thousand demonstrators paraded through New Delhi behind the red banner of socialism Friday, shouting demands that ailing Prime Minister Nehru resign. "Nehru is paralyzed, the government is paralyzed," the demonstrators shouted.

The demonstration was organized by the Indian Socialist party ostensibly to protest the rising cost of living. But it quickly took an anti-Nehru turn.

Nehru, 74, has withdrawn from public life since suffering a stroke Jan. 7. Most of his duties are being handled by subordinates, and some of his closest advisers are manoeuvring to succeed him.

Ill Winds Blow Next Friday For Diabetics

Twelve Victoria firms have been asked to make donations to the national appeal for funds being launched by the Canadian Diabetic Association next Sunday.

The association hopes to raise $200,000 between March 15 and 31. The money will be used for research, diet counselling services, camps for diabetic children, diabetic senior citizens, education and information.

The Victoria branch will put on a dance at the Crystal Garden next Friday from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. to raise funds for the Camp Kopje diabetic children's camp.

The Ill Winds, a 15-piece orchestra composed largely of medical men, will play for dancing.

William McColl, convener of the dance, can be contacted at EV 5-1471. He asks that donations to the national fund be sent to the Canadian Diabetic Association, 477 Mount Pleasant Road, Toronto 7.

Chilliwack Votes Wet

CHILLIWACK (CP)—After three plebiscites Chilliwack has finally approved service of liquor in lounges and dining lounges. More than 70 per cent of the 4,695 registered voters voted in Thursday night's plebiscite. Similar plebiscites were defeated in 1959 and 1961.

Canada Awaits Word On Algerians

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration minister Tremblay said in the Commons Friday his department is awaiting word from the French government on a proposal to establish a group of French-speaking Algerian settlers in a rural area of Canada.

He did not say how many immigrants would be involved in the plan or where they would settle. Several provinces had promised co-operation in locating farms and extending loans.

The French government was considering considerable assistance to pay displacement costs for the Algerian families, now living in France.

IONA MONAHAN puts finishing touches to a wedding dress worn by a Montreal model.

COMPETITION FOR PARIS

Telescope Examines Montreal Fashions

In the highly-competitive, temperamental, ever-changing world of high fashion, four Montreal designers are giving the traditional leaders in Rome and Paris a run for their money.

On Friday, 9:30 p.m., CBC's Telescope will visit their fashion houses and examine their world of haute couture through the eyes of Iona Monahan, fashion editor of The Montrealer magazine.

Marie-Paule Nolin is the best-known of the four. Miss Monahan says her elegant sense of style has a completely Canadian identity.

She has bought an old warehouse in the centre of the Montreal fish market and converted it into a charming salon with her living quarters on the top floor.

Young, bearded Mario Di Nardi is a designer whose creations are zestful and, say women—"fun to wear." Telescope visits his studio located in an old country church and listens to his theory on designing.

Although Marielle Fleury's boutique was burgled just before this Telescope program was filmed — all her clothes and fabrics stolen—her customers have rallied and lent recent Fleury creations for exhibit on the show.

The fourth member of the group, Michelle Robichaud, is a graduate of Paris fashion houses. Probably due to this training she produced what Miss Monahan calls "the closest thing to a Paris collection, in the truest sense of the word."

WEEKEND HIGHLIGHTS

TONIGHT

5:30: Channels 2, 6: NHL Hockey, Chicago at Montreal.

7:30: Channel 5: The Lieutenant. Lament for a Dead Goldbrick; a newspaper reporter demands an investigation into the accidental death of a marine—and accuses Lt. Rice of hounding the man into a fatal mistake. Gary Lockwood.

8:30: Channel 5: Hockey. Final period of the Seattle Totems clash with the front-running Denver Invaders.

Channel 7: The Defenders. Survival; a war hero is court-martialed for causing the death of a recruit.

9:30: Channel 4: Hollywood Palace. Groucho Marx welcomes Flatt and Scruggs, Steve DePass, the Three Young Men from Montana, Gayle Garnett and comedian Pat Harrington Jr.

SUNDAY

12:00: Channel 4: Challenge Golf. Challengers are Ted Kroll and Sam Snead.

2:30: Channels 7, 12: CBS Sports Spectacular. Game fishing and ski flying are featured.

3:30: Channels 2, 6: World of Golf. Dave Regan plays Bob Charles of New Zealand at Hawaii. (Also seen on Channel 5 at 4 p.m.)

4:30: Channel 12: Battle of '64. Charleton Heston and Paul Newman moderate a panel discussion of the current U.S. race problems.

5:30: Channel 6: Outer Limits. The Mutant; a scientist runs into trouble in outer space.

6:00: Channel 2: Andy Williams. Andy Griffith and Maureen O'Hara join Andy in a salute to St. Patrick.

7:00: Channel 8: Hallmark Hall of Fame. Little Moon of Alban; the famous Costigan Irish drama, starring Julie Harris and Dirk Bogarde.

8:00: Channels 2, 6, 7, 12: Ed Sullivan. Guests include Bert Lahr, Carmel Quinn, Jackie Vernon, Alan Gale, and Rolf Harris.

10:00: Channels 2, 6: Intertel. What Price Freedom; program on newly-independent Algeria as it strives to bolster its economy, strengthen its administrative structure and find a sure road into the future.

Channel 5: The Thousand-Mile Campus. A report on California's vast system of public higher education, showing the role and diversity of the state's tuition-free educational system.

Moore Has Made 5,500 Broadcasts

Garry Moore marked his 5,500th broadcast on the Garry Moore Show recently. His record, one of the longest in broadcasting, includes programs on both radio and television—such as Club Matinee in Chicago, Everything Goes in New York, weekly radio shows with Jimmy Durante from 1943 to 1948, host of Take It or Leave It and Breakfast in Hollywood. In June, 1950, Moore started a daytime television series that ran five days a week, until June 27, 1958. In September of the same year, he launched his current evening television show. I've Got a Secret made its debut in 1952, and his current radio show began in 1959.

FOR ST. PAT'S DAY

CBC Tours Ireland

"I've never seen Ireland filmed so beautifully," says expatriate Irishman Sean Mulcahy in describing Camera Canada's St. Patrick Day's salute to the emerald isle.

The program, entitled Horsemen Pass By, will be seen Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. on Channels 2 and 6.

Mulcahy, now living in Toronto, plays guide and host to singer George Murray and the Camera Canada audience, for this filmed tour of his native Ireland.

Beginning and ending in Dublin, Mulcahy, Murray and a CBC film crew spent 30 days travelling through the countryside.

PUCK FAIR

They visited such Irish institutions as the Puck Fair at Killorglin, the Blarney Stone in Blarney Castle and the grave of Irish poet W. B. Yeats in Drumcliffe Churchyard near Ben Bulben mountain.

The pair's visit to the annual Puck Fair at Killorglin is one of the highlights of the program. The fair is considered by most natives of County Kerry to be the most important holiday of the year — including Christmas. Pubs stay open continuously for 72 hours and cattle and horse dealers converge on Killorglin from all parts of Ireland.

NEW STATURE

Singer George Murray is well known to Canadians for his renditions of Irish songs on CBC radio and television. However his music takes on new stature in its native Irish setting. He sings Danny Boy, for instance, in Limavaddy, where it was written in 1851.

Sean Mulcahy, who devised and wrote the program, works as an actor, writer and director in Toronto and is a co-producer of the annual Shaw Festival at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

"With this program I've attempted to show Canadians the real Ireland," says Mulcahy, "not the Ireland of the travel posters and the Hollywood movies."

The Bard's Birthday Celebrated

By DAVE PIKE

TORONTO (CP)—A wealth of programming rich in drama, documentary and music, observing the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth, begins on the CBC next month with the network's own $100,000 production of Twelfth Night.

The comedy, which runs several minutes over two hours, was produced and directed by George McCowan, who directed The Tempest last year at Stratford, Ont. It will be telecast April 8.

Other highlights include the BBC's ambitious Hamlet and a repeat performance of the CBC's Othello, the Verdi opera that received critical acclaim when first telecast last season. Hamlet, to be telecast April 15 on the Festival series, was flimed at Kronborg Castle, Elsinore, Denmark, and stars Canadian Christopher Plummer.

'WONDERFUL,

The two-hour and 50-minute production is described by former Canadian TV producer Sydney Newman, now BBC-TV drama chief, as the "most wonderful, complicated and exacting production ever done for television."

CBC programmers originally wanted to pay homage to the Bard on a grander scale with a Hamlet, a Macbeth or a Lear, but McCowan disagreed, contending that the "big plays are too big for the tiny screen."

In a production, say, of Lear, the "ideas, emotionally and intellectually, and even the scope of the language, are too large for television."

He felt the "intimate kind of relationship of a play like Twelfth Night would have a better chance of getting across on this medium."

Describing it as a dark comedy, rather than a farce—the play revolves around mistaken identity and complicated love—McCowan decided to play Twelfth Night "quite straightforwardly to mark the contrast quite clearly between the ornate nobility and the gutter, to blend these two worlds essentially through comic figures."

FIFTY TONS

McCowan gave the setting—the indeterminate land of Illyria—a Venetian atmosphere. Fifty tons of water were hauled into the studio for canals.

Most of the cast principals are current or former members of Canada's Stratford Festival company. They include Douglas Campbell, one of the world's foremost players of Shakespeare's comic characters, as Sir Toby Belch, Douglas Rain, Bruno Gerussi, William Needles, Martha Henry and Michael Learned. There are about 35 cast members.

Othello, based on the Shakespearean tragedy, will be telecast April 22. Sung in English, it stars tenor Richard Cassilly in the title role, soprano Ilona Kombrink as Desdemona and baritone Louis Quilico as Iago. Ernesto Barbini conducts a full symphony orchestra and a chorus of 54.

CBC-TV's Horizon will carry a one-hour special, This Was a Man, April 12. Set in Stratford-on-Avon and London, England, it features off-camera readings from Shakespeare by Douglas Rain, Diana Maddox, Hugh Webster and Ruth Springford.

Foreign Ownership Studied In Four-Part CBC Series

The question of foreign investment and foreign ownership in Canada will be examined in a four-part series entitled Who Owns Canada? beginning Monday at 10:30 p.m. on CBC's Explorations.

"When I was travelling in Europe and Africa," says Herb Steinhouse, series supervisor, "I noticed that people were getting excited because foreign investment was reaching four to six per cent of their economy.

"And yet, here in Canada, foreign investment and control reaches over 60 per cent in manufacturing, and in some other industries up to 99 per cent."

By the time Parliament was debating last year's budget, and foreign investment was singled out as a priority problem, the decision was made to go ahead with the CBC television Explorations series Who Owns Canada?

Several researchers were soon hard at work, including Dr. Kari Levitt of McGill University and Robert Gibbens, financial writer with the Montreal Star.

The researchers were hampered by the lack of documented details and implications of foreign ownership. Writing a special series in the Toronto Daily Star last January, Martin Goodman said of his two months' research: "Perhaps the most significant feature of my interviews . . . was the pitiful lack of hard information about the effects of foreign investment."

The actual scripts for the programs were written by Steinhouse. He travelled across Canada, seeking graphic illustrations and interviews to tell the complex story.

Steinhouse said: "We filmed on locations ranging from paper factories and canneries to natural gas refineries, potash and asbestos mines and the Ford assembly lines; from posh executive suites in Montreal, Toronto, and New York to spartan union offices and university lecture rooms."

MICHAEL KANE

The next problem was to edit the mass of material without being superficial.

"How to simplify without over-simplifying?" Steinhouse's solution was to write scripts in the form of dramatic narratives.

Canadian-born actor Michael Kane, now living in England, was asked to play the role of "the narrators."

Each of his characters—be it a scientist, Montreal financier, Canadian intellectual, or well-meaning American tourist—was intended to represent a composite of the commonly held opinions.

Describing the final result, Steinhouse said, "it is about the viewer himself, his present and future; his stake in Canada and the steak on his table."

Part One of Who Owns Canada? is sub-titled How Much and Why?.

A week later, the program asks the question: Curse or Blessing?

YOUNG HOPE—Following in the footsteps of her famous father, Linda Hope selected Bob Hope's show on which to make her television debut.

Real Rubber Boot

Director Larry Dobkin insists on authenticity. In a recent 77 Sunset Strip episode, he instructed one of the extras examining used cars backgrounding a scene with Efrem Zimbalist Jr. to kick at the tires.

"There never was a used car lot without some tire kickers," explained the director.

IN U.S.:

Lush Meadows Become Parking Lots

"So much of the U.S. is being eaten up by the bulldozers that we wanted to get a picture of it all before it disappears," says producer Lou Hazam.

The picture is "American Spectacle," a special written and produced by Hazam for NBC Friday at 7:30 p.m. with Van Heflin as the narrator on and off-camera.

"Today scarcely an hour passes that we don't lose miles and miles of open space to the demands of our sprawling cities," says Hazam.

"Millions of pleasantly-wooded acres are annually consumed by the bulldozer. Streams once shining clear gradually become sewers, lush meadows become parking lots, and even the pure air becomes choking smog."

Hazam likes Emerson's statement: "The health of the eye demands a horizon."

"It is one of those eternal truths that is so easy to forget, especially today," Hazam says.

"I like to think this program will inspire in Americans a desire to preserve America from the steady encroachment of civilization. Paradise lost can never be regained."

The program will deal with the natural wonders of the U.S. from Cape Cod and Hatteras to Alaska and Hawaii.

Program Features Monday to Friday

You are invited to submit questions on insurance and similar matters for inclusion in this column. The origin of such queries is kept entirely confidential.
Q. I am going on a trip with a friend of mine in her car. What liability insurance do I need in case I had an accident while I was driving?
A. Your friend's auto policy automatically covers you while you are personally driving her car with her consent.
In case your friend's insurance were insufficient, your own policy would take effect.
Before leaving, it would be prudent to discuss the various policy clauses with your agent, or to ask Rithet's.

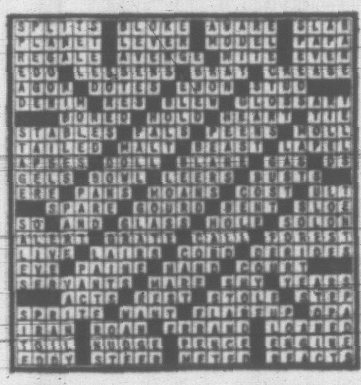
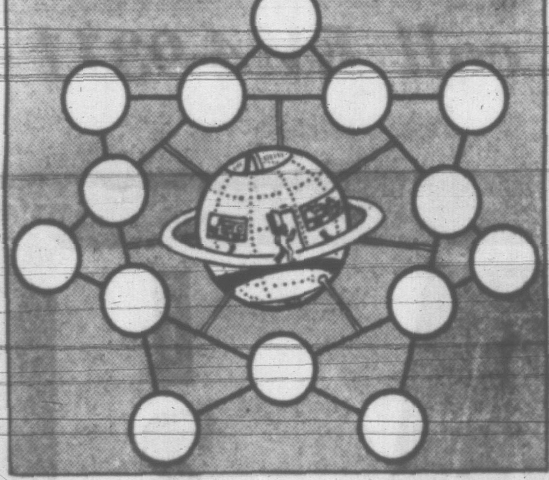
Answers to Previous Puzzle



Present a Balanced Platform?



Balance is an important factor in the functioning of the imaginary space platform pictured above. A balanced dispersal of numbers is to be attained in the following manner:

Insert numbers 1 through 14 in the outer circles so that each and every row of four circles (in a line) adds to 30.

How quickly can you comply?

As a starter, let it be known that the number in the top circlye is 5. Carry on—

Answer: L. to R., working downward—top circle 5; next line across 7, 11, 9, 3; next two 8, 12; next 6, 4; next 13, 14; centre bottom 10; then 2, 1.

FOR QUICK THINKERS

Said I. M. Quick: "I am thinking of a number which is twice as large as the number which is 4 more than one-third of the one I have in mind."

Quickly, what number does the speaker have in mind?

Try solving this in your head.

Answer: The second number referred to is one-third of the first and four more; this number is one-half of the one of which the speaker is thinking; two times the second is two-thirds of this number and 8; 8 being one-third, the number is 24.

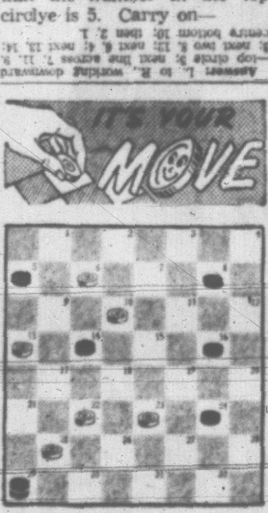
STOP-AND-GO DRAMA

At the first express stop, a third of the women bus passengers get off and their places are taken by men. At the next stop, a third of the men leave and their places are taken by women. There are now two more women than men passengers and as many men as there originally were women.

How many of each were there at the start of the journey?

Chances are, you'll need pencil and paper for this one.

Answer: There were fourteen men and twelve women.



You've heard of total annihilation—well, that 's the order of the day for the White side in this challenging checker contest. White checkers, moving up the board, to move and win in five moves is the problem. When the smoke of battle clears, Black's force is decimated and White is left with a single man. Ah, but what a man! It is the intrepid fellow who routed the entire enemy force.

Long-time checker champ Millard Hopper's solution is given below.

Solution: White 23-18, Black 14-23, White 13-9, Black 5-14, White 22-18, Black 29-22-15, White 6-2, Black 15-6, White 29-18-27-20-11-4.

TAKES AN HOUR

A clock that strikes the hours only has struck 21 in the last three hours. What time is it to the nearest hour? How quickly can you answer?

Remember, this unusual timepiece strikes only the hours themselves.

CUTTING THE SASH

Elise found a piece of silken sash at her grandmother's house. She was told she could keep it if she could tell how to cut it in two parts so that one length was exactly four-fifths of the other. The cord was 36 inches long. Where must it be cut?

Answer: One piece is sixteen inches, the other twenty inches.

STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

When the Sultan of Zanzibar was deposed recently it was surmised in this column that the two sets of stamps then current would very shortly be withdrawn, as both series showed the Sultan's portrait.

Sure enough, stamps of the revolutionary regime have now made their appearance, though the authorities have been rather more tolerant than might have been expected, for they have simply taken the remainders of the stamps on hand, which still show the Sultan's picture, and overprinted them.

The two series in question, it may be explained, are the regular definitive issue of 16 stamps running up to the £1, which came out in 1961, and the special set of four stamps issued on Dec. 10 last to celebrate "Independence."

A complication in connection with these surcharged sets has arisen due to the fact that part of the supply was overprinted in London, and distributed by the Crown Agents in the regular way, whereas another batch was overprinted locally, and are apparently going to be very hard to get hold of (which means, of course, that they will be expensive!)

Stamp collectors apparently must expect these irregular issues from former colonies and protectorates from time to time, until these territories settle down and acquire some measure of political stability.

* * *

Colonies which will participate in the "omnibus" issue to honor the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth are Antigua, Bechuanaland, Dominica, Montserrat, St. Lucia, British Virgin Is., Bahamas, Cayman Is., Falkland Is., Gambia, Gibraltar, and Turks Is.

One stamp from each will make up the series, and the denominations will average about 10 cents each in Canadian money.

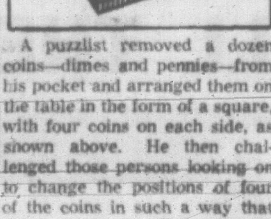
The design, common to all, shows a portrait of the bard, with Memorial Theatre in the background, and the Queen's likeness in the upper left corner.

* * *

Jamaica's current half-penny value shows a change in watermark, being now printed on the "Block C.A." paper. The Aden 1 sh. and 1sh.25 and the Basutoland 2½c show a similar change-over.

Incidentally, the 1 sh Fiji Cable commemorative overprint was made on a special printing which used the new paper, whereas the basic stamp without the overprint is still watermarked "Script C.A."

SQUARE DEAL?



A puzzlist removed a dozen coins—dimes and pennies—from his pocket and arranged them on the table in the form of a square, with four coins on each side, as shown above. He then challenged those persons looking on to change the positions of four of the coins in such a way that there would be five coins on each of the square's four sides. A spectator stepped forth to comply immediately. How did he do it?

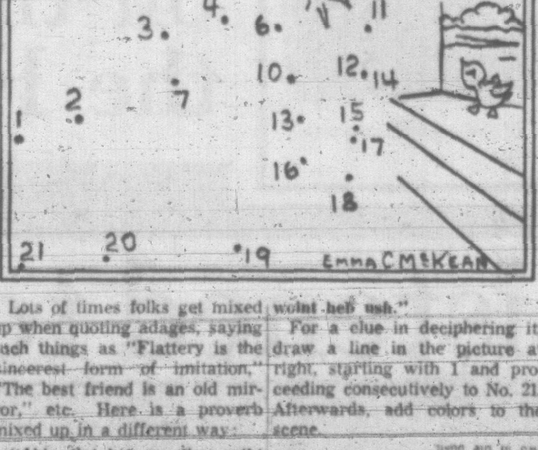
Answer: He placed coin 12 upon coin 1; coin 3 on coin 4; coin 6 on coin 7 and coin 9 on coin 10.

ANSWER IN 30 SECONDS

Father Time is generally pictured as a grey-haired old man carrying what two objects?

Answer: A scythe and an hour glass.

Old Saying Is on the Line



Lots of times folks get mixed up when quoting adages, saying such things as "Flattery is the sincerest form of imitation," "The best friend is an old mirror," etc. Here is a proverb mixed up in a different way:

"Abir dint.heb an disw orthi woint heb ush."

For a clue in deciphering it, draw a line in the picture at right, starting with 1 and proceeding consecutively to No. 21. Afterwards, add colors to the scene.

Solution: A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.

400 FANS TRIED HARD BUT MAYBE THEY NEEDED THE REAL THING

The Beatles Up Against DDT at Early Show

By PETE LOUDON

They shrieked valiantly, but the 400 Beatle fans couldn't drown out the statistics this morning at Memorial Arena.

There were 3,200 vacant seats when the countdown ended.

Alas! poor Beatles—today they met the DDT — Darn Difficult Time.

The Beatles came here direct from New York by taped closed circuit television and the plan was that they were to be simultaneously seen and heard by as many fans as saw the Liston-Clay fight.

Are the Beatles going the way of Sonny Liston?

Well, we'll hedge a bit and say maybe the $2.50 gate admission was too steep for their teen-age fans. Or maybe the 11:30 a.m. start was too early and the 2 p.m. showing would draw more.

The kids who did show were doing their best to preserve the magical-attraction image of the mop-headed quartet from Liverpool. The line-up outside the arena started at 7:30 a.m.

When the doors opened at 11:30 a.m., four hours later, there were 300 youngsters waiting, mostly girls huddled under umbrellas.

And when the door did open, they pushed and heaved and screamed and burst through in approved fashion, hitting the inside stairs on the dead run, flowing down the rink-side seats and over the boards to grab up the floor seats.

But there the excitement seemed to die, swallowed up by the vast empty coldness of the arena cavern. Isn't that what happened when the children followed the Pied Piper?

SEEPED THROUGH

The chill of the ice, covered by plywood, seeped through the bobby socks. Soon the mad chatter was heard only in the coffee bar where the popcorn and hotdogs at least, retained their drawing power.

Ah fickle youth! Arena manager Jack Morgan said if the show was available at $1.50 "they'd be hanging from the rafters." But the thought persists — a good bingo would outdraw Ringo.

Shirley Nelson, 17, of Oak Bay High, injured last week at school, came on crutches, one of the die-hards.

'ALL YOU HEARD'

"It was all you heard at school. I was determined to come," she said.

Frances Dodsworth, 15, same school, an usherette, said she had expected more students. But if she had been required to pay, she wouldn't be there either she admitted.

Well cool cats — back to the drawing board. Now if we can find a bald-headed trio that could perform under water . . .

BEATLE FANS didn't know it at 7:30 a.m., but there was really no need to line up so early for the Beatles taped closed circuit TV show at Memorial Arena today. There were eight seats for every waiting fan. Seen left to right, rear, are Lynn Forrester and Lynn Troutman. Front row: Edith Laik, Carol Nottingham, Susan Arnold and Linda Cormier. It was girls 20 to 1. (Strickland photo.)

VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1964—PAGE 17

Topics of the Day

Gale-force winds whipped Victoria at noon today, gusting to 52 mph.

Average wind speed was 37 but gusts up to 60 are expected to continue until late tonight.

Alternate periods of rain and clearing will prevail this weekend, weatherman Bill Mackie said today.

However, Victorians should consider themselves lucky. More than two inches of rain were recorded on the west coast of the Island during the past 24 hours.

Union Man Confirms Division on Tactics

David Chapman, chief shipyard union negotiator in the six-week strike, said today Victoria negotiators are responsible for a block in talks, but there is no split.

Mr. Chapman said there was no spite involved in trouble with the Victoria men, but "I don't think they had received authority from their members to negotiate."

He said that last week's fruitless talks with managements' representatives had contained no specific contract proposal.

"We just negotiate — they make an offer. They did suggest a four-year contract but that was no good."

Any further meetings, he said, will have to be arranged by chief conciliation officer Reg Clements.

"He told me there is not much chance of any meetings next week.

Win Dietrich Trophy

Saanich District 113, Junior Forest Wardens, have won the Fred Dietrich trophy in a provincial all-round proficiency competition.

The Saanich group was also named a runner-up in a provincial Forest Conservation Week activities competition.

OLDSTERS GRAB INTRUDER

Two octogenarians subdued and restrained a drunken sailor who broke into their Gorge Road home at 3 a.m. today.

The young man smashed his way into their house after leaping half-naked from a cab and disrupting the early morning sleep of a nearby apartment house.

In Saanich police court, Magistrate William Ostler told Larry Garnet Hyde, 630 Wilson, that he could have been charged with a variety of offences more serious than being drunk in a public place, to which Hyde pleaded guilty.

"You might have ruined your (navy) career, broken up your family and be ruined for life," the magistrate said, imposing a $50 fine instead of the customary $10.

POUNDING ON DOORS

Cpl. Robert Peterson told the court Saanich had a complaint from 311 Gorge, an apartment building, where someone was running up and down pounding on doors.

When police got there he had left, but as the prowl car drove off another call reached it.

H. D. Harris, 85, and S. T. MacCabe, 84, of 345 Gorge West, reported they were holding a shirtless man who broke a glass pane in the front door to burst into their home.

Police locked up Hyde pending a charge of wilful damage, which was substituted with the intoxication charge.

Hyde, in court, recollected nothing of the incidents, but police said he had muttered something about someone being after him.

He agreed to pay for damage.

Fire Loss $2,000 In Unoccupied Langford House

Damage estimated at $2,000 was caused by a fire which broke out in an unoccupied Langford house early Friday.

The house, at 2844 Peatt Road, is owned by A. R. Johnson, 1067 Goldstream. He was having it remodelled.

The fire destroyed the living room and caused smoke damage to the rest of the house.

A fire department spokesman said the fire broke out in a chesterfield at about 2:45 a.m.

Economists' Survey Of Milk Prices Proposed by MLA

Saanich MLA John Tisdalle today called for a special review of milk prices by an independent commission of economists.

He said the review should be made outside the authority of the B.C. Milk Board in hope of settling price problems now irking dairy farmers.

Mr. Tisdalle made his views public in an interview after Island Milk Producers' Organization appealed Friday for a boost in the prices paid milk producers.

IMPO president William Taylor of Central Saanich said he expected the boost, if granted, would mean a boost also in the price paid by consumers.

MORE FOR PRODUCER

Mr. Tisdalle said he is hopeful this could be avoided. He thinks a review of the pricing formula now maintained by the milk board might mean more for the producer, less for the distributor and leave the consumer paying for milk at the same level as now.

Mr. Tisdalle explained that the milk board formula for prices is based on fluctuations in labor and feed costs throughout B.C., among other factors.

"But something is wrong when the producer ends up being paid less for his product than he was paid in 1953.

"This is the reason so many dairymen are giving up and going into beef farming," he said.

He predicted a milk shortage in Canada if the trend continues.

UNREALISTIC

Mr. Tisdalle said the formula appears unrealistic because one of the basic costs considered in setting milk prices is the cost of farm labor generally in B.C.

But the formula should consider the costs of dairy farmers specifically, he states. He said dairy farmers' costs are a year-round drain on their resources while other forms of farming are of a seasonal nature.

Another factor considered, feed costs, also appears to work against the interests of the dairymen, he said.

PARK ABLAZE WITH EARLY SPRING COLOR

Spring is really busting out all over Beacon Hill Park, administrator W. H. Warren said Friday.

"Weeping willows are starting to turn green, plums and early cherries are in bloom and early flowering types of wallflowers, pansies, polyanthus and primroses are out," he said.

"Christmas Cheer rhododendron and the fragrant cream-colored Japanese andromeda are drawing attention these days.

"A few daffodils are coming out in the area of the Mayor's Grove. The main display on the south side of Beacon Hill is always later in blooming."

OWNER FLEES TRAILER FIRE AT COLWOOD

A Vancouver man escaped just in time when fire swept through his trailer at a Colwood trailer park at 6:30 this morning.

Ian Wilson suffered no injuries but his trailer and its contents were destroyed. Damage is estimated at $2,000. The trailer was insured.

The trailer was parked at the Waldorf Motel and Trailer Park, 314 Goldstream, owned by Jack Lock.

39 VEW 'UGLY TRENDS'

Housing Critics Brave Deluge

Thirty-nine men and women—and one infant—braved a downpour this morning in a two-hour walking tour designed to draw public attention to "ugly trends" in apartment construction.

The group gathered in a drizzle at the parking lot in Beacon Hill Park and, carrying placards, moved off on a three-mile trek through the James Bay area.

The drizzle turned into a drenching rainstorm which continued through most of the tour.

"Is this a peace march?" asked a man at the corner of Douglas and Government streets.

Far from it. The tour was organized by the capital region branch of the Community Planning Association of Canada with the object of drawing attention to the "progressive uglification" of James Bay.

"We are not against high-rises as such, but we feel they should be integrated with sensible planning," said Mrs. B. Levitz Packford, an executive member who organized the tour.

"The main thing is to arouse public interest," said Frank Crocker, treasurer of the capital region branch.

Youngest member of the group was one-year-old Michael Gray, who travelled in a stroller pushed by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Gray, 271 Michigan.

From Beacon Hill Park, the group moved through Toronto, Government, Marifield, St. Andrew's, Simcoe, South Turner, Niagara and Clarence streets to Belleville, where they stopped for coffee.

Later they attended a luncheon meeting in the Tally Ho Travelodge.

Experimental Wait-Walk Lights Installed Here

City traffic officials are experimenting with us again.

New wait-walk lights go in at Fort and Douglas Tuesday using symbols in place of words and varying the colors.

It's all part of a national research project by Canadian Good Roads Association and supported by the provincial government.

Recently, under the same program, walk-wait signs using Chinese word symbols were employed in Chinatown. The latest experiment will use a symbol of a walking man and an open hand to see if it proves simpler than "Go" and "Stop" or red and green.

The tests will be conducted for three days.

LIONS RALLY LARGEST

Empress Scheduled For 31 Conventions

Thirty-one conventions are booked at the Empress Hotel this year—in addition to the four which have already been held there since the New Year opened.

Largest of them all is the assembly of Lions Clubs from all regions of the Pacific Northwest which will bring more than 600 delegates to the hotel from May 26 to 30.

More than 400 will attend a convention of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the Rebecca Assembly from June 8 to 11 and 550 delegates are expected at the Pi Beta Phi fraternity gathering June 21 to 27.

A conference of the Air Transport Association of Canada Nov. 2-4 is expected to bring some 400 delegates to the city and the Oregon Bankers' Association well in excess of 250.

Newcomers to the convention scene in Victoria this year is the Tea and Coffee Association of Canada which will have 200 delegates at the Empress from Sept. 27 to 30.

SMALLEST ON RECORD

Smallest on record is that of the Canadian Securities Administrators—25 of them are meeting here Sept. 16 to 18.

Following is a complete list of the 1964 conventions:

Federation of Agriculture, Nov. 10-11; Association of Professional Engineers, Dec. 4-5.

PROGRAM BEHIND SCHEDULE

37 DAYS GONE—RECORD 45

Marathon House Session Surprises Legislators

By FRANK BUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

The B.C. legislature is heading for an unexpected marathon session.

Already the lawmakers have sat for 37 days since the session began Jan. 23.

The all-time record is 45 days, established in 1920 and equalled in 1962.

When the session began this year there were few predictions for fireworks or lengthy debates.

In fact, with a provincial election just over, there seemed to be few major issues.

The issues still haven't materialized, but the debate has been unusually lengthy.

Expectations of prorogation for next Friday now seem beyond the realm of possibility.

Late this week even the belief that everyone would be home by Easter took a dive.

The moment of truth came at 1:15 a.m. Friday when an angry Premier W. A. C. Bennett called off a marathon debate on parks policy.

An MLA said the premier told him afterwards in the corridor that there would be no more night sittings, and that the House might be adjourned before Easter until April 15 for a second sitting.

Asked about it Friday evening, Mr. Bennett replied: "No comment."

But Social Credit caucus members have been warned the sessional program is behind schedule.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan still holds out that it could all end in a rush next week.

But Social Crediters are less optimistic.

If things aren't wrapped up by Good Friday, March 27, it may prove essential to adjourn for a couple of weeks.

Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Robert Bonner are due in Ottawa March 31 for a federal-provincial conference.

Resources Minister Ray Williston and Mr. Bonner are also expected to appear before the national Parliament's external affairs committee early in April to testify about the Columbia River project.

Still to come before the House are the controversial social welfare department's estimates.

In addition, debate on the recreation department has been stalled until next Thursday when the minister, Kenneth Kiernan, returns from a trip to California to promote tourism.

Next week the House will discuss the lands, forests and water resources departments and public works.

There is also some legislation still to be debated.

It all points to a mighty rush to finish next weekend, but a possibility of winding up by March 25, which would equal the record.

DEAR ABBY . . .

It's a Thought!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 32-year-old widow with four boys to raise. I have no desire to marry again, but all my friends tell me my boys need a father. They are always arranging for me to meet this man and that man. I love my boys very much, and am raising them in a good Christian atmosphere. They are good boys, and I discipline them when they need it just as a father would do. I take in sewing and manage to keep my bills paid, so I don't need a husband to support us. I believe if the good Lord intends for me to have another husband, He will take care of it Himself. Do you think I should accept the company of men with marriage in mind just because people think my boys need a father, even though I don't think I need a husband?

SATISFIED.

DEAR SATISFIED: As a Christian you must know that the Lord said, "It is not good that man should be alone." (Genesis II, 18.) And the same goes for woman. God helps those who help themselves, and perhaps God is trying to help you through thoughtful friends.

DEAR ABBY: Have you any suggestions for getting our son to date a certain girl? This girl is charming, intelligent, has a wonderful personality, and would be an ideal match for our son. He is 25, but he seems to prefer the more glamorous, flirty type. We know that once he gets to know this girl, he would appreciate her fine qualities.

PARENTS.

DEAR PARENTS: I can't tell you how to get your son to date a certain girl, but I can tell you how to sour him on her before he even sees her. Just keep telling him how "good" she would be for him! Your best move would be to arrange for them to meet "accidentally." And let him "discover" her for himself.

DEAR ABBY: Our baby is only three months old. My husband's family is quite wealthy and they have spent a lot on gifts for her. I must admit there is a great deal our baby wouldn't have if it weren't for them. On the other hand, my parents barely make ends meet, and, though they would love to buy things for our baby, they can't afford to. Ours is the only grandchild on both sides, and both sets of grandparents are wild about her. But we don't want her to grow up thinking that because all the presents come from one set of grandparents the other set doesn't love her as much. What can we do about this? Or should we just keep quiet and teach our child that love means more than presents?

NEW PARENTS.

DEAR PARENTS: The affection of very young children is easily bought with gifts. It takes a mature mind to reason that "love" means more than presents. Your husband should explain this to his generous parents. They'll understand.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a man who comes into someone's home and sits the entire evening in the company of men and women without removing his hat? Thank you.

D. McC.

DEAR D.: He has either no manners, no hair, or a new hat.

Her Hobby Expensive Luxury

OTTAWA (CP) — Maureen Fidler doesn't like to tell her boy friends her favorite hobby is skeet-shooting.

"It's a fairly expensive sport and not too many college boys like to see their money explode in the air," says the attractive 19-year-old Carleton University student.

Although the cost of the shells varies from club to club, an afternoon's shooting may cost the skeet enthusiast as much as $5, counting the expense of ammunition and clay targets.

Besides, Miss Fidler would probably show up most of the boys. She is one of 25 Canadian women registered with the U.S. National Skeet Association and has prizes to prove her skill at shattering the targets as they fly through the air.

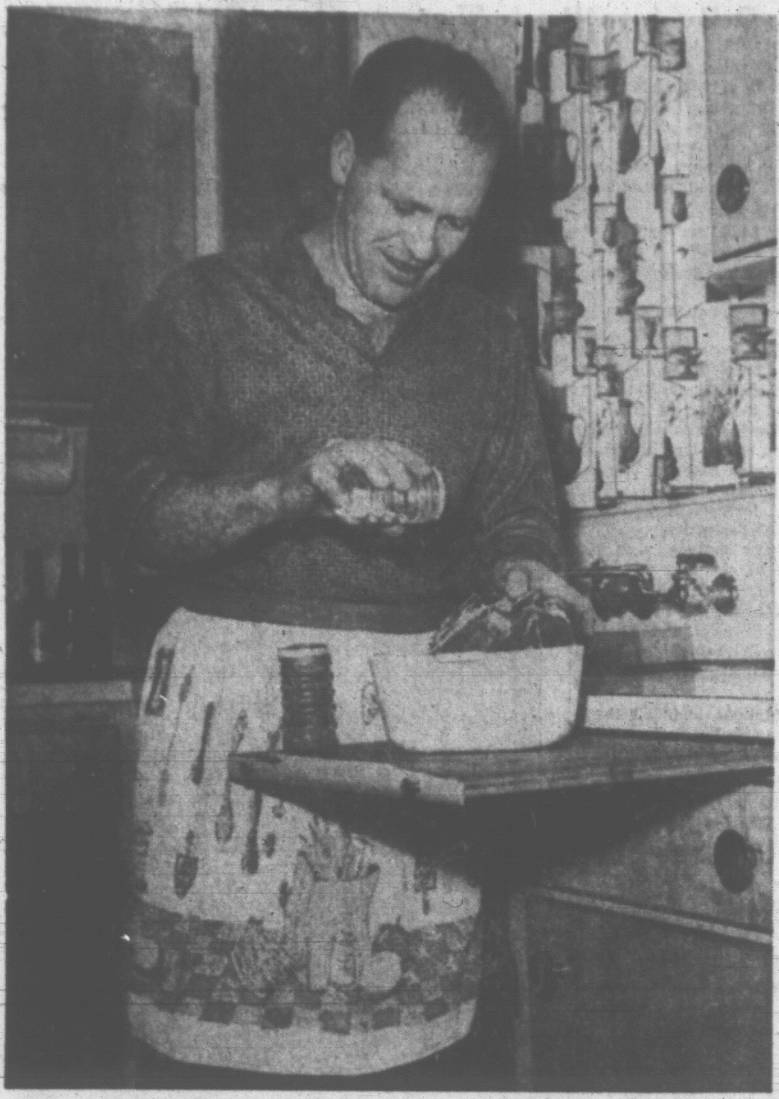
Women



Gerry W. Brown is indignant at accusation that bachelors make "lousy" cooks. He retorts, "You either learn to cook well, or starve to death!" Here, he prepares a roast of venison which he shot himself. Other items on the menu are Brussels sprouts, peas and potatoes. Dessert is some of the raspberries he preserved last summer. Gerry never uses wine in his cooking, "It's much better to drink it!" Leans to roast beef when it comes to favorite meals, although he occasionally likes to cook a pheasant. Dressing? An onion. Says Gerry, "It's delicious! He's 35.

Victoria bachelors are all set to do battle. Armed with mixing spoons and salt and pepper shakers, some of the city's most "eligibles" have taken exception to a statement made by New York food expert, Marni Wood.

Slicing bachelors down to size, Mrs. Wood describes them as "lousy cooks," with the only exceptions being "the true gourmets, a rare breed."

In a round-the-town manhunt, this reporter found that the majority of bachelors contacted like to take to the oven and skillet after a day at the office.

In fact, some came through with a few culinary tips that would stand the average housewife in good stead.

True, there are bachelors who consider their kitchen nothing more than a quick refueling station. But, these are in the minority.

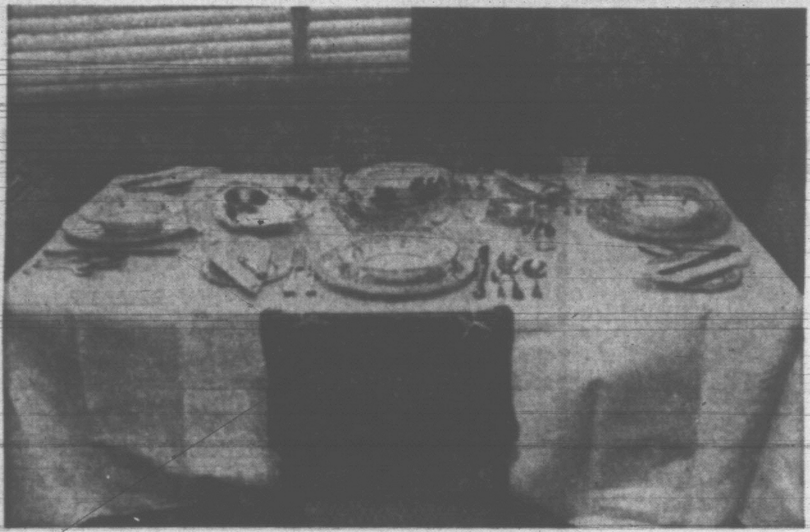
Mrs. Wood's accusation that most bachelors use wine in cooking because "it's the thing to do" is also refuted. Victoria's bachelors mostly agree that wine is "something special" and only to be used with artistic discernment.

With discretion, bachelors on this page have asked that their home addresses be left out.

After all, this IS Leap Year and no man wants to be married merely for his cooking!

Also 35 and a strong defender of bachelor cooks, is John Pickburn. He likes to cook for parties and is still telling proudly of the "shindig" he "threw" for 24 people on a recent trip to London, England. As a matter of fact, when he arrived in England his luggage included a salmon and oysters—destined as gifts for his hosts! Jim calls himself a "sauce man" and insists it takes two hours to simmer a good sauce for spaghetti bolonaise or chili con carne. He's fond of making a good curry and salad, adds a little baking soda to his green vegetables "to keep the color." He's partial to broiled fish. This he serves with a white sauce "when the calorie count allows. After all, a bachelor has to keep in shape. He still likes to be invited out for the odd weekend meal!"

UP—BOYS—AND AT 'EM!



Marni Wood's face would be slightly red if she attended one of the many dinners given by Sam McMaster, a bachelor "crowding 70" with a liking for gracious living, as exemplified in the above picture of his dinner table. He adds zest to his roasts by rubbing them with a garlic clove and often whips up a pie or plum pudding for a party dessert. He's partial to soups — usually makes potages — and adds a dash of Italian sherry to the onion soup which persistently draws raves from his guests.

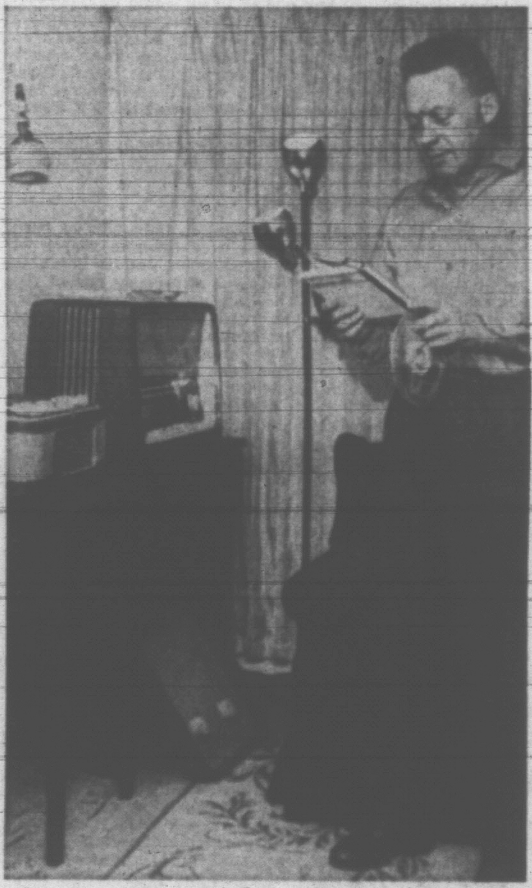
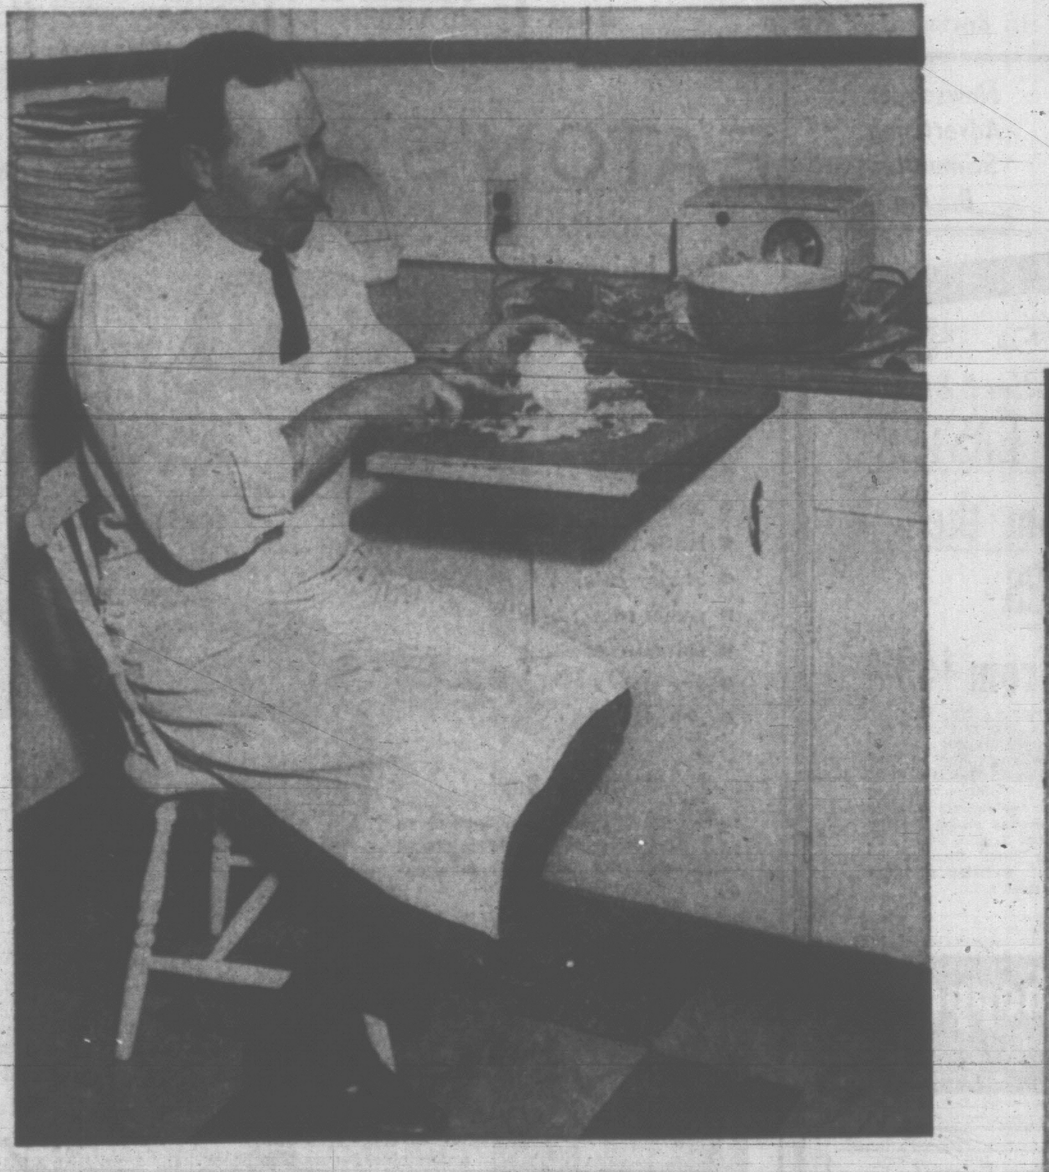
Cooking is "out" for 32-year-old Paul Courtice. He's much too busy dashing around up and down the Island in his red Porsch for National Film Board. Favorite recipe? A quickly-heated frozen meat pie, with cool beer! Paul does try his hand at stew occasionally. "I put the meat and vegetables in tinfoil, sprinkle with a package of onion soup and cook in the oven at low temperature all day." He was astounded to hear of the culinary achievements of some of his male counterparts. "That's bad news for manhood—it's not a man's occupation."



Walter Hislop is 50 and works in the provincial government's finance department. He admits to keeping baking chores to the minimum. "I often flop a steak into the pan and, if I want to live high on the weekend, I breakfast on sherry and scrambled eggs." He enjoys golfing, visiting friends, fishing and taking older people for rides. Quiet evenings at home are spent reading or taping music on his recorder. Walter hasn't written off marriage as a possibility but doesn't "believe in getting married just for the sake of being married."



Albert Wilson, 35, is just as much at home in the kitchen as any housewife. Instinctively he reached for his apron when this picture was taken of him preparing a salad. Being a salesman for a meat packing company, he admits that his firm expects him to eat lots of steaks. These he likes to cook on his outside barbecue when weather permits. Claims he makes a good omelette and is an "old hand" at cooking Tom Turkey and all the trimmin's. Only time he used wine was when he added red wine to the meal of Cornish game hens he served at a dinner party. Favorite desserts are a creme de menthe parfait or fresh fruit salad, made to his own "secret" formula.

One bachelor who readily admits to keeping cooking chores to the minimum is 31-year-old mortgage broker, John B. Shaver. "But," he qualifies, "aren't there many women who feel the same way?" Staple diet usually centres around steaks or chops because he "hates meals of left-overs." He likes mushrooms, often sautees them in butter; has a "yen" for sliced fresh tomatoes, prefers fresh fruit for dessert. Keeps a can opener "at the ready" for the odd hurry-up meal of spaghetti.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

Color Favorites Are No Coincidence

It's a PINK SPRING. Do you ever wonder what starts a color whirling across the country like an avalanche?

There are two seasons when color is all important . . . spring and fall.

Spring seems to have a slight edge colorwise, at this time of year a woman is more ready to accept brightness.

That this should be a pink spring was decided a year and a half ago. It takes this amount of time to build up the sales pitch, to have yarn and textile mills geared to produce the millions of yards of the HOT shade.

Just where the couture designers get their ideas is a little hard to pin down because most of them insist their inspiration comes to them in a flash in the middle of the night.

The people who really steam roller a color are the mass-market producers. They can't afford to goof . . . to order thousands of yards of a certain shade requires confidence.

Damaske

Many manufacturers turn to a group known as The Color Association of the United States. These prophets are an assortment of experts ranging from textile makers, yarn dyers, psychologists, color consultants, leather tanners to store executives. Many are actually competitors but they work together to keep the fashion market from being a mish-mash.

This intelligent meeting of the various accessory designers with clothing manufacturers has made color co-ordination throughout the whole wardrobe possible for the last few years.

The first big fashion colors that were wildly promoted and sold on a large scale after the war were cerise, magenta and bright scarlet. More recent color binges featured avacado green in 1956 and purple, in 1960. The year 1961 was also pink year, bright blues hit their peak in 1962 and 1963 brought yellow to the fore.

It's only recently that bright colors have been worn alone. Up until about 1958 they were used chiefly as accents to neutral shades. We, in the northwest, accept bright colors in large blobs much more reluctantly.

In spite of all the pzzaz about a pink spring don't fret if you are not happy in pink . . . every shade is available and you do not HAVE to follow the pack.

White and lilac are the favorite runners-up for summer and for the woman who favors dark conservative shades there is a definite fashion fling to navy blue.

It's pink . . . it's knit . . . it's double-breasted . . . it's brass buttoned . . . it's open-necked . . . it's optionally sashed. This coachman shift by Kimberly has to be a hit with such a winning combination of 1964 fashion highlights.

Doing The Town

with DOROTHY FRASER

Your Easter bonnet awaits . . .

Know those word association tests where someone says a word and you're supposed to say the first thing that comes to mind? . . . Well, try this on for size: the word's "Easter" . . . and if you're a normal female, your answer should be "hat" . . . Carried a step further . . . if you know your fashions . . . the next answer would logically be "Miss Frith's" . . . Miss Frith's hat shop is a perfect picture these days . . . abloom with color . . . hats big and small and in-between, fresh and pretty as crocuses . . . We won't attempt to describe any particular one because hats are, after all, pretty individual . . . but with only 11 shopping days left before Easter, we do suggest that you go to Miss Frith's soon and select your Easter bonnet . . . and do let one of their experienced salesladies help you find the perfect chapeau for you . . . While there are dozens and dozens of lovely hats on display, it's like the visible part of an iceberg . . . much more below the surface . . . which in this case means in the drawers . . . Whether you're the tailored type . . . the fluffy type . . . the flowered type . . . young, old or in-between . . . you'll find a hat calculated to put a spring in your step and a light in your eye when you saunter forth on Easter morning . . . Miss Frith's Millinery, 1619 Douglas St., EV 3-4912.

Bold colors, with the pink and orange tones way out front, are much in evidence in New York. Designers dub the new clear tones jelly bean pink (a vivid pinkish red), strawberry ice (of the mauve pink family), lemon drop yellow and marmalade.

Famous Venetian hand-wrought iron . . .

There's a wrought iron forge in Venice . . . on a side-street off the Grand Canal, not far from the Rialto bridge . . . where two ancient craftsmen and their little coterie of apprentices spend their days teasing iron into intricate shapes and designs . . . fashioning lamps and sconces, brackets and candelabra . . . whose fame has spread far and wide . . . It's well over a year since young Mr. Reynolds of Sydney Reynolds visited this forge and ordered a number of lamps . . . which arrived in Victoria just last week, and may be seen in the shop's Continental Room . . . They're lovely things . . . every one individual, hand-made, entirely without welding . . . Mostly black, but some are painted gilt and other colors . . . etched Venetian glass panes . . . They can hang from the ceiling . . . or from a wall when paired with matching brackets . . . Sconces and candelabra may be wired, or used to hold real candles . . . Any one of these would be a conversation piece in a room or hall . . . Surprisingly inexpensive too . . . $25 to $45 . . . Also from the city of gondolas . . . the famous Venetian lanternos . . . blown glass in an assortment of colors . . . We know of several homes transformed by replacing ordinary light fixtures with these colorful lanternos from Sidney Reynolds, 801 Government St., EV 3-3931.

Frankly feminine: the white lace or organdy collar outlining the plunging neckline of a simple dark crepe dress.

You'll find your favorites here . . .

Now hear this . . . all you whodunit fans who've been combing the pocket book racks all over town in search of your favorite Ian Fleming . . . (creator of James Bond, to the uninitiated) . . . you can find each and every one of the current Ian Fleming titles at The Bay . . . Not only are they all there, but by the time you read this they'll likely be prominently displayed in one big group . . . so you can grab your choice and run . . . if you must . . . though hardly anybody ever does . . . the paper-back pocket book department in the Bay being such a heavenly place to browse . . . and if you're like us, you'll make absolutely fascinating discoveries . . . Books you won't be able to resist on every conceivable subject . . . from enduring classics . . . to current best-sellers . . . Over 2,000 titles . . . and not one of them costs over $1 . . . most are a lot less . . . The thing is, you find not just the English books, or American books . . . but all the major paper back publishers like Penguin, Pan, Pelican, Fontana, Bantam, Dell and so on . . . They're grouped by authors and categories . . . new titles come in every two weeks . . . so if a book's in print, the Bay's bound to have it . . . Take a look the next time you're in . . . Hudson's Bay Company, Tobacco and Books, main floor, 385-1311.

For evening comfort: a hot saffron shaggy wool coat. Under it a sheer, tailored shirtwaist, trimly belted, above a long skirt in navy silk.

Just off the boat . . .

Piece de resistence at Wilson's this week is a magnificent suit from Switzerland . . . It's in a camel brown suede, soft as butter, with natural python skin covering the jacket front and fashioning the skirt belt . . . Really swish . . . and not at all over-priced at $250 . . . We might add that a suit like this is timeless . . . practically a forever-and-ever proposition because we can't imagine it ever wearing out, or palling on its lucky owner . . . A new shipment of those versatile angora toques everyone likes so much has just arrived from Paris . . . A whole spectrum of colors . . . pink, blue, jade, primrose, red pale green . . . dark colors too . . . and still priced at a modest $3.50 . . . Strikes us as being a good time to buy one, because once our summer visitors get a look at these, we'll be out of luck . . . From Italy and Hong Kong come the new straw handbags for spring and summer . . . big, roomy, attractively shaped . . . pretty colors . . . they range in price from around $10 to $21.50 . . . the latter in basket shape . . . navy, gold or red . . . with attractive dull gilt handle . . . Others are wicker and leather in combination, or crocheted straw . . . From England, they've unpacked bolts and bolts of liberty lawn . . . delightful colors and designs . . . and only $2.29 a yard for 36" width . . . W & J Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., EV 3-7177.

Suit jackets as well as coats, move toward the body in this spring's overall trend away from that so-called relaxed, loose silhouette of previous seasons.

Beauty for the bathroom . . .

We've been trying to think . . . ever since we looked at the new Cannon towels at Standard Furniture the other day . . . what those rich deep colors—shading through the gamut of bronze, greens, mauves, blues, browns . . . reminded us of . . . and the answer has just now come: stained glass windows! . . . And if you think that's a funny description of something meant for bathrooms, we urge you to see for yourself . . . these towels are not only big, fluffy and luxurious, but they're downright beautiful . . . A little mixing and matching and you could turn any old bathroom into something out of "Better Homes" . . . Still on the subject of bathrooms, thick cotton rugs, in three different sizes and 14 or 15 colors . . . machine washable and dryable . . . are a nice luxurious touch which you can have for a very small outlay . . . Seems to us whenever we go into Standard Furniture our eye lights upon something new and different . . . in fact there's hardly a thing you could possbily need for the home which can't be found in one of their five attractive floors . . . Standard Furniture, 737 Yates St., EV 2-5111.

If you haven't worn a long-legged pantie girdle yet, you've got a shape and comfort treat in store.

Our west coast Riviera . . .

Ever thought how pleasant it would be to own a home in some delightful spot up-Island . . . where you could relax now . . . weekends and during summer holidays . . . and retire to later when your working days are over? . . . First, of course, you need to acquire your property . . . and this is a good time to look . . . before the summer rush begins . . . An especially good place to look is at the Dolphin Beach Estates near Parksville . . . so why not pack the family into the car and drive up this weekend? It's less than two hours easy drive from Victoria . . . and when you get there and see the attractive waterfront properties that are still available . . . you just might succumb to temptation and acquire a site for your dream home . . . We won't attempt to give you all the details about this planned development . . . there's an agent on the spot who is only too happy to oblige . . . but we do remind you, if you don't already know, that this particular spot on the Island has Canada's finest climate . . . delightful sandy beaches . . . excellent swimming, boating, fishing . . . not to mention two golf courses in the vicinity . . . The description of Dolphin Beach as a "recreation paradise" seems particularly apt . . . Just seven miles south of Parksville . . . You drive north from Nanaimo 14 miles, then turn right at the Texaco Service Station at Nanoose Bay and follow the signs . . . Well worth looking at, we'd say . . . Dolphin Agencies Ltd., Island Highway, Parksville, 248-3160.

C.A.R.S. Auxiliary Tea Makes $425

There wasn't a spare inch of space left at Uplands Golf Club, Wednesday afternoon, when 306 women attended a spring tea, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to Canadian Arthritic and Rheumatism Society.

Sum of $425 was realized. A special feature was a showing of millinery and fashions from Miss Frith's.

Auxiliary members acted as models. They were Joan Talboom, Sue Wills, Mrs. G. L. Bullock, Mrs. R. Egan, Mrs. R. Howe and Mrs. G. E. Gould.

Clever teaming of hats to complement outfits was seen again and again. One outstanding ensemble featured a grey check jacket dress, subtly edged in leather. It was flattered to perfection with a black straw chapeau with leather crown.

Capes were "in", cotton tweeds provided luxury on the "pinched budget" level and Bretons persisted in maintaining a top position on the haute couture poll.

Presentations included three-piece suits, jacket dresses, coat, skirt and blouse ensembles and three-quarter length coats, and trotter length jackets. Many were in a popular price range.

Hats appeared with and without brims, large or small, in fine and rough straw. They complemented suits and dresses or gave dramatic emphasis through contrasting colors.

Commentator was W. Sinclair and Mrs. Gordon Page played background music at the piano.

Head tea table was centred with an arrangement of yellow daffodils, white tulips and pink blossoms with silver candelabra and lighted spring green candles.

Presiding at the silver tea and coffee urns were Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, Mrs. J. A. Fowler, Mrs. G. H. Grant, Miss Hilda Hesson, Mrs. G. Grossman, Mrs. G. J. Jackson, Mrs. A. M. Dore and Mrs. T. Mair.

Receiving those who attended were the auxiliary president, Mrs. L. Moore, and the past president, Mrs. W. Redford; in charge of tickets were Mrs. Bruce Humber and Mrs. J. Wilkie. A raffle was convened by Miss Amy Wills and a table of ceramics by Mrs. A. J. Bowering.

Co-conveners of the affair were Mrs. W. E. Poupore and Mrs. T. B. Matheson and the serviteurs, Mrs. E. Evans, Mrs. D. Todd, Mrs. A. Attree, Mrs. H. L. Cairns, Mrs. S. Corless, Mrs. F. W. Williams, Mrs. W. F. Copeman, Mrs. Bruce Hutchinson, Mrs. H. Wolf, Mrs. G. Steele, Mrs. J. P. Hague, Mrs. N. Beketov, Mrs. S. J. Crawley and Mrs. A. C. Futcher.

Mrs. Olive Morris pictured in her Christie Point Apartment.

"This apartment gives me the freedom of a home without the cost of the upkeep. I like the idea that I am able to step out of my door onto the patio and be able to enjoy the landscape in its natural setting."

Christie Point Apartments, a development of Consolidated Building Corporation, are located on Craigowan Road, off Highway 1A just past Craigflower Bridge. The Rental Office is open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and the phone is EV 5-0644. You too, can rent an apartment at Christie Point for as little as $110.00 a month.

'Wearin' o' the Green' Marks St. Patrick's Day

By PENNY SAVER

Although St. Patrick's Day is not widely celebrated in Victoria, it is generally symbolized by "the wearin' o' the green." You can also mark the day in your home by using Irish china.

One shop has cup and saucer sets reduced from $2.50 to $1.50. The cups are patterned with shamrocks, top hat and harp and the saucers with a map of Ireland and heather.

Others, priced at $2.50, are patterned with pale green shamrocks against a plain white background.

Musical tankards, made of Irish porcelain, are available in another shop for $9.95. These large covered drinking cups are also available at $2.65 without the music box.

Irish china cream and sugar sets are priced upwards from 95 cents; ash trays from 75 cents, and teapots at $2.90. All have pale green shamrocks against a white background.

China coasters are also available for 85 cents. These depict typical Irish street scenes and have cream and sugar sets to match.

To add an extra touch of green to your home, shop is selling sleek glass birds from $4.95 upwards. Birds are a deep emerald shade which changes as the light strikes it.

Large covered candy bowls are priced at $3.60. These are shaped like a large goblet with a long stem.

If you would like to know where Penny shopped for these items, call her at 382-3131.

Hundreds of high school students are taking time out from studying this evening, in order to don their "best bib and tucker" and attend the sixth annual United Cadet Service Ball, to be held in the gymnasium of Work Point Barracks. Members of the youthful receiving line, left to right, are WO1 Lewis Rossner, 89th Kinsmen Air Cadet Squadron; Miss Linda Humeston; PO Sandy Campbell, Rainbow Royal Canadian Sea Cadets; WO1 Terry Antonson, Canadian Scottish Army Cadets, and Miss Pat Barker. Miss Deanna Roger, not present for this picture, is WO1 Rossner's partner.

VON to Undertake New Project

Providing health counselling and first aid services to the aged will become a major project of the Victoria branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses it was announced at recent meeting held in Spencerhouse.

Mrs. H. Webster, president, reported that the VON had been approached by the Silver Threads Service regarding this project. The service will be carried out in the existing Senior Citizens' premises on Broughton Street and later move to the new Centennial Square Senior Citizens' Recreation Centre.

Mrs. Webster presided at the meeting. District director, Miss Elizabeth Riddell reported 3,676 visits made during January and February and that 15 mothers had attended 14 sessions of parentcraft classes.

It was announced that Mrs. Walter Thompson will replace Mrs. Christine Leach as consultant physiotherapist.

Jack Cox reported as chairman of the car committee. Mrs. H G. Simons reported on arrangements for a rummage sale to be held on April 4 at 9:30 a.m. in the Safeway store, junction of Fort and Pandora. Those wishing to donate may call the VON office at 383-9013.

It was reported by Mrs. G. Scott that the VON auxiliary are providing disposable needles and masks and an educational book on rehabilitation for the nurses.

Annual provincial meeting will be held on April 8 in Surrey municipality. Mrs. Webster, Miss Beatrice Brown and Mrs. Fred Norris will attend from the board of directors and Mrs. H. Hallett and Mrs. Hershell Smith from the auxiliary.

Parties at Royal Roads

Capt. W. P. Hayes, RCN, commandant of the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, and members of the staff entertained at a reception in the Castle, Friday evening in honor of the 18 United States Air Force officers that accompanied 29 U.S. air force cadets who are spending the weekend at Royal Roads. This evening the cadets will be honored at an informal dance to be held on the college's quarterdeck. Len Acres' orchestra will play for dancing, and a buffet supper will be served later in the evening. The commandant and Royal Roads staff will host the visiting officers at a party in the Castle with a five-piece combo providing dance music. The visitors will leave by air for Colorado Springs on Sunday morning.

In Oregon

Mrs. Rudy Kullman, grand royal matron of the Order of Amaranth, is now in Portland, Oregon, where she will attend the grand court sessions. From there she will travel to Seattle to attend the grand court sessions for Washington. Mrs. Kullman is accompanied by her mother, Mrs. A. C. Chislett; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrish, Mrs. Lily Field, grand marshall; and Mrs. M. C. Leheim, grand page.

Honored

Mrs. Rodney Webster was honored at a birthday celebration during intermission of choir practice in Fairfield United Church, Thursday evening. She was presented with a candle-lit birthday cake by Mrs. H. H. Youson and a ribboned bouquet of spring blossoms by Mrs. W. Ireland, while the choir sang "Happy Birthday." Mrs. Webster has been church organist for ten years and her husband is musical director.

Friendship Tea

Brentwood Women's Institute will hold its annual Friendship Tea next Tuesday at 2.30 p.m. in the institute hall on West Saanich Road. Tea is held each year to mark the institute's birthday in 1915 and is open to all newcomers in the district. Mrs. E. Haddon Goulding, the group's second president, will open affair. First president was Mrs. R. J. Parsell. Convener of Tuesday's tea is Mrs. W. H. Westoby. Home cooking stall is being arranged by Mrs. Herman Wood and Mrs. M. Clair Watts.

FAMILY MEETS BABY PRINCE

LONDON (UPI) — The 15-year-old Prince of Wales saw his four-day-old brother today for the first time when he returned home by train from Scotland, where he is studying at the Gordonstoun school.

The prince's 13-year-old sister Anne, will get her first look at the baby when she arrives from Benenden school in southeastern England later today.

The infant prince, Queen Elizabeth's fourth child, is third in line for the throne after his big brother Charles and four-year-old Prince Andrew.

NEWS OF CITY CHURCHES

Sunday Day of Rejoicing For Birth of Queen's Son

All Victoria churches have been asked to observe Sunday as a day of rejoicing for the birth of a son to Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

The request is contained in a royal proclamation issued by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes and addressed to all churches in British Columbia. The proclamation reads:

"Now know ye that We do issue this Our Royal Proclamation that Sunday the fifteenth day of March, 1964, be observed through the province as a day of rejoicing and as a day of prayer to Almighty God, all of which our living subects and all others whom these presents concern are hereby called upon to observe on this joyous occasion."

* * *

Mrs. Grace Hanning, soprano, will sing the solo passages in Schubert's anthem Great is Jehovah to be performed by the Sanctuary Choir in Metropolitan United Church Sunday morning.

The choir, conducted by Capt. James Gayfer, will also sing The Lord is My Shepherd (Macfarren) in the morning and O Gladsome Light (Sullivan) at the evening service, which will be broadcast over CJVI.

Eric Boothroyd's organ preludes will be Andante in B Flat (Mozart) and Adagio from Opus 198 (Rheimberger).

* * *

Rev. E. W. S. Gilbert, former command chaplain overseas with the RCAF, will preach in Christ Church Cathedral at the 11 a.m. Sunday service.

He joined the cathedral staff recently after retiring from the RCAF with the rank of wing commander.

* * *

Rev. Marvin Evans will give the second of two talks on "Capital Punishment—For and Against" at a meeting of Victoria Unitarian Church in the War Amputees Hall, 1610 Oak Bay Avenue, Sunday at 8 p.m.

Directors of the church will meet at Mr. Evans' residence, 908 Deal Street, Wednesday at 8 p.m.

* * *

Paul Wharf and W. H. Gregory will sing the duet This Day Shalt Thou Be With Me (Dubois) at the 11 a.m. service in First United Church.

The choir will sing the anthem The Lord Is My Shepherd (Crimond) at 9:30 a.m.; Jesus Word of God Incarnate (Mozart) at 11 a.m.; Jesus Bread of Life (Whithead and Brother James Air (Jacob) at 7:30 p.m.

At the evening service the invocation will be given by Sheila Thomas, and Ronald Anderson will read the Scripture.

* * *

Pastor Glenn A. Coon of Tennessee will continue his "This Can Change Your Life" series at Seventh-day Adventist Church Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

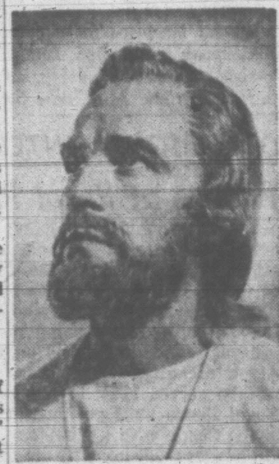
His subject will be "The Greatest Discovery of My Life."

* * *

The 8 a.m. Communion Service in St. John's Anglican Church Sunday will be a Young People's Corporate followed by breakfast in the Fireside Room.

Canon George Biddle will preach on "The City of God" at the 11 a.m. service.

PREACHER in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday morning and evening will be Rev. Charles A. Scott, recently appointed assistant minister to Rev. J. L. W. McLean, DD. Mr. Scott will preach on "Human Relations" at the 11 a.m. service and "Religion as Unbelief" at 7:30 p.m.



PRINCIPAL in "The Day of Triumph," to be shown at the Royal Theatre Good Friday, March 27, at 10 a.m., is Robert Wilson who appears in the film with Lee J. Cobb and Joanna Dru. Sponsored by the United Church Presbytery of Victoria, the showing will be preceded with a half-hour service of worship in which the choir of First United Church will lead the singing. Tickets can be obtained from all united churches.

IN LINE WITH VATICAN

Quebec Catholics Set Liaison With Press

QUEBEC (CP) — Roman Catholic French-language dioceses across Canada will be asked to set up press committees to establish links between the press and religious authorities.

One task of the committee will be to facilitate meetings between members of the press and bishops, priests or members of religious communities.

Abbe Yvon Desrosiers of the National Catholic Office of Broadcasting Techniques in Montreal said it is often difficult to get information from diocesan authorities because they have no news sense.

The press committees would be in line with the wish of the Vatican ecumenical council to make the church more democratic, he said.

Representatives of the national group and its commissions on radio-television, the cinema and the press met here.

Jesus' Temptation

Pastor Jack Loughton will speak on "The Temptation of Jesus" at the Sunday morning service in the First Church of the Nazarene.

In the evening his subject will be "The Betrayal of Christ in 1964."

There will be a Young People's devotional hour at 8:15 p.m.

Construction Starts On Low-Rent Project

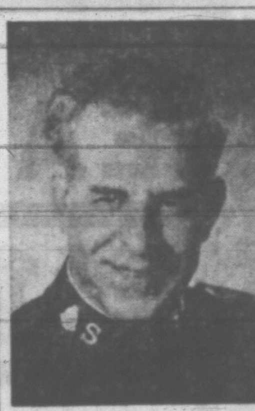
Construction started this week on a new eight-suite building addition to the Gorge View Society's low-rental development for senior citizens.

This development, on Harriet Road between Gorge and Burnside, is sponsored by the Victoria Presbytery of the United Church of Canada.

The five-acre site is one of the finest the United Church owns in Canada for the purpose of housing senior citizens. Architects for the new building are Wade, Stockdill and Armour, and the contractor Herb Bate Construction Limited, Victoria.

Suites contain private bathrooms and kitchens, complete with ranges and refrigerators, built-in fixtures and drapes and electric heating.

A variety of bequests and provincial government grants will be used to finance the new building which, when complete, will reduce the current waiting list of elderly widows.



DIVISIONAL commander for the Salvation Army in British Columbia, Lt.-Col. Leslie Pindred will give the meditation at the weekly Lenten service in the Salvation Army Citadel, 757 Pandora Avenue, Wednesday at 8 p.m. His topic will be "The Message and Ministry of Jesus Christ."

ISLAND DIGEST

MILLION DOLLAR RIVER NOW 'SAD, HOT LITTLE TRICKLE'

A Strathcona Park salmon stream has already been ruined by logging, an MLA said Thursday.

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) said the story of Tsolum River, which runs from the park into Upper Campbell Lake, is just one example of what can happen if logging is allowed in any watershed area.

The river was once rich in salmon, he said.

But because of logging in the watershed, its million-dollar salmon run had been reduced to "a sad, hot little trickle" in summertime.

"It is a bad lesson to be learned," said Forests Minister Ray Williston.

FOR LATE ROM KNOTT

Brentwood Plans Memorial Park

A fund has been opened to establish a park at Brentwood in memory of Rom Knott, well-known amateur sportsman who died in a highway crash March 4.

He was killed in a two-car collision at Weiler Road and Pat Bay Highway just south of Sidney.

Decision to dedicate a park to the popular Brentwood sportsman was made at a meeting of residents representing various organizations in the district.

The meeting was chaired by Brentwood Community Club president, Philip Salmon.

TRUSTEES NAMED

The meeting elected a board of trustees to manage the undertaking. It consists of Mrs. Muriel Peard, secretary; Stan Bickford, treasurer; P. F. Benn, C. I. Douglas, J. T. McKevitt, Philip Salmon, Victor Dawson and Harry Peard.

An account has been opened to receive donations to the fund. All cheques should be made payable to the Rom Knott Memorial Park Fund. Donations sent through the mail should be addressed for the fund in care of Stan Bickford, Brentwood Bay.

A public meeting will be held at the community hall Monday at 7:30 p.m., to hear a report from the trustees of fund.

Trustees are also expected to recommend a location for the park.

U.S. YOUTHS AT QUALICUM WIRE PROTEST

QUALICUM (CP) — Eight American students attending a private boys' high school sent a letter Friday to United States senators condemning a recent court decision in Birmingham, Alabama.

The letter was sent by the students attending Qualicum College at Qualicum Beach.

It described a case in which a white man was given seven months on a manslaughter charge for shooting a Negro youth. The letter described the case as a "blatant miscarriage of justice" and said the penalty should be appealed so that a stiffer one could be imposed.

Truck Mishap Takes Life

LAKE COWICHAN — A coroner's inquiry here Friday heard evidence that Colin (Cactus) Marrs, 52, of Skutz Falls, died of a broken neck in an accident near his home Thursday.

Police said he was driving a truck owned by his son Michael Marrs, 27, of Duncan, when the vehicle went out of control in the snow and slid off a planked culvert bridge into a creek.

Passengers in the truck, Michael Marrs, and his 2½-year-old son, Shane, were not injured.

Assessor Appeals Island Cutbacks

NANAIMO — District assessor John Steenbergen will appeal a reduction of the assessments made by a court of revision on three Gulf Islands.

Steenbergen said he feels the court of revision erred on six factors when it reduced assessments on Lily, Bath and Sears Islands.

All three are off the southern tip of Gabriola Island.

He said the reduced assessments are less than 50 per cent of the actual value as required under section 37 of the assessment Equalization Act.

Lake Cowichan Girl Fellowship Winner

DUNCAN — Lorna Grant of Lake Cowichan, is one of three medical students who will study at first-hand health problems and techniques in India and Israel as winners of the 1964 Smith, Kline and French Foreign Fellowships.

Miss Grant, a medical student of the University of British Columbia, will work in a hospital at Ratlam, Central India, as a laboratory technician.

Trucker Fined

DUNCAN — William Ward, of Duncan, was fined $50 in magistrate's court Friday when he pleaded guilty to having carried an overheight lumber load on his Doman's Transport truck.

Police said he struck a road bridge near Parksville causing $2,000 damage to the bridge.

Island Parks On Agenda Of ACCVI

DUNCAN—Establishment of three more parks on Vancouver Island will be among the subjects to be discussed at this year's meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island in Duncan March 23 and 24.

Campbell River and Courtenay Chambers of Commerce are expected to recommend that Forbidden Plateau, Seal Island and Goose Spit be made into public parks.

Campbell River also wants more government funds spent for artificial spawning beds and a hook-and-line closure for grilse from Dec. 1 to March 1.

Port Alberni will request regulations to control air and water pollution.

Other resolutions include recommendations for a highway along the west coast of Vancouver Island, and a direct road between the Albernis and Courtenay-Comox.

Victoria Woman Survived by 325

A Victoria woman with 325 grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren died Wednesday, just two months before her 100th birthday.

Mrs. Georgina Gaudreault had lived in the city six years after moving here from Port Alberni. She was born in Matane, Que.

She is also survived by two daughters, Mrs. Joseph Smith, Langford, and Mrs. Joseph Tremblay of Port Alberni, and a step-daughter.

Requiem mass was held today at 12:30 in Our Lady of Rosary Church, Langford.

Next: Five-Sided Schoolrooms

NANAIMO — A radical new concept in design of elementary schools has been developed here which may become the pattern for schools throughout the province.

Les Barley, Nanaimo architect, has drawn plans for a three-room school with five-sided classrooms.

Each room opens on to a play area and has one all-glass wall providing ample daylight.

Facing in a northerly direction, the window wall requires no blinds because it will get no direct sunlight.

School board chairman Joe Shook said "foremost advantage of this design is flexibility of room arrangement. An activity room accessible from the classrooms can be divided or expanded as required."

Long halls are eliminated.

The basic three-room plan will be used for the first time in the school to be built at Rock City Road and Departure Bay road intersection.

Estimated cost of the school is about $58,000.

Dangerous Life

Accidents kill more Indians in B.C. than tuberculosis, Mrs. Douglas J. White, director of the Nanaimo Indian Band Council, told delegates attending the provincial safety council meeting in New Westminster Friday.

She said accidents are a leading cause of death in the Indian population.

Gentlemen:

For years I have used Chevrolet trucks for my city and country deliveries. I have always had really good service from them, with very little trouble. I recently traded a 1954 cab-over-engine model which had cost only $200.00 in repairs since new. A 1957 truck which I bought new is still running well with original parts throughout. From engine to rear axle, everything is original.

This kind of long service has convinced me that I buy the right trucks when I buy Chevrolet. Gas mileage is better than on any other make of truck I have owned, and my drivers tell me that there's lots of power there for their heaviest loads.

A multi-stop operation such as mine is hard on all parts of a truck but from my previous experience, I know my new Chevrolets will stand up to the job.

Yours very truly,

Mel Hill

Dear Sirs:

I have worked for Mel Hill Beverages since 1952. In 1954 I took over a new Chevrolet cab-over-engine which I drove until it was traded on a new Tilt-Cab Chevrolet.

During the time I drove the old truck, there never was a major mechanical failure. That was a good truck, but my new one is far superior in every way. Visibility and handling for city driving is outstanding, and the power steering is great. The truck will turn on a dime and is very stable when loaded or empty.

The 292 engine is tremendous, it's got lots of power, runs very smooth and quiet, and the performance is there when you need it. The suspension is really good and gives a very comfortable ride. Brakes are excellent and very smooth in stopping, and the emergency brake is ideal and well situated.

From my driving experience, I feel that Chevrolet trucks can't be beaten and are the best for our kind of heavy load multi-stop jobs. I make 45 to 50 calls a day and know how hard that is on a truck in city traffic.

Yours truly,

Richard P. Zimmerman

Picasso the Potter Discovered Himself at the Age of 66

Williamson

Watching Robert Fulford's splendid TV film about Picasso will have prepared you for the current exhibition of Picasso ceramics and posters, now showing at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

This is a National Gallery touring show, and a light-hearted business it is, comprising 35 pieces — plates, pitchers, plaques and bowls, plus a small selection of lithographic posters.

I find that at this stage of his life Picasso so dwarfs his contemporaries that it is totally irrelevant to subject his output to criticism. Sometimes he produces a work we like, at others he becomes a bore. It matters not one bit, least of all to "le maitre," whether we fuss or applaud.

The work is there in front of us (just as it is behind him!) and his great sprawl of a signature is often more interesting than the object to which it is applied.

What is timeless as a source of interest and admiration is the man Picasso, painter, lithographer and potter who, at the age of 63 rediscovered himself.

One of the most famous underground printing presses in Paris during the Occupation was owned by the Mourlot Freres in the rue de Chabrol. After the Liberation in August 1944 Picasso left Paris for the south of France. Sometime between then and November he apparently decided once more to take up lithography, a medium he hadn't touched since 1930.

In any event, when he returned to Paris he immediately went to visit the Mourlot press with some designs he wished to have printed.

Nobody knows exactly what happened, but it is recorded that for the next four months Picasso returned there each day, staying from nine a.m. till late evening, working with amazing inventiveness and cutting a total of twenty plates, some of them in color, using zinc blocks in preference to stone.

Fernand Mourlot insists that Picasso brought his own tools to use; a small penknife scraper and a home made object, like a sickle, which he used as a graving tool.

Mourlot's two volume catalogue of Picasso works lists 179 lithographic works, entirely executed by himself, between November 1945 and May 1949.

The lithographs in this exhibition are mostly exhibition posters done for potter friends in Vallauris, where he now lives, and for bull fights and art galleries in various locations. During the past few years his poster designs have been executed in lino-cut and printed by friends, working under his supervision.

Equally amazing is the record of his introduction to pottery. In 1947, Picasso began to study ceramics with his friends Suzanne and Georges Ramie who owned the Madoura pottery workshop at Vallauris.

It must be remembered that until then, at the age of 66 Picasso knew nothing whatever about pottery but within one year he had produced nearly 2,000 pieces, many of them of the most daring and involved improvisation and originality.

All Picasso ceramics are limited in edition, though the editions are not always numbered. The first edition in quality is the Original Imprint of Picasso who, in this case, works in the negative with wet mould, carving the design into the surface. When cast this produces the object in reverse.

In the ordinary Edition, Picasso works in the positive, creating the design exactly as it will be viewed. From this a mould is made, with incisions following Picasso's original design and indicating where colours will be placed. The cast is then made from this mould.

What really pleases Picasso about ceramics is the permanency of the color once it has been baked. Here is none of the impermanence of ordinary pigment, for we all know how oil paints deteriorate.

This durability of color, plus the limitless variety of form and design, gives him a great deal of pleasure. This he transmits to us in his light-hearted way, executed with all the wisdom, talent and creative energy of his genius.

Even so, there will be visitors to the Art Gallery who still think the name Picasso is synonymous with Beelzebub. For them I recommend the Sydney Hoare Collection of Early

Mr. Hoare is a Vancouver collector who has most generously made part of his collection available for showing here. Thirty watercolors of late 18th early 19th century vintage cover a representative range both in style and taste of those periods. Rowlandson, John Varley, Samuel Austin, David Cox, George Chamberlain are but some of the artists included.

The works are nicely presented though most unfortunately in a few of them non-glare or reflection glass robs the originals of their beauty and texture, making them barely indistinguishable from color prints.

I am afraid that this will mar what is otherwise a pleasurable exhibition, and connoisseurs will be disappointed.

Serious Questions Posed On Submarine Warfare

The death-throes of a good ship are always (with the possible exception of war-time enemies) a melancholy sight to seafarers and, perhaps to a lesser extent, to landsmen.

The torpedoing and sinking of Ss. Laconia by a German submarine in 1942 was but one of hundreds of such incidents which occurred in the two great wars. But what makes this particular tragedy of special importance is that it resulted in what became known as the "Laconia order" for unrestricted submarine warfare, thereby giving rise to some of the charges against the German Admiral Donitz at his post-war trial at Nuremberg.

"THE LACONIA AFFAIR" by Leonce Peillard. Toronto. Longman's Canada, Limited. 1964, $5.95. 269 pages. Photographic illustrations.

Reviewed by Eric Henderson

Leonce Peillard, a French citizen educated in England, describes the incident in careful detail.

He quotes freely from the accounts of survivors and former enemies, some of which had already been published, and, in an Appendix, provides extracts from the trial of Admiral Donitz which appear to indicate that the admiral was convicted and sentenced on political grounds rather than because of the "Laconia order."

In two great wars, few people were so consistently cast in the role of villain as the German U-boat commander; the author seems to prove here that there were, at least, some decent and humane men among them as well as murdering brutes.

The various eye-witness accounts which fill the major portion of the book are inclined to fall into an all-too-familiar pattern found in all disasters at sea—heroism, cowardice, leadership, suffering, privation and death.

In the opinon of this reviewer, the main object achieved by this book, whether by accident or design, is to raise the question: is a belligerent, having sunk an enemy ship, bound to leave the survivors the chance to be rescued to serve again in other enemy ships?

At what point should the line be drawn?

What is the exact status of an armed merchant ship?

The author does not dwell on these points at length, but the book should cause the reader some thought as to whether the rules of the Geneva Convention have been amended to be adaptable for modern warfare.

NOTHING BUT PLEASURE

For Archaeologists Scholar or Layman

REALMS OF GOLD: a Journey in Search of the Mycenaeans, by Leonard Cottrell. McClelland and Stewart Ltd.; 278 pages; 43 photographs. $7.25.

Reviewed by Peter L. Smith

Since the time of Heinrich Schliemann, the world has watched enthralled as scholars have gradually unearthed and reconstructed the golden civilization of Mycenae, that age of glory and mystery that lies behind the poems of Homer and is the ultimate origin of much Greek myth and legend.

A highly respected English journalist and broadcaster, Leonard Cottrell tries in this book to recapture the spirit of Greece in the second millennium B.C. by bringing into harmony the evidence of archaeology, linguistics, Homer, and mythology.

In order to equip himself for the task, he has read all the major studies in the exciting decade since Michael Ventris' decipherment of the Linear B tablets; he has visited and revisited the Bronze Age sites in Greece; and he has talked personally with many of the archaeologists working in this area.

Realms of Gold is a popular book, in the best sense of the word. But though it is aimed at the intelligent non-specialist, it will bring nothing but pleasure — and probably some enlightenment — to the professional scholar.

The facts are accurate, presentation of controversial disputes is fair and clear, and the personal speculation, which is unashamedly romantic, is never presented in the false guise of scholarly belief.

This is an attractive book, both in content and in format. Some readers may grumble at the rather careless proofreading that allows, among other errors, the repeated misspelling of Euripides' name.

A few may even be pained by the brutal mangling of several words of Greek that were unwisely entrusted to the original publishers, the New York Graphic Society.

However, these are trivial flaws, which do not detract from the virtues of this interesting study. Amateur archaeologists and lovers of history should be delighted.

Entertaining Book Richly Descriptive

"HOME FROM SEA." By Joy Packer. The Ryerson Press, Toronto. $3.50.

Reviewed by A. E. Cunningham

This is the fourth autobiography by Lady Packer. The others, written during World War II, were "Pack and Follow," "Grey Mistress" and "Apes and Ivory." These were tremendously popular and were well acclaimed.

"Home from Sea" was published in 1963 and covers the period since 1953. Lady Packer is a South African of Boer parentage, grew up in the Cape Province, and was married to an English naval officer who subsequently became Commander-in-Chief of the South Atlantic Station. Admiral Sir Herbert Packer, KCB, CBE, retired in 1953.

The Packers built their first and last permanent home, "Cressage," near Cape Town with a magnificent view looking towards Devil's Peak and the sea.

Cressage was indeed a dream home with beautiful gardens, and they were very happy there with their dog and cat for the few remaining years of Admiral Packer's life. Trials and tribulations of their lovable colored gardener are very entertainingly portrayed.

The author does a magnificent job of explaining to her readers the problem of apartheid and deplores expulsion of South Africa from the Commonwealth.

It is a book of great variety and her description of a trip eastward by ship around Africa and through the Red Sea and Mediterranean with many ports of call before reaching England is in itself a beautiful narrative.

The author has the charming facility of being able to make the simplest event or description of a person or animal most enchanting.

There are many superb photographs which is a bonus to an excellent piece of writing.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Kirk Douglas and John Frankenheimer have purchased screen rights to a new novel, "Seconds."

Frankenheimer will direct the film. Douglas is not certain if his work schedule will permit him to star in the movie.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Newcomer Stefanie Powers recently received court approval for her new recording contract with Colpix Records. She is 20 years old.

FLAMENCO music, traditionally regarded as the music of the Spanish gypsy, has, with certain rhythmic transformations, invaded the heart of young America. As a proponent of the flamenco guitar, California's young, blond Peter Evans, already an international personality, comes to The Secret coffee house on Government Street, for a week, starting this Monday and appearing nightly through Saturday. Mr. Evans takes pure flamenco, and by interpreting this music for today's America, fully communicates its joys and sadness to his audiences. In Spain he was hailed by Madrid's leading newspaper and his television and concert appearances on the continent gave rise to widespread critical acclaim. His appearance in Victoria will be of special interest to flamenco and classical guitar enthusiasts and others with a taste for the exotic.

Complex Novel Uses Allegory In Biblical Style

JULIAN THE MAGICIAN, by Gwendolyn MacEwen. Toronto, Macmillan, 1963. 151 pp. $3.95.

Reviewed by R. G. Lawrence

Most readers are likely to find this a baffling book, or, at the least, one that does not yield its meaning easily.

A superficial description of the brief content is easy enough to give: it outlines the career of a medieval magician, Julian, who is possessed of remarkable powers. He is, however, feared by simple peasants, who crucify him after the death of a villager whom Julian has magically cured of his blindness.

The superimposed feature of the novel add to this simple situation many complex levels of meaning involving Julian's identification with Christ

This is not as preposterous as it seems, for the entire story is built up in terms of biblical allegory: Julian's mystical powers, his healing of the riverman and the blind man, the suspicion of the villagers, his betrayal, crucifixion, etc.

The novel verges on the pretentious, especially in the Epilogue, which consists of Julian's dairy, an attempt to fill in the background of his dual personality. The book is intended to be the timeless, amoral lesson illustrating the fate of the heretic in every society.

Miss MacEwen is young (this is her first novel), imaginative and evidently intense.

Paperback Parade

By R. H. ROY

Signet and Mentor publishers have recently put on the market a number of paperbacks well worth noting.

In the Mentor-Unesco Art Book series (each worth 95 cents and published by The New American Library of World Literature) are the following: The Ajanta Caves, Early Buddhist Paintings from India, with an introduction by Benjamin Rowland; Byzantine Frescoes from Yugoslav Churches, with an introduction by David T. Rice; American Wall Paintings of the Maya and Aztec Periods, with an introduction by Ignacio Bernal and Japanese Paintings from Buddhist Shrines and Temples, with an introduction by Philip S. Rowson.

The introductions to the above are 24 pages or less. Main emphasis is on the paintings and drawings themselves. A pull-out table of contents at the end of each book is a clever idea for ease of identification of each plate.

In the Signet Classics series, two "classics" have been reprinted: Henry James' The Portrait of a Lady and George Meredith's The Egotist. Each is selling for well under a dollar.

For the specialist, and interested lay reader as well for that matter, Signet Science Library has published The World of Copernicus by Angus Armitage (60c) and from the Mentor Omega series there is Josef Pieper's Liesure, The Basis of Culture, with an introduction by T. S. Eliot.

what's happening to the telephone book?

Like every other part of your body, your eyes change with your years. Your first realization of this could come when you suddenly find it hard to pick out a name in a telephone book. But nothing "sudden" has happened. The loss of the eye's ability to focus is gradual throughout most of our life. After age 40 it is particularly important to have your vision checked regularly.

'Backstage' Shares the Glory

What the public saw on stage this week during the Schools Drama Festival, represented only one-half of the total activity that had gone into the presentation of fantasies, comedies and historical drama by the 21 participating schools.

For weeks beforehand, extracurricular time had been put into constructing set pieces, designing and making costumes, hunting up properties.

And hours before each program, stage crews were busy assembling settings, arranging lights while casts got into costume and make up was applied.

Recognition of all these factors was made by the adjudicator, Jack McCreath, when on more than one occasion he complimented back stage crews who were a mixture of students and teachers, and throughout the week provided the finest support.

Outside help was volunteered in some instances.

Looking on, made up, costumed and in character, ready to go, is Cecillie Shaw.

WIND-UP TONIGHT

School Festival Honors Go to Oak Bay, Brentwood

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Both Oak Bay Junior and Senior Secondary School won coveted places in tonight's honor performance which brings to a close, the week-long 24th annual Greater Victoria Schools Drama Festival.

Choice was made Friday night by Edmonton adjudicator Jack McCreath, following commentary on the evenings program of plays at S. J. Willis Junior Secondary School.

Third honor play, representing the elementary level, is Brentwood's Chinese fantasy, "The Wishing Stream."

The Oak Bay plays are "The Happy Journey," presented by the junior secondary, and "The Parents Propose," by senior secondary.

Victoria Senior Secondary School will host the honor program which commences at 8 with doors opening at 7:30. The evening will conclude with presentation of several awards for individual performance.

"THE ADVENTURE"
By David Scott Daniell
Presented by S. J. Willis Junior Secondary School

Mrs. Pettifor	Donna Hanowski
Mrs. Spiggot	Sandra Gallagher
Jane	Leona Clarkson
Phillip Jessop	Bill Dyson
Sailors	John Chant, Gordon Dash, Joe Christian

Director, Miss C. F. M. McNab; assistant director, Mr. B. Mee; stage manager, Mr. J. Woods; lighting, Mr. P. Willord.

Mr. McCreath thought this a cheerful little play performed with spirit. It could have had a bit more pace and a few opportunities were missed, he said, but generally it was a very nice effort. Speech and projection were good and setting neat and right.

The adjudicator commended Donna Hanowski for capturing the sharp, shrewish effect nicely, and Sandra Gallagher for diction, sustaining an accent and moving exceptionally well.

"ANDROCLES AND THE LION"
By George Bernard Shaw
Presented by Glenlyon Preparatory School

Magaera	Sandy Colquhoun
Androcles	Jimmy Stockdill
Lion	John Carver
Call Boy	William McNeel Caird
Lavinia	John Holland
The Editor	Michael Jacobs
Spintho	Michael Leir
Ferrovius	David Roberts
The Keeper	Gren Finch-Noyes
Caesar	Jimmy Kennedy
Metellus	Mark Brown
Secutor	John Mears
Retiarus	Greg Randall
Captain	Paul Kjekstad

Director, Mr. A. C. McNeel Caird; stage manager, Mr. W. P. Fearns; costumes, Mrs. J. Simpson, Miss N. Bidwell; student assistant, Greg Gent.

"I'm surprised to see this one turn up in a school festival, played by junior secondary students," Mr. McCreath commented.

He thought it was done with spirit and energy and was generally surprisingly good considering "it was a bit much for the boys to bite on."

He added that the opening was "superb."

This was a cast of most promising and able young performers, Mr. McCreath considered.

The sound of Romans in an off-stage arena was magnificent—"worthy of a good Grey Cup game."

Director and cast had been very brave to attempt this. It was a noble showing, he concluded.

"THE DEVIL AND DANIEL WEBSTER"
By Stephen Vincent Benet
Presented by Victoria Senior Secondary School

Jabez Hone	Stein Godmundseth
Mary Hone	Nora Robertson
Daniel Webster	John Bergbusch
Mr. Scratch	Tom McKeachie
The Fiddler	Wilf Nienaber
Justice Hathorne	Bill Williamson
Justice Hathorne's Clerk	Pat Conrad
Villager and Jurymen	Ed Jones, Malcolm Ashford, Percy Austin, Sue Macfarlane, Carol Reynolds, Pat Pinch, Shirley Webb, Wendy Glover

Director, Mr. B. Farr; stage manager, Mr. A. Foxgord.

This short story classic had invaded the media of radio and stage, Mr. McCreath remarked, but in his opinion it was still best as a short story.

He found the opening, the wedding party scene, lacked the proper boistrous conviviality. It was too static. "The cider must have been very thin," he observed.

Cast members drew considerable praise, particularly John Bergbusch. Of this young actor he said: "One of the most promising performances I have seen all week . . . a very fine voice . . . he will do a magnificent job of acting one day."

SHOW CAPITAL

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — This resort city bills itself as the "live entertainment capital of the world."

Nicholson Book Sales Soaring

Sales of Major George Nicholson's "Vancouver Island's West Coast, 1762-1962," have now reached 2,500.

For books by local writers, this rates the handsomely-bound 356-page volume, with 110 illustrations, one of B.C.'s best sellers.

At its retail price, $10, this represents a gross of $25,000. A 100 per cent local product, except for trade discounts to booksellers elsewhere, this entire sum is of great benefit to the economy of the City of Victoria.

In addition, the provincial government has collected its five per cent sales tax.

Published and distributed by the author himself entirely as a one-man project, by book-publishing standards, it might be said that his method is somewhat unorthodox, but in this instance it appears to have paid off.

A third printing is planned. The book is on sale at all bookstores.

Program to Feature Young String Players

A concert of string music titled "The Sound of Strings" will be presented in the Oak Bay Junior Secondary School by Oak Bay Secondary Schools Orchestra Student Council on Wednesday evening, commencing at 8:15.

Guest artists will be Oak Bay junior boys and mixed choirs.

Mr. Bernard Rain will conduct the orchestras and Mrs. Archibould the choirs, with Charlotte Kay as accompanist.

Students from string and orchestra classes of the following schools will perform in various ensembles and orchestras: Monterey, Margaret Jenkins, Willows, Frank Hobbs and Shelbourne elementary schools; Oak Bay and Gordon Head junior secondary schools and Oak Bay Senior Secondary.

Among music to be played is Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," Grieg's "Peer Gynt" Suite, and a suite by Purcell.

Music Conventions To Throng Victoria

In the first week of April, two groups of music educators will hold separate conventions in Victoria—the B.C. Registered Music Teachers' Association and B.C. Music Educators—providing an opportunity for reciprocal interests.

The Music Teachers' convention will be held April 1, 2 and 3 at the Empress Hotel.

British Columbia Music Educators' Association spring conference will take place on the same dates and will be centred at Victoria High School.

This specialist association of the B.C. Teachers' Federation expects about 300 teachers to attend with approximately 375 students from all over the province who will be specially selected to take part in the choral, band and orchestra concerts at Memorial Arena.

Clinics for teachers will be held as well as rehearsal sessions and clinics for students.

In charge of these sessions will be Bert Christiansen of Central Washington State College; Vilem Sokol, University of Washington, and Dr. Wayne Hertz, Central Washington State College.

Conference committee chairman is Harry Bigsby, director of music, Greater Victoria schools.

Program for the B.C. Registered Music Teachers includes panels, discussions, music interludes, and features a sonata recital to be given by violinist Elfreda Sewell and pianist Robert Rogers.

The recital will be held in the Georgia Lounge at the Empress Hotel on April 1. Sonatas by Vivaldi-Respighi Hindemith and Brhams will be played.

Elfreda Sewell (in private life Mrs. Ross Gleam), Vancouver-born, was a scholarship student at London's Trinity College of Music and studied in Vancouver with the late Jean de Rimanoczy and with Harry Adaskin and Esther Glazer.

For six years she was principal of second violins with the Vancouver Symphony but recently, having moved with her family to Victoria, has taken up a similar post in the Victoria Symphony.

Mr. Rogers is a well-known Vancouver pianist and teacher, holds a Master's degree with a music major from University of British Columbia and has held a University of Washington graduate fellowship.

THREE LOCAL SINGERS who will join Montreal guest tenor, Robert Peters, in the Victoria Symphony presentation of Bach's St. Matthew Passion this weekend, are, from left, Derek MacDermot, who will sing the part of Jesus; Erika Kurth and June Gruber. Others are Margaret Abbott, Ruth Champion, Margery Sturgeon, Peter Yelland and John Bray. Directing ensemble which also includes University of Victoria Choir, Christ Church Cathedral Boys' Choir, organist Richard Proudman and harpsichordist James Gayfer with Symphony, is Otto-Werner Mueller.

Children's Musical Comedy Takes Over at Bastion Studio

Bastion Theatre's successor to "Alice in Wonderland" and "Hansel and Gretel," is "Bobino," the delightful comedy with music which launched Holiday Theatre in Vancouver some years ago.

Director Peter Mannering at that time played the part of the wicked prime minister. In this new production Victoria actor Laurie Westendale is featured in the role.

"Bobino" opened this afternoon in the Theatre Studio at the corner of Princess and Chambers Streets, where it will be seen each Saturday at 1 p.m. during an indefinite run.

Playing opposite Mr. Westendale, as Crixnix, the lovelorn witch, is Dorothea House. These two have a song and dance act which is a delight for young and old.

Bobino himself is played by talented Bastion Theatre student, Wayne Golby; Bobino's eccentric father by John Richards, the White Knight of "Alice" and Bulzaboo, the middle-sized giant, by comedian Wayne Fines.

Students from the Studio's creative drama classes make up the balance of the cast. These include Joy Larsen, Brian Davis, Sharon Stapells, Tibbie Hurley, Pamela Fairbairn, Phyllis Adam, Deborah Mason, Shelley McLennan, Bruce Martin, Peter Brimacombe, Glen Le Boutillier, Derek Mason, Timothy Miles, Marina Allen, Kathleen Merrett and Kathryn Knowles.

Most elaborate of this season's children's productions, it features special costume and scenic effects designed by Wolfgang Baba and Mr. Mannering. Music has been recorded for the show by Mrs. D. G. Hill. Production manager is Helen Simpson-Baikie.

Joining the repertory on Friday evening will be "Shakespeare's 400th Birthday Party."

This will feature Bastion Theatre's touring company presenting a program of scenes from Shakespeare's plays. This group has just returned from a three-week tour of Vancouver Island, having played to audiences of more than 10,000.

Scenes to be presented are from Twelfth Night, Julius Caesar, A Mid-Summer Night's Dream, Hamlet, Love's Labour's Lost, Romeo and Juliet and Henry V.

The touring company features Joy Richards, Wayne Fines, Ian McIntyre and Wolfgang Baba. Joining this group in the theatre workshop presentation will be Ian Pool, Doreen Breland, Judy Pool, Margaret Adam, Barbara Dunn and Timothy Vernon.

This will constitute a light-hearted cross-section of Shakespear's wonderful world, presenting his views on almost any subject in a contemporary and vital manner.

As seating is limited, all reservations should be made by phone, 382-4112. For this production only, students will be admitted for half price. Friday evening performances start at 8:30.

TRACY BACK

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Lee Tracy, absent from movie screens for more than 15 years, comes back as the ex-president in "The Best Man."

Tracy re-created the role he originated in Gore Vidal's Broadway comedy hit from which the movie is taken. The picture co-stars Henry Fonda, Cliff Robertson and Margaret Leighton.

RSMA Guest Artist Plays Fine Program

Special guest at a recent meeting of the Royal Schools of Music Association, was Stanley Shale, FRAM.

A distinguished teacher and exceptional pianist, Mr. Shale gave a short but memorable program, revealing a fine intellectual approach, evocative mood and wide range of sensitive tonal color.

His selections were, Chopin—B major and F major Nocturnes; two Mazurkas, A minor and F sharp minor, and the C minor Polonaise; two Scarlatti Sonatas and Schumann's "Prophet Bird."

The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gregory, 1009 Richmond Road.

Among members present were Mrs. F. J. Ashford, Mrs. K. Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory, Mrs. J. L. Kennaugh, Mrs. D. Macdonald, Mrs. A. C. Mitchell, Mrs. R. J. O'Keefe, Mrs. M. Reynolds, Mrs. F. Ratcliffe, Mrs. F. D. Till, Mrs. M. Ulrich, and the Misses M. Adamson, D. Frampton, E. Friend, G. Hewlings, E. Le Gresley, M. Tebo and Mr. Eric Edwards.

INDIANS

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Gilbert Roland and Richardo Montalban portray Indian chiefs in John Ford's movie "The Long Flight."

The film, a story of the Cheyenne Indian tribe, co-stars Spencer Tracy, James Stewart, Richard Widmark and Carroll Baker.

LAWFORD IN 'RINGER'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Peter Lawford co-stars with Bette Davis and Karl Madden in "Dead Ringer," the movie being directed by Paul Henreid.

TRAVEL the Mexican Bus Way

Pigs Get Seats No Longer

By RUSSELL ELMAN

QUERETARO, Mexico (CP)—The growing sophistication of Mexican society is shattering the traditional intimacy of man and beast on the second-class bus.

The days when live fowl and pig shared a seat with their owner are disappearing as education and rising living standards make their mark in rural areas of this Latin American country of 40,000,000.

Increasing awareness of the concepts of cleanliness and health protection and appreciation of the niceties of life are developing a new code for travel by public transportation.

Animals Out

Livestock is no longer allowed inside most new buses. Peasants are being gradually schooled to tie their animals in a sack to be placed in the luggage compartment beneath the bus. Those who try to evade the new practice rarely slip by the sharp eye of the driver who carefully watches all oncoming sacks and baskets for a tell-tale wiggle or cluck.

Another change is that the boundary between travel on first- and second-class buses on main routes is becoming blurred.

In the past the second-class bus was almost solely the poor man's mode of travel, the next step up from the burro. These buses, invariably battered machines of ancient vintage, were distinctive by their unmuffled motors, mountains of baggage piled on the roof, uncomfortable wooden seats, farmyard smells and their frequent stops.

Soft Seats

The first-class bus was—and still is—mainly patronized by the upper classes, the urban middle class and tourists. These buses traditionally have been faster, make fewer stops, have soft seats and charge about 25 per cent more.

However, in the last few years many second-class bus companies have bought new Mexican-made buses, comparable to those used on long-distance runs in Canada. Introduction of reserved, reclining seats, picture windows, music, faster schedules and no change in fares—less than one cent a mile—now enables them to compete in many instances with first-class services.

Nowadays, as a result of these improvements, former users of first-class buses often ride the cheaper, second-class buses, especially when the schedules better suit their convenience. The obsolete second-class buses are being relegated to shorter, local routes where man and beast still may travel together to and from market.

New Roads

In cities such as Queretaro, a state capital of 85,000 about 135 miles northwest of Mexico City, central bus stations have been built. Instead of operating from individual offices scattered over the city, the buses of some dozen companies now share the facilities of a modernistic terminal of glass and reinforced concrete.

The upgrading of bus travel also coincides with an expansive nation-wide road-building program. Besides construction of impressive superhighways, each year hundreds of miles of new road are being built to replace burro trails and give access to hitherto isolated communities.

GRAND CANYON of the Pacific is Waimea Canyon on the island of Kauai in the Hawaiian Islands, one of the most breath-taking attractions in the mid-Pacific holiday land. Leis persist even here.

Idiotic, Vacuous Airport Murals Enrage Gastown's Tourist Chief

VANCOUVER (CP) — The art trend in some of Canada's new airport terminals sends Harold Merilees into a rage.

Mr. Merilees, general manager of the Greater Vancouver Visitors and Convention Bureau and sworn enemy of the "modernistic blob," is so upset he is protesting the decor of Vancouver's new terminal before it is built.

"I don't want it messed up by a bunch of idiotic faces with stupid grins and goo-goo eyes."

QUITE A SHOCK

Mr. Merilees says he became alarmed when he flew to Edmonton to address the Alberta Tourist Association and got his first glimpse at the Edmonton terminal.

"It was quite a shock. The decor doesn't tell you anything about Edmonton or Alberta. It is the style of international meaningless. The master mural is just a modernistic blob."

Most painful, says Mr. Merilees, was a panel behind the Trans-Canada Air Lines ticket counter representing Vancouver—and consisting in his view of "caricatured faces with vacuous, silly expressions."

Mr. Merilees fired off a letter to the department of transport. In it, he said:

"While we realize everyone can quarrel with modern art I do hope from a standpoint of decor and color that the new Vancouver air terminal gets the kind of treatment it requires.

"We certainly hope that you do not forget the early Spanish and Indian cultures that have so definitely left their imprint on this part of Canada.

VACUOUS, SILLY

"I must say that I took a very dim view indeed of the Edmonton panel allegedly symbolizing Vancouver. To refresh your memory it consisted of a group of caricatured faces with vacuous, silly expressions that would seem to indicate this part of the world was inhabited by a collection of idiots.

"I admit we have our share but I don't think they are in the majority."

Mr. Merilees says he feels the new Vancouver airport's art should be recognizable and distinctive, and truly illustrative of British Columbia.

"I detest the complete surrender to uniformity. When you've seen one of those blobs you have seen them all. I want something that tells you that you are in Vancouver—not in the middle of the Gobi desert.

Cruises on Rhine Resume in March

The popular Rhine steamer cruises in Germany resume operation on March 27, 1964, with one express boat voyage daily between Cologne and Mainz and vice versa, the German Tourist Information Office reports.

More services are added beginning May 18. The four-country tours between Rotterdam and Basle start again on April 1 from Basle, and on April 5 from Rotterdam, according to preliminary timetables. The two elegant cabin steamers "Europa" and "Helvetia" will be joined, in 1964, by a new ship as yet unnamed.

Fraud Ring Bilks Travel Agents

MONTREAL (UPI) — A British airlines official said Friday an international crime ring, linked to the powerful Mafia and based in London and Paris, has swindled travel agents and airlines of $2,500,000 in the past 15 months in a ticket racket.

Col. J. L. Ford, industries procedure manager for British Overseas Airways Corporation and head of an anti-fraud squad set up with International Air Transport Association approval, said most of the frauds were carried out in Toronto, New York, Florida, London, Milan, Beirut, Geneva and Paris.

"The criminal buys tickets over a period of time and obtains new customers to build up the agent's confidence," he said. Later, the criminal asks for a block of several hundred tickets and pays for them with a worthless draft on a foreign bank.

The tickets are often sold at discount prices in "some backroom in a shady night club," Ford said.

Lemon Land Fragrant

The Lemon Country is a fragrant sightseeing experience for winter visitors in Southern California.

A lemon tree knows no season. All winter long, in the warm sunshine, it is a garden bouquet of yellow fruit, delicate green foliage, and waxy white blossoms.

Not only the blossoms are fragrant—so are the lemon leaves, lemon bark and the lemon wood.

Lemon Floor

Lemons like an even milder climate than oranges, so the great lemon groves cover the floors of protected valleys near Southern California's seacoast. The world's largest lemon grove, 1,800-acre Limoneira, is located in Ventura County not far from the pleasant resort valley of the Ojai "the Nest."

This is an area of interesting sightseeing contrasts, according to the region's All-Year Club.

Condor Lives

Only about 20 miles inland, the mountains rise a mile high. In these rugged crags and canyons is a special preserve where a small band of the last of the giant California condors, soaring on 10-foot wingspread, is making its last stand against becoming extinct like the dodo.

Flowers flourish in the winter sun.

In the county seat of Ventura, just opening a luxurious new yacht marina, the poinsettias flare in crimson hedges and clumps high as your head in such profusion that the place is known as the "Poinsettia City."

Ever-Bloom

And for miles near Ojai the highways are walled in by the green of thousands upon thousands of lemon trees, laid out in a precisely patterned forest. Foliage of the lemon is evergreen like the orange, but more delicately light in hue. Lemon blossoms are much like orange flowers, but the backs of the white petals are tinged with purple.

But the greatest difference is the fact that the lemon tree never takes a vacation. It blossoms and grows and ripens lemon fruit the year around. Visitors can pick a sprig of fragrant lemon blossoms any time all winter. They'll see the lemon harvest under way every day—pickers go over each lemon tree every six weeks.

Individual lemon trees landscape homes and patios of the resort accommodations. They furnish plenty of home-grown lemonade—in a year's time a single tree can produce 3,000 lemons.

Atlantic Air Fares To Drop April 1

WASHINGTON (AP)—All airlines operating across the North Atlantic have filed fare reductions with the United States Civil Aeronautics Board, to go into effect April 1.

Although the C.A.B. had urged the airline members of the International Air Transport Association to agree on even greater fare cuts, the board is believed to be generally pleased with the proposals.

One official said although the revised fares are not completely satisfactory they are within the area that the C.A.B. has indicated it could accept.

$100 CUT

The changes, if approved by the various governments involved, will:

1. Cut the one-way first-class fare between New York and most points in Europe by $100. The New York-London fare, for example, would decline to $375 from $475 one way.

2. Establish an out-of-season low-level fare, a type never before offered, $53 below the economy fare now in effect between New York and most points in Europe. The New York-London low-level fare would be $210 instead of the present $263. The fare would not be available during the peak travel period from May 22 through August 3.

3. Set up a peak-season economy fare of $255 one way between New York and London.

In each of the three classes, the airlines plan to continue to offer a 5 per cent discount on round-trip tickets.

4. Raise the round-trip group fare by about 5 per cent—from $310 to $325 for New York-London, and make it available from June 1 through September 30.

5. Cut about $50 for most round-trip excursion fares between New York and Europe, reducing the New York-London fare from $350 to $300.

Carib 'Slave-Wivers' Exist, But Tamely

ROSEAU, Dominica (Reuters) A once-powerful cannibal Indian tribe, notorious for devouring male enemies and making "slave-wives" of captive females, has dwindled to only 400 persons.

They now live conventional lives as farmers and fishermen on a 3,700-acre reservation in northeastern Dominica, on the Windward Islands.

The fierce Carib tribe was overwhelming the gentler Arawaks when Christopher Columbus sailed in from the east. They continued to pursue their notorious lives as Cannibals until the end of the 18th century.

Few Caribs now claim to be "pure" members of their tribe because so many races were involved in the "slave-wife" wars.

But the visitors to the island who drive over the mountains from the little airstrip to the capital of Roseau, 37 miles away, can have little doubt when they meet a Carib. The pale, sallow skins, wide Mongolian features and long black hair, sometimes in pigtails, distinguish them from the Negro population.

The wonder is that the community has remained as "pure" as it is. Few age-old traditions appear to be preserved, and the Caribs work as other Dominicans do on the banana and cocoa plantations, and fish with nets or lines. The art of bow-and-arrow fishing has been lost.

Disappointingly few relics appear to remain of the tempestuous past of this uncompromisingly shy and reserved people. Few of the tools or weapons they used in Columbus' day have been recovered and virtually no carvings or ornaments.

ORAL CUSTOMS

Oral customs declarations will be introduced at all international airports in U.S.A. commencing January, 1964. The oral declarations will not as yet apply to steamship passengers.

TRAFFIC UP

Tourist traffic in Egypt has increased by 35 per cent during the first months of 1963 as compared with the same period last year.

SCHOOL DISTRICT No. 18
(GOLDEN)

FIELD, B.C.

A unique opportunity exists in this beautiful town in the Yoho National Park to combine creative teaching and superb recreational living. This is a winter paradise particularly suited to those who enjoy the true outdoors.

The school is a six-teacher elementary-secondary school in a modern building where teachers and students work closely together to develop the best education possible in this small community.

Applications are invited from teachers who are interested in experimentation, improvisation and hard work in close harmony with colleagues and students. Vacancies exist in the elementary and secondary grades.

Send applications to C. A. Bruce, District Superintendent of Schools, Box 220, Revelstoke, B.C., or to W. G. Hart, Secretary-Treasurer, Box 190, Golden, B.C.

SECONDARY SCHOOL TEACHERS. Before accepting any teaching position in an Ontario secondary school you are advised to enquire if the position is professionally acceptable. Write or telegraph collect Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, 1260 Bay Street, Toronto 5, Ontario.

BRIDGE LESSON

Opening lead—♥Q

At trick two, South led the nine of diamonds and let it ride. East won with the queen and returned a heart. This time South ducked, but he did take the heart continuation and led the nine of diamonds. East made his ace, but South was able to make four diamond tricks. Adding these to his six tricks in the other suits gave him four odd.

East remarked that if only he had dared to stick in a spade overcall, a spade lead would have beaten the hand easily and that he surely would have overcalled had he not been vulnerable.

There is no question that East was right about that. Of course, if he had overcalled, South might have doubled him and set him a couple of tricks, but that is neither here nor there.

East's failure to overcall had not hurt him. His failure to defend properly had been the expensive error.

All East had to do to wind up on the plus side would have been to let South hold that first diamond trick with the nine. South's best play would be to continue diamonds. East would take the queen and lead back anything except the diamond ace.

South could go over to dummy with the king of spades and clear the suit or he could try any other play, but in the end he would make only one diamond trick instead of four and would have gone down two tricks instead of making an overtrick.

SOMETHING SPECIAL

This luxurious 24-ft. Flying Bridge Cruiser was built in 1961. Her 185-h.p. Interceptor, teamed with a fast Brandelmayer hull, makes her a safe, fast, cruising boat for 4 people. Her inside appointments will delight you and her price is very reasonable.

FOR QUICK SALE

One only, 19-ft. SABRECRAFT Fiberglas Cruiser with the popular 100-h.p. Volvo with inboard-outboard drive. This speedy little cruiser has full cockpit covers and is ready to go. She can be bought well below market value.

These are just two of the 84 boats that we have listed for sale. We must have something to suit you. We have inboards, outboards and sailing vessels.

IF YOU HAVE PAYMENT PROBLEMS let us show you how to pay off your account, and buy your boat for less than you are now paying.

Spring is sprung,
The grass is riz,
Come and see
What a buy this iz.
The price is right,
The terms are good,
So see this house—
You really should.

The price is low,
The payments, too,
You couldn't rent cheaper
Whatever you do.
There are bedrooms three
With all oak floors;
And the price includes
The windows and doors.

A living room nice
And a kitchen real bright,
All part of this home
That's a real fine sight.
A cosy carport
And a paved driveway
And a garden that's smart
And ready for play.

A basement below
Completes this prize,
Only four years old
And of reasonable size.
This listing is picked
From a dandy selection
And will certainly warrant
Your close inspection.

So see this home;
You really must
And meet the guy
With so much crust
That wastes expensive
Paper space
With verse that is
A real disgrace.

PLEASE BUY ME
I MUST BE SOLD!
I am an old house. I've seen a lot of living which has left me with some surface scars which do not affect my proud stately bearing. There is nothing vitally wrong with me—a new roof and gallons of paint will restore my former glory.
My big problem is that I'm BIG—very big and I scare people off. But I'm charming, bright and friendly and people say I'm richly endowed with good qualities.
I'd love to have lots of children or I would be good to MANY families under my roof—or even old people would find comfort and a precious warmth with me. Of course you would have to change me around a bit for these latter, but I'm young at heart and welcome new ideas. My neighbors are all the "Best People" and I'm close to "Everything." My modesty forbids me to tell you all my good points, please phone
MRS. BAXTER

DUNCAN
Towering Douglas firs that were seedlings before Columbus sailed create a park-like atmosphere of rural tranquility that is priceless in these days of tensions. A walk through this wooded wonderland with the bouncing creek on one side and the placid lake at the end is guaranteed to jar a Midas loose from his gold. SO BEWARE. The home of 1920 vintage overlooks the lake and enjoys complete seclusion. 19 acres of privacy and lakefrontage. The owner, after a lifetime among these amenities, must reluctantly make the change. Sound value for investors, sub-dividers, timber buyers or best of all retired folk who will preserve the natural beauty. I invite your inspection at $30,000. Call Wayne Griffith today. Days 746-5171. 155 PROPERTY WANTED

Act 1, Scene 1

(Enter, stage left: Prospective Property Purchaser):

"Good morning. I'm in the market for a nice building site. What do you have?"

(Embarrassed and disgruntled salesman, casually wiping tears from cheeks):

"I'm very sorry, sir (sniff-sniff), but I don't have a single listing left."

(P.P.P.)

"There, there, my good fellow. Things can't really be as bad as all that. (Here, use my handkerchief). Surely, with all the fine properties in this lovely city you must have something to offer."

(E. & D. salesman):

"Yes (sniff-sniff), but I've sold everything I have."

Act 1, Scene 2

(Time: That afternoon.)
(Phone rings, E. & D. Salesman answers):

"Good afternoon, University Realty Ltd., Phil Poole speaking. You have a lot for sale? Wonderful! ! ! Yes, I'll be out to look at in half an hour."

Act 1, Scene 3

(Time: Next day.)

"Good morning. I'm in the market for a nice building site. Do you have anything yet?"

(Salesman, no longer E. & D., but hopeful and happier):

"Yes, sir! I do have a nice lot to show you. Would you like to see it now?"

(P.P.P.)

"Yes, by all means!"

Act 1, Scene 4

(At lot, both P.P.P. & H. & H. salesman looking the situation over while standing ankle deep in water)

(P.P.P.)

"My, this IS a sight! I'll buy it! ! !"

(H. & H. salesman):

"Very good, sir!"

(Exit happy P.P.P. & cheerful salesman)

(Slosh-slosh-slosh) —Phil

IN JAIL AGAIN

A-Bomb Pilot Dreams Of Boiling Fires

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Claude R. Eatherly, former U.S. Air Force major who scouted the atomic bomb attack on Hiroshima, has dreams about boiling fires and children running with their clothes in flames.

The 45-year-old former B29 pilot gave the green light for the first A-bomb to be dropped in the Second World War and cannot get the deed out of his mind.

He feels guilty because, as pilot of the Straight Flush, the B29 that cleared the target for the actual bombing, he gave the signal that sealed Hiroshima's doom.

The Enola Gay, another B29 piloted by Col. Paul Tibbets, dropped the bomb.

LOST FAMILY

Since then, Eatherly has been in jail seven times and in mental hospitals at least 10 times. He has tried to drown himself in alcohol and drugs and has lost his family, career and peace of mind.

Now he is in jail for the eighth time. He was arrested and charged with holding up a grocery store with a toy pistol.

Grocer D. P. Rogers said Eatherly walked into his store Friday night, pulled the pistol and told him, "give me all you've got." He left the store with an undetermined amount of money.

He was arrested later at his home. He would not admit the robbery but officers found $100 in small bills in his possession and the toy pistol was under the seat of his car.

Galveston police Sgt. L. M. Luper said Eatherly was so mild-mannered "we didn't even have to handcuff him." "He answered all of the questions in a congenial way."

"I understand he wants to be caught because he feels guilty," Luper said. "Apparently that's what happened tonight because he robbed a store where they knew his name."

Eatherly has spent a lot of time in mental hospitals since the end of the war, much of it at the Veterans' Administration Hospital at Waco, Tex., where he was sent when he tried to kill himself.

Eatherly's arrests were for writing bad cheques and committing several robberies. Charges were usually dropped because of his war record and mental condition.

Mental Health Plan Okay Despite 'Serious Flaws'

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

The Opposition Friday indicated general approval of B.C.'s new mental health laws, but expressed fears and suspicion on how they will be carried out.

The comprehensive new Mental Health Act was given two hours and 25 minutes of debate in the legislature before Attorney-General Robert Bonner adjourned discussion until some time next week.

David Barrett (NDP—Dewdney) and Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby) found what they called serious flaws in the legislation, but didn't oppose it.

FEDERAL AID

Patrick McGeer (L—Point Grey) also approved, but suggested the government get immediate federal aid through hospital insurance for expansion of psychiatric wards in general hospitals. Ottawa would pay half the cost, he said.

Mr. Barrett said the NDP had "a number of grave suspicions" about the legislation.

He hailed the principle of encouraging community treatment of mental illness, a major aim of the bill, but warned: "You have raised fears in the community that you will not participate in the financing."

"It may give a bad flavor to an otherwise enthusiastic reception," he said.

SELL IT

He urged the government to go out and do a selling job on its plan, and to pledge grants for new community mental health projects.

But Mr. Barrett said the bill completely ignores any preventive measures.

There is nothing in it to help emotionally disturbed children, he said.

Mr. Dowding said new community care centres should be guaranteed top standards and services.

"If those are not guaranteed we are only compounding the evil by distributing it all over B.C. and throwing the load on municipal councils," he said.

PAPER LAW

Mr. Dowding said he feared it may only turn out to be "paper legislation."

The Burnaby MLA took issue with the new admission procedures in the bill. Court admissions are wiped out except for people deemed dangerous to be at large. Admission to mental institutions would be at the discretion of the medical superintendent.

Mr. Dowding said this would pose "a dreadful dilemma" for the superintendent, who would have to equate his role as a doctor against the government's policy.

Mr. Dowding said admission is a basic right for everyone.

He also challenged 23 sections of the bill giving power to the cabinet to make regulations.

BEST POSITION

Dr. McGeer said he thought it best to leave admission up to the superintendent, who would be in the best position to know the situation.

He said he feared future competition between general hospitals and community centres for mental care.

The government could provide the highest standard of mental care in existing general hospitals, with hospital insurance coverage, he said. Ottawa would pay half the costs; miracle drugs available to the hospitals would aid treatment.

However, he pledged Liberal support on the principle of the bill.

More Say On Financing Needed

Municipalities should be given more power in the field of financing, Arthur Turner (NDP—Vancouver East) told the legislature Friday.

He said councils shouldn't have to go continually to the people for permission to borrow or use municipal funds for necessary projects.

"I will have more to say on this subject at a later date," he said.

He was speaking to an act to amend the Municipal Act which was approved in principal by the House. It will be discussed in detail in committee at a later sitting of the House.

Mr. Turner said the government should give municipalities more leeway in managing their affairs and encouraged them to take on more financial responsibilities.

"I don't mean by that the government should go hog-wild in giving them more say in the matter of financing," he said. "It should be under the watchful eye of the department."

Glassco Report Can't Save Much

TORONTO (CP) — Finance Minister Gordon said Friday night spectacular changes in the level of federal spending should not be expected to flow from recommendations of the Glassco royal commission on government organization.

He said savings resulted from improved government efficiency may be overshadowed by "inevitable increases in government expenditures over the years, consequent upon an expanding economy and a rising population."

Addressing the Ontario Institute of Chartered Accountants—of which he is a member—Mr. Gordon stressed that the Glassco commission was set up to advocate improvements in government organization and management, not changes in policies or programs.

He estimated that only about $1,300,000,000 or 17 per cent of the total federal spending estimated for 1964-65 is for administration, operation and maintenance of government departments except defence.

"This is the extent to which government expenditures are susceptible to the application of the Glassco commission recommendations for improved management and increased efficiency," Mr. Gordon said.

He noted that defence spending takes up 22 per cent of the total. There had been some cuts this year. Improved management techniques may make further savings possible.

However, Mr. Gordon said that setting the general size of defence spending is a matter of general policy—not simply a problem of carrying out a given task in the most economical way, such as in the post office department.

Meanwhile, Mr. Gordon reported "considerable progress" in implementing some 300 proposals by the Glassco commission. Up to last November, about 25 of the recommendations had been studied "and approved for implementation."

HOOSON NAMED

City Manager Gets Assistant

The city manager system instituted by city council in 1950 was expanded Friday to include an administrative assistant.

Mayor R. B. Wilson announced council had agreed to the increase because of an expanding work-load and city manager Dennis Young said he had selected welfare administrator William Hooson to fill the post.

Mayor Wilson said the matter was discussed at an informal meeting of aldermen.

"There have been so many additional activities added to the city manager's workload that council has come to the conclusion he should have an assistant," said the mayor.

"The city manager system has certainly worked very well and we had to either make up our minds to use it to the full in which case more help was needed—or else cut down the number of items council referred to the manager."

MAJOR DISTINCTION

Mr. Young said Mr. Hooson would be an administrative assistant and not an assistant manager.

"There is a major distinction. An administrative assistant is a staff position for undertaking research and other tasks allotted by the manager from time to time. It is not a link in the chain of command."

Mr. Hooson joined the city in 1950 as assistant welfare administrator and took over the department a year later. He holds a master's degree in social work and also has completed a course in civic administration sponsored jointly by UBC and the provincial department of municipal affairs.

Mr. Young said he was selected on the basis of his previous work. The salary bracket is not established yet.

The vacancy in the welfare department will be advertised.

Self-Defence Wins Praise From Judge

A young man charged with cracking a safe at Wescraft Manufacturing Co. 2811 Douglas, Friday was complimented on his handling of his own defence.

Magistrate William Ostler told Neil McKinnon:

"You have conducted your defence very skilfully."

In the second day of trial in city police court today, McKinnon called a witness to present his defence testimony, and personally argued the evidence in the case before the bench.

11 WITNESSES

Thursday, he cross-examined 11 prosecution witnesses.

Magistrate Ostler remanded the case to Monday for judgment.

McKinnon is charged with breaking into the building Nov. 9 of last year, and stealing money from the premises.

Crown witnesses testified Thursday that McKinnon had in his possession a few hours later a marked $10 from the building, and some metal fragments and a strip of metal in one shoe.

They also testified that powder found on one of his shoes was similar to a plaster used for insulation in the cracked safe.

STAYED THAT NIGHT

Friday, McKinnon called Mrs. Margaret Lister, 728 Hillside, who said McKinnon had stayed that night at her house.

She said she had not heard him leave the house at any time between 3:15 a.m.—when she went to bed—and about 8 a.m.

The safe was intact at 6 a.m. that day, and was found open at 7:45.

McKinnon, in arguing his case, pointed out that one man working on the safe would not have much time in darkness hours to do so.

"I don't think anyone would perform this kind of activity in daylight," he told the court.

There is also the Legislative Press Gallery, a place and a group which has no official status in Parliament.

The place—half the place, rather, is a four-foot-wide shelf behind the oaken barrier that stretches across one end of the magnificent Chamber, its run broken midway by the ornate gable under which sits all-powerful Mr. Speaker on his throne.

Ten not very comfortable wooden chairs front a sloping oak counter from which at intervals jut plywood-boxed amplifiers. There are also inkwells with swingout lids. For years, these have been dry as a back bencher's maiden speech.

Dreamers Awake

Here sit the newsmen assigned to this choice but difficult beat. View them from public or ladies' galleries and they look to be asleep or daydreaming. But let the member from Juniper Junction intrude into his verbiage something that matters, and the pencils move as one.

From each wing of the shelf, stairs a trifle steeper than a destroyer's companionway pitch to a well that opens by a narrow door into Speaker's corridor. Those stairs haven't killed anyone yet. At least, not quite.

Parliament has its bar against strangers. Ours, though not of visible and well-shined brass, is equally solid. None save an accredited gallery member or a message-bearing page boy or attendant may risk his neck on our stairs.

Who's Invisible?

So much for the half of the place and institution which in theory (though definitely not in fact) is invisible to the Honourable Members.

The other half consists of two high-ceilinged rooms a pace beyond the corridor doors. They hold desks, antique typewriters, old orders of the day, and telephone booths scorched by sulphurous parleys between gallery men and their niggling editors.

Here are also reporters and correspondents (that's a reporter away from home), who type with two, four or nine fingers at fantastic speed. In the annex room are huge leather-covered armchairs sent down from a former Government House.

Pictures by the dozen gaze out of this orderly confusion. There are press gallery groups of bygone years, and photographs or sketches of great men from Bennett through Pattullo and on to times which few inmates now remember.

Merry Blaze

The main room has a fireplace sealed off with a metal sheet. It stood open once, but on a cold night long ago, a reporter whose name is still legend decided to eke out the warming powers of whisky with a merry blaze.

This he obtained by prying up a yard or so of wooden parquet floor, and firing it with a bundle of private members' bills. Next day, by Mr. Speaker's edict, in came the steel plate.

Jury Finds 'Guilty With Malice'

Ruby Gets Death Sentence

Fiery Attorney Plans to Appeal

(Times News Services)

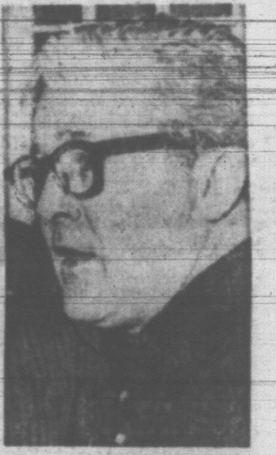
DALLAS — Jack Ruby was convicted today of murder with malice in the killing of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, and was sentenced to death in the electric chair.

Chief defence lawyer Melvin Belli, red-faced and shouting, told reporters he will appeal.

He accused the jurors of having prejudged the case.

Ruby sat stone-faced as jury foreman Max Causey, the first juror selected, handed over the verdict and Judge Joe B. Brown read it.

Officers hurried him back to solitary confinement in the county jail before anyone could question him.



MELVIN BELLI
. . . blows his top

The jury of eight men and four women received the case at 1:05 a.m. CST today, began its deliberation at 9:15 a.m. and reported it had reached a verdict at 11:34 a.m.

A date for formal sentencing will be set later.

In dead stillness, Brown read the verdict reached by the eight men and four women: "We, the jury, find murder with malice . . . and assess his punishment at death.

In Texas, the jury not only determines guilt or innocence but fixes the extent of the penalty.

The verdict in the courtroom was televised and broadcast nationally — as was the explosive moment of the shooting of Oswald last Nov. 24.

A date for formal sentencing will be set later.

'Jury Shoved Down Our Throats'

Belli and his aides contend the jury had made its mind up before final arguments that stretched into early today. Belli called it a "kangaroo railroad" by a "jury that was shoved down our throats."

"The greatest kangaroo railroading disgrace in the history of American law," said Belli.

"Appeal, appeal," Belli screamed "today!"

He said he would go to the state capital, Austin, to file. Courts, however, are closed on Saturday in the state capital.

He raged more than he had during the frequent legal clashes at the trial.

He denounced the jury for wanting to continue in yesterday's marathon 16-hour session that ended at 1:05 a.m.

"Even in darkest Africa, you wouldn't argue for a man's life after midnight."

"A violent miscarriage of justice," said Asst. Defence attorney Joe H. Tonahill, "I am about to throw up."

Belli said Ruby did not say a word.

"I think he didn't get the full import of it."

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade said he thought the "facts fully warranted" the death penalty. He had said immediately after the handcuffed Oswald was shot to death that he would seek the death penalty.

Wade said it was a killing of "our government and law rather than men . . . not guilty would have put our civilization back to barbarianism."

In final arguments, he asked the jurors to show Ruby "the same compassion he showed Lee Harvey Oswald."

'I Think It Was a Proper Verdict'

Wade added, in a news conference, "I am very well satisfied with it. I think it was a proper verdict. I didn't think acquittal or a term of years was the proper verdict."

Assistant District Attorney William F. Alexander reviewed the entire prosecution case against Ruby Friday.

In tones dripping with sarcasm, he tore into the defence story that Ruby was unhinged by the assassination of the president, whom he "loved very much."

Alexander pointed out that at the time of Kennedy's motorcade in Dallas, Ruby was framing a newspaper advertisement for one of his night clubs. The 52-year-old girlie show operator has two establishments in Dallas.

"He wouldn't stir himself to walk five blocks to see the president," said Alexander.

Coming to the core of the state's argument for the death penalty, Alexander shouted: "American justice is on trial. Lee Harvey Oswald was entitled to the protection of the law until there was time to try him."

The lawyer shot out a long arm toward the accused man and said:

"You were the judge, the jury and the executioner. You

TURKISH CYPRIOTS FEARFUL

(Times News Services)

NICOSIA — Disappointment because Turkish troops have not landed, Turkish-Cypriots expressed fears today of a fresh wave of violence.

Many Turkish-Cypriots had gone to bed Friday night with high hopes that Turkish paratroopers and elements of its fleet would be here by morning.

Cyprus Tension Eases

CP from Reuters-AP

NICOSIA—The tense situation over troubled Cyprus appeared to ease from the brink of war today following a Turkish statement welcoming urgent moves to set up a United Nations peacekeeping force for the island.

The statement, issued after a cabinet meeting late Friday night, superseded an earlier warning to Cyprus of Turkish unilateral intervention if sweeping measures were not taken to restore peace and normality to the island.

Reports that 10,000 Turkish troops had embarked in ships at Iskenderun, a seaport on Turkey's southern coast facing Cyprus, had backed the Turkish warning and heightened the already sizzling tension in the three-month crisis.

GREECE HAPPY

In Athens, a Greek government spokesman expressed satisfaction with the Turkish statement. Following a two-hour emergency cabinet meeting, a government source said the Greek armed forces would be in a state of preparedness until the UN force arrived in Cyprus and guaranteed the integrity of the island.

A small reconnaissance party of Canadian soldiers and airmen arrived in Cyprus today to arrange for the landing of about 1,150 Canadian troops tentatively earmarked for the peace force.

Earlier Greek-Cypriot President Makarios had rejected the Turkish warning and following talks in Athens, where he had attended the funeral of King Paul, said if the Turks landed in Cyprus the Greeks would come too.

He said the Turkish warning constituted "further untenable" interference in the internal affairs of Cyprus.

In Paris, the NATO permanent council met at the request of Greece to discuss the situation which, due to Greece and Turkey's membership in the western defence alliance, has been regarded as a potential serious NATO problem.

On Cyprus itself, people relaxed as the threat of a possible Turkish invasion receded. But there still were rumblings.

Several shots were heard in Nicosia suburbs this morning. They were thought to be accidental.

'HIGH AND NOBLE PURPOSE'

Special Sitting Okays Canadians for Cyprus

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Canadian government today had Parliament's approval to send troops to help United Nations' peace-keeping in Cyprus and the first group of soldiers was packing gear to leave Sunday afternoon from Quebec City.

Both the Commons and Senate met in emergency sessions Saturday night to approve Prime Minister Pearson's decision to commit Canadian troops to the force.

He said the 1,150-man force was undertaking "perhaps a more difficult and dangerous role than any United Nations force since the world organization began."

But he said, "I ask the House to approve a contribution by Canada to this force for a high and noble purpose."

The Canadian Army flew a 26-man reconnaisance group to Cyprus Friday to prepare for the Canadians' arrival. They landed in Cyprus today.

A defence department spokesman said the first troops would arrive on Cyprus Monday afternoon and that the entire Canadian contingent would be on the embattled island in two weeks or so.

Transport aircraft were being flown from across Canada to get ready for the airlift. Small arms will go on the planes but vehicles and other heavy equipment are expected to be moved on the Canadian aircraft carrier Bonaventure.

The Canadain force is made up of the 1st Battalion of the famed French-Canadian Royal 22nd Regiment, the "Van Doos," from Valcartier, Que., with a reconnaisance group from the

IRISH GET SET TO GO

DUBLIN (Reuters) — The defence department announced today an advance party of Irish troops will leave Dublin shortly to pave the way for an Irish battalion going to Cyprus as part of the United Nations peace force on the island.

Will Join Force

HELSINKI (AP) — The Finnish government decided today that Finland will send a battalion of soldiers to join the UN peace force on Cyprus.

A spokesman said it will take several weeks before the soldiers are trained and ready to take on such an assignment.

Security Council Issues Unanimous Plea for Calm

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The first troops of a UN peace force were flying to Cyprus today, and the Security Council called for renewed calm among the parties concerned in the festering dispute there.

The council adjourned an emergency session on Cyprus shortly before midnight with a unanimous appeal to all parties to do nothing to worsen the situation.

Earlier, Turkey had assured the council it had issued no ultimatum to Cyprus, dispatches from Ankara said Turkey had dropped plans for any immediate landing of troops there.

Russia and Czechoslovakia attacked Turkey for "flagrant violations of the UN charter" and "a reversion to the principles of Hitler Germany," but neither Communist nation voted against the resolution introduced by the five non-permanent members of the council calling for renewed calm.

As the resolution was passing, word came from Ottawa that the Canadian Parliament had authorized the sending of 1,150 men to Cyprus as part of a UN force.

A UN spokesman said that with the Canadians on the way the UN force "can be considered to be in operation."

The advance contingent of Canadians flew in to Cyprus today in an RCAF Yukon. It carried 42 officers and men of the Royal 22nd Regiment, the Royal Canadian Dragoons and the RCAF.

They were met at the airport by the temporary commander of the international force, Maj.-Gen. Carlos Flores de Paiva-Chaves of Brazil.

Indian Lt.-Gen. P. S. Gyani, named by Secretary-General Thant as the force's permanent commander, is on a week's leave of absence in India for what have been described as "urgent personal reasons."

Turkey and Cyprus squabbled briefly in Friday night's debate over the interpretation of the resolution's call on all member states "to refrain from any action or threat of action likely to worsen the situation in Cyprus or endanger international peace."

Turkey said this was a clear reference to the Greek-Cypriots, but the Cypriots said it referred to Turkey.

The five sponsors of the resolution — Brazil, Bolivia, Ivory Coast, Norway and Morocco — did not rule either way. Norwegian Ambassador Sivert Nielsen said both sides should strive to keep the peace.

SECURITY INFORMATION SOUGHT

Store Manager Abducted

VANCOUVER (CP) — A supermarket manager and his pyjama-clad wife were held at gunpoint for more than two hours Friday night while two bandits threatened them in efforts to get information about security measures at Canada Safeway stores.

Cecil Bedford, [illegible] was abducted as he fixed a flat tire on his car outside his store in the Dunbar district. The bandits forced him into his car and made him drive to his Burnaby home, then forced his wife into the car.

They were driven to a wooded area and forced out of the car. The men drove away.

They robbed the couple of $3, using $2 for gas for the car. During the ride the men asked Mr. Bedford about security, safes, burglar alarms and working hours at the stores.

The couple walked out of the area and called police early today.

FRIDAY

WEEK ON MARKETS

Metals, Speculatives Feature

By IAN MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Activity in junior and senior metals and renewed interest in a select range of speculative mines were the main features on Canadian stock markets this week.

The big news as far as metals were concerned came Friday with the announcement that American Smelting and Refining Co. had increased the price of copper by one cent to 32 cents a pound, effective immediately.

This move followed price increases of African and Chilean copper from 29½ cents to 30½ cents a pound. U.S. copper prices have been steady at 31 cents since May, 1961, but Anaconda Co., third biggest American producer, followed American Smelting's lead after markets had closed Friday.

Copper issues on Canadian markets reacted strongly to the price boost with most of them surging ahead to establish new highs for the year. International Nickel touched $80.25, Hudson Bay Mining $67 and Noranda Mines $45.13.

Junior issues also moved higher, Opemiska closing Friday in Toronto at $9, Campbell Chibougamau at $4.95 and Lake Dufault at $9.95. Trading was heavy throughout.

NORTHCAL GAINS

In the speculative sector, Northcal made gains on heavy turnover. The company is exploring properties in Greece under an agreement with Placer Development. Unisphere, with a similar agreement, was active and higher.

Calvert Gas and Oils, the second heaviest trader for the week in Toronto, continued to advance. The company is renewing its interest in mine exploration with a drill test on Gaspe copper property.

One enigma as far as Toronto was concerned was Cowichan Copper, which hit a two-year low of 43 cents after it went into bankruptcy and removed from the board in Vancouver. It closed Friday at 44½ cents.

Turning to the industrial board, Canadian Collieries generated interest following the announcement that U.S.-controlled Western Plywood Co. intends to make a takeover offer of $13 a share. The Canadian company sold at $12.50 at one point before slipping back to $12.13 by week end.

Dominion Foundries and Steel continued to set new highs with rumors of a stock-split still in the air. The Hamilton company is planning a 30-per-cent increase in primary hot rolling capacity and is predicting a further good year in 1964.

OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Meanwhile economic indicators remained bright with higher earnings and dividends for the first quarter reported by a number of the larger corporations. Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp also has reported public and private investment in Canada this year will be up eight per cent from 1963. The only cloud on the horizon as far as brokers are concerned is the federal budget due Monday, but no predictions are being made.

Volume in Toronto was 17,515,761 shares compared with 16,345,926 last week. Value was $51,259,110 compared with $53,089,807.

On index in Toronto, the Exchange index rose 1.25 to 133.07, industrials 1.29 to 141.87, base metals 1.26 to 66.23, western oils .69 to 83.59 and golds slipped .32 to 135.24.

In Montreal, industrials traded 1,148,999 shares compared with 1,005,999 last week and mines traded 3,900,511 shares compared with 2,675,631.

On index in Montreal, industrials advanced 0.9 to 137.6, utilities 0.8 to 122.5, banks 1.8 to 120.7, composite 1.4 to 133.2 and papers dipped 0.1 to 121.3.

Collieries Keeps Name Despite Sale

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian Collieries Ltd. will retain its name, corporate identity and present management if its shares are bought by an American-owned firm, John Bene, president of Western Plywood, said Thursday.

He made the statement in denying reports Western Plywood, owned by U.S. Plywood Co., might absorb Canadian Collieries and destroy the firm's historic provincial identity.

"It is our plan that Canadian Collieries will remain a corporate entity as a subsidiary of Western Plywood," Mr. Bene said.

"It may not even be a wholly-owned subsidiary as some of its shares may remain in the hands of the public.

"But we consider its management efficient and we are satisfied with its corporate structure."

Western Plywood plans to offer $13 per share for outstanding Collieries stock. It was also planned to reconstitute Western Plywood's capital and to offer at least 25 per cent to Canadians.

Great Plains Shows Gain in Profits

CALGARY (CP)—Great Plains Development Co. of Canada Ltd. had net income of $659,231 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1963, compared with $193,851 in 1962. Revenue increased to $5,411,449 from $2,933,257. Working capital increased to $9,10[illegible]13, compared with $6,883,560 "primarily due to the $3,500,000 cash payment received from Burmah Oil Co. Ltd., L. W. MacNaughton said.

400 FANS TRIED HARD BUT MAYBE THEY NEEDED THE REAL THING

The Beatles Up Against DDT at Early Show

By PETE LOUDON

They shrieked valiantly, but the 400 Beatle fans couldn't drown out the statistics this morning at Memorial Arena.

There were 3,200 vacant seats when the countdown ended.

Alas! poor Beatles—today they met the DDT — Darn Difficult Time.

The Beatles came here direct from New York by taped closed circuit television and the plan was that they were to be simultaneously seen and heard by as many fans as saw the Liston-Clay fight.

Are the Beatles going the way of Sonny Liston

Well, we'll hedge a bit and say maybe the $2.50 gate admission was too steep for their teen-age fans. Or maybe the 11:30 a.m. start was too early and the 2 p.m. showing would draw more.

The kids who did show were doing their best to preserve the magical-attraction image of the mop-headed quartet from Liverpool. The line-up outside the arena started at 7:30 a.m.

When the doors opened at 11:30 a.m., four hours later, there were 300 youngsters waiting, mostly girls huddled under umbrellas.

And when the door did open, they pushed and heaved and screamed and burst through in approved fashion, hitting the inside stairs on the dead run, flowing down the rink-side seats and over the boards to grab up the floor seats.

But there the excitement seemed to die, swallowed up by the vast empty coldness of the arena cavern. Isn't that what happened when the children followed the Pied Piper?

SEEPED THROUGH

The chill of the ice, covered by plywood, seeped through the bobby socks. Soon the mad chatter was heard only in the coffee bar where the popcorn and hot-dogs at least, retained their drawing power.

Ah fickle youth! Arena manager Jack Morgan said if the show was available at $1.50 "they'd be hanging from the rafters." But the thought persists — a good bingo would outdraw Ringo.

Shirley Nelson, 17, of Oak Bay High, injured last week at school, came on crutches, one of the die-hards.

'ALL YOU HEARD'

"It was all you heard at school. I was determined to come," she said.

Frances Dodsworth, 15, same school, an usherette, said she had expected more students. But if she had been required to pay, she wouldn't be there either she admitted.

Well cool cats — back to the drawing board. Now if we can find a bald-headed trio that could perform under water . . .

VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1964—PAGE 17

Topics of the Day

Gale-force winds whipped Victoria at noon today, gusting to 52 mph.

Average wind speed was 37 but gusts up to 60 are expected to continue until late tonight.

Alternate periods of rain and clearing will prevail this weekend, weatherman Bill Mackie said today.

However, Victorians should consider themselves lucky. More than two inches of rain was recorded on the west coast of the Island during the past 24 hours.

Three Victoria youths are still listed in critical condition at local hospitals following automobile accidents during the past two weeks.

Larry Williams, 17, of 2912 Quadra, has failed to regain consciousness at Royal Jubilee Hospital since the car in which he was riding went out of control on Maplewood, Feb. 29.

Also critical, but showing signs of improvement at St. Joseph's Hospital are Peter Shaw, 17, of 1586 Verling and Richard Fletcher, 19, of 1073 Stelly's Cross Road.

Their auto went out of control Thursday evening on West Saanich Road, near Wallace Drive.

EASTER SEAL WEEK has been officially proclaimed by Mayor R. B. Wilson to start March 22. As the mayor signed the proclamation "Timmy" Steven Cracknell, 3630 Elliston Avenue, presented the mayor with the first issue of Easter seal stamps. Objective of the campaign, sponsored by the Lions' Club, is $18,000.

Union Man Confirms Division on Tactics

David Chapman, chief shipyard union negotiator in the six-week strike, said today Victoria negotiators are responsible for a block in talks, but there is no split.

Mr. Chapman said there was no spite involved in trouble with the Victoria men, but "I don't think they had received authority from their members to negotiate."

He said that last week's fruitless talks with managements' representatives had contained no specific contract proposal.

"We just negotiate — they make an offer. They did suggest a four-year contract but that was no good."

Any further meetings, he said, will have to be arranged by chief conciliation officer Reg Clements.

"He told me there is not much chance of any meetings next week.

Win Dietrich Trophy

Saanich District 113, Junior Forest Wardens, have won the Fred Dietrich trophy in a provincial all-round proficiency competition.

The Saanich group was also named a runner-up in a provincial Forest Conservation Week activities competition.

LIONS RALLY LARGEST

Empress Scheduled For 31 Conventions

Thirty-one conventions are booked at the Empress Hotel this year—in addition to the four which have already been held there since the New Year opened.

Largest of them all is the assembly of Lions Club from all regions of the Pacific Northwest which will bring more than 600 delegates to the hotel from May 26 to 30.

More than 400 will attend a convention of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the Rebecca Assembly from June 8 to 11 and 550 delegates are expected at the Pi Beta Phi fraternity gathering June 21 to 27.

A conference of the Air Transport Association of Canada Nov. 2-4 is expected to bring some 400 delegates to the city and the Oregon Bankers' Association well in excess of 250.

Newcomers to the convention scene in Victoria this year is the Tea and Coffee Association of Canada which will have 200 delegates at the Empress from Sept. 27 to 30.

SMALLEST ON RECORD

Smallest on record is that of the Canadian Securities Administrators—25 of them are meeting here Sept. 16 to 18.

Following is a complete list of the 1964 conventions:

Federation of Agriculture, Nov. 10-11; Association of Professional Engineers, Dec. 4-5.

OLDSTERS GRAB INTRUDER

Two octogenarians subdued and restrained a drunken sailor who broke into their Gorge Road home at 3 a.m. today.

The young man smashed his way into their house after leaping half-naked from a cab and disrupting the early morning sleep of a nearby apartment house.

In Saanich police court, Magistrate William Ostler told Larry Garnet Hyde, 630 Wilson, that he could have been charged with a variety of offences more serious than being drunk in a public place, to which Hyde pleaded guilty.

"You might have ruined your (navy) career, broken up your family and be ruined for life," the magistrate said, imposing a $50 fine instead of the customary $10.

POUNDING ON DOORS

Cpl. Robert Peterson told the court Saanich had a complaint from 311 Gorge, an apartment building, where someone was running up and down pounding on doors.

When police got there he had left, but as the prowl car drove off another call reached it.

H. D. Harris, 85, and S. T. MacCabe, 84, of 345 Gorge West, reported they were holding a shirtless man who broke a glass pane in the front door to burst into their home.

Police locked up Hyde pending a charge of wilful damage, which was substituted with the intoxication charge.

Hyde, in court, recollected nothing of the incidents, but police said he had muttered something about someone being after him.

He agreed to pay for damage.

Experimental Wait-Walk Lights Installed Here

City traffic officials are experimenting with us again.

New wait-walk lights go in at Fort and Douglas Tuesday using symbols in place of words and varying the colors.

It's all part of a national research project by Canadian Good Roads Association and supported by the provincial government.

Recently, under the same program, walk-wait signs using Chinese word symbols were employed in Chinatown. The latest experiment will use a symbol of a walking man and an open hand to see if it proves simpler than "Go" and "Stop" or red and green.

The tests will be conducted for three days.

Ask The Times

Q. To whom should an old age pensioner apply for a Kiwanis home? M.I.

A. Write to Mr. W. J. Lyle, 903 Linden Avenue.

Q. When was the first court of law started in North America? J.B.

A. First law courts opened in the New World were established at Trinity, Newfoundland, by Sir Richard Whitbourne in 1615.

BEATLE FANS didn't know it at 7:30 a.m., but there was really no need to line up so early for the Beatles taped closed circuit TV show at Memorial Arena today. There were eight seats for every waiting fan. Seen left to right, rear, are Lynn Forrester and Lynn Troutman. Front row: Edith Laik, Carol Nottingham, Susan Arnold and Linda Cormier. It was girls 20 to 1. (Strickland photo.)

Economists' Survey Of Milk Prices Proposed by MLA

Saanich MLA John Tisdalle today called for a special review of milk prices by an independent commission of economists.

He said the review should be made outside the authority of the B.C. Milk Board in hope of settling price problems now irking dairy farmers.

Mr. Tisdalle made his views public in an interview after Island Milk Producers' Organization appealed Friday for a boost in the prices paid milk producers.

IMPO president William Taylor of Central Saanich said he expected the boost, if granted, would mean a boost also in the price paid by consumers.

MORE FOR PRODUCER

Mr. Tisdalle said he is hopeful this could be avoided. He thinks a review of the pricing formula now maintained by the milk board might mean more for the producer, less for the distributor and leave the consumer paying for milk at the same level as now.

Mr. Tisdalle explained that the milk board formula for prices is based on fluctuations in labor and feed costs throughout B.C., among other factors.

"But something is wrong when the producer ends up being paid less for his product than he was paid in 1953.

"This is the reason so many dairymen are giving up and going into beef farming," he said.

He predicted a milk shortage in Canada if the trend continues.

UNREALISTIC

Mr. Tisdalle said the formula appears unrealistic because one of the basic costs considered in setting milk prices is the cost of farm labor generally in B.C.

But the formula should consider the costs of dairy farmers specifically, he states. He said dairy farmers' costs are a year-round drain on their resources while other forms of farming are of a seasonal nature.

Another factor considered, feed costs, also appears to work against the interests of the dairymen, he said.

PARK ABLAZE WITH EARLY SPRING COLOR

Spring is really busting out all over Beacon Hill Park, administrator W. H. Warren said Friday.

"Weeping willows are starting to turn green, plums and early cherries are in bloom and early flowering types of wallflowers, pansies, polyanthus and primroses are out," he said.

"Christmas Cheer rhododendron and the fragrant cream-colored Japanese andromeda are drawing attention these days.

"A few daffodils are coming out in the area of the Mayor's Grove. The main display on the south side of Beacon Hill is always later in blooming."

Fire Loss $2,000 In Unoccupied Langford House

Damage estimated at $2,000 was caused by a fire which broke out in an unoccupied Langford house early Friday.

The house, at 2844 Peatt Road, is owned by A. R. Johnson, 1067 Goldstream. He was having it remodelled.

The fire destroyed the living room and caused smoke damage to the rest of the house.

A fire department spokesman said the fire broke out in a chesterfield at about 2:45 a.m.

39 VEW 'UGLY TRENDS'

Housing Hecklers Brave Deluge

Thirty-nine men and women—and one infant—braved a downpour this morning in a two-hour walking tour designed to draw public attention to "ugly trends" in apartment construction.

The group gathered in a drizzle at the parking lot in Beacon Hill Park and, carrying placards, moved off on a three-mile trek through the James Bay area.

The drizzle turned into a drenching rainstorm which continued through most of the tour.

"Is this a peace march?" asked a man at the corner of Douglas and Government streets.

Far from it. The tour was organized by the capital region branch of the Community Planning Association of Canada with the object of drawing attention to the "progressive uglification" of James Bay.

"We are not against high-rises as such, but we feel they should be integrated with sensible planning," said Mrs. B. Levitz Packford, an executive member who organized the tour.

"The main thing is to arouse public interest," said Frank Crocker, treasurer of the capital region branch.

Youngest member of the group was one-year-old Michael Gray, who travelled in a stroller pushed by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Gray, 271 Michigan.

From Beacon Hill Park, the group moved through Toronto, Government, Marifield, St. Andrew's, Simcoe, South Turner, Niagara and Clarence streets to Belleville, where they stopped for coffee.

Later they attended a luncheon meeting in the Tally Ho Travelodge.

FORTIFIED with rainhats and umbrellas, a citizen's group interested in community planning gathered in rain-swept Beacon Hill Park today for a two-hour walking tour of the James Bay area. At right of the picture are Mrs. B. Levitz Packford, executive member of the Capital Region branch of the Community Planning Association of Canada, and Frank Crocker, treasurer.

OWNER FLEES TRAILER FIRE AT COLWOOD

A Vancouver man escaped just in time when fire swept through his trailer at a Colwood trailer park at 6:30 this morning.

Ian Wilson suffered no injuries but his trailer and its contents were destroyed. Damage is estimated at $2,000. The trailer was insured.

The trailer was parked at the Waldorf Motel and Trailer Park, 314 Goldstream, owned by Jack Lock.

PROGRAM BEHIND SCHEDULE

37 DAYS GONE—RECORD 45

Marathon House Session Surprises Legislators

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

The B.C. legislature is heading for an unexpected marathon session.

Already the lawmakers have sat for 37 days since the session began Jan. 23.

The all-time record is 45 days, established in 1920 and equalled in 1962.

When the session began this year there were few predictions for fireworks or lengthy debates.

In fact, with a provincial election just over, there seemed to be few major issues.

The issues still haven't materialized, but the debate has been unusually lengthy.

Expectations of prorogation for next Friday now seem beyond the realm of possibility.

Late this week even the belief that everyone would be home by Easter took a dive.

The moment of truth came at 1:15 a.m. Friday when an angry Premier W. A. C. Bennett called off a marathon debate on parks policy.

An MLA said the premier told him afterwards in the corridor that there would be no more night sittings, and that the House might be adjourned before Easter until April 15 for a second sitting.

Asked about it Friday evening, Mr. Bennett replied: "No comment."

But Social Credit caucus members have been warned the sessional program is behind schedule.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan still holds out that it could all end in a rush next week.

But Social Crediters are less optimistic.

If things aren't wrapped up by Good Friday, March 27, it may prove essential to adjourn for a couple of weeks.

Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Robert Bonner are due in Ottawa March 31 for a federal-provincial conference.

Resources Minister Ray Williston and Mr. Bonner are also expected to appear before the national Parliament's external affairs committee early in April to testify about the Columbia River project.

Still to come before the House are the controversial social welfare department's estimates.

In addition, debate on the recreation department has been stalled until next Thursday when the minister, Kenneth Kiernan, returns from a trip to California to promote tourism.

Next week the House will discuss the lands, forests and water resources departments and public works.

There is also some legislation still to be debated.

It all points to a mighty rush to finish next weekend, but a possibility of winding up by March 25, which would equal the record.

NEWS OF CITY CHURCHES

Sunday Day of Rejoicing For Birth of Queen's Son

All Victoria churches have been asked to observe Sunday as a day of rejoicing for the birth of a son to Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

The request is contained in a royal proclamation issued by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes and addressed to all churches in British Columbia. The proclamation reads:

"Now know ye that We do issue this Our Royal Proclamation that Sunday the fifteenth day of March, 1964, be observed through the province as a day of rejoicing and as a day of prayer to Almighty God, all of which our living subects and all others whom these presents concern are hereby called upon to observe on this joyous occasion."

* * *

Mrs. Grace Hanning, soprano, will sing the solo passages in Schubert's anthem Great is Jehovah to be performed by the Sanctuary Choir in Metropolitan United Church Sunday morning.

The choir, conducted by Capt. James Gayfer, will also sing The Lord is My Shepherd (Macfarren) in the morning and O Gladsome Light (Sullivan) at the evening service, which will be broadcast over CJVI.

Eric Boothroyd's organ preludes will be Andante in B Flat (Mozart) and Adagio from Opus 198 (Rheimberger).

* * *

Rev. E. W. S. Gilbert, former command chaplain overseas with the RCAF, will preach in Christ Church Cathedral at the 11 a.m. Sunday service.

He joined the cathedral staff recently after retiring from the RCAF with the rank of wing commander.

* * *

Rev. Marvin Evans will give the second of two talks on "Capital Punishment—For and Against" at a meeting of Victoria Unitarian Church in the War Amputees Hall, 1610 Oak Bay Avenue, Sunday at 8 p.m.

Directors of the church will meet at Mr. Evans' residence, 908 Deal Street, Wednesday at 8 p.m.

* * *

Paul Wharf and W. H. Gregory will sing the duet This Day Shalt Thou Be With Me (Dubois) at the 11 a.m. service in First United Church.

The choir will sing the anthem The Lord Is My Shepherd (Crimond) at 9:30 a.m.; Jesus Word of God Incarnate (Mozart) at 11 a.m.; Jesus Bread of Life (Whithead and Brother James Air (Jacob) at 7:30 p.m.

At the evening service the invocation will be given by Sheila Thomas, and Ronald Anderson will read the Scripture.

* * *

Pastor Glenn A. Coon of Tennessee will continue his "This Can Change Your Life" series at Seventh-day Adventist Church Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

His subject will be "The Greatest Discovery of My Life."

* * *

The 8 a.m. Communion Service in St. John's Anglican Church Sunday will be a Young People's Corporate followed by breakfast in the Fireside Room.

Canon George Biddle will preach on "The City of God" at the 11 a.m. service.

Construction Starts On Low-Rent Project

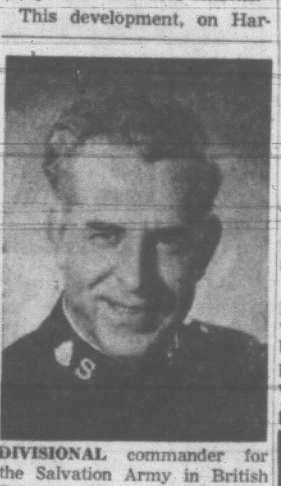
Construction started this week on a new eight-suite building addition to the Gorge View Society's low-rental development for senior citizens.

This development, on Harriet Road between Gorge and Burnside, is sponsored by the Victoria Presbytery of the United Church of Canada.

The five-acre site is one of the finest the United Church owns in Canada for the purpose of housing senior citizens. Architects for the new building are Wade, Stockdill and Armour, and the contractor Herb Bate Construction Limited, Victoria.

Suites contain private bathrooms and kitchens, complete with ranges and refrigerators, built-in fixtures and drapes and electric heating.

A variety of bequests and provincial government grants will be used to finance the new building which, when complete, will reduce the current waiting list of elderly widows.



DIVISIONAL commander for the Salvation Army in British Columbia, Lt.-Col. Leslie Pindred will give the meditation at the weekly Lenten service in the Salvation Army Citadel, 757 Pandora Avenue, Wednesday at 8 p.m. His topic will be "The Message and Ministry of Jesus Christ."

Quebec Catholics Set Liaison With Press

QUEBEC (CP) — Roman Catholic French-language dioceses across Canada will be asked to set up press committees to establish links between the press and religious authorities.

One task of the committee will be to facilitate meetings between members of the press and bishops, priests or members of religious communities.

Abbe Yvon Desrosiers of the National Catholic Office of Broadcasting Techniques in Montreal said it is often difficult to get information from diocesan authorities because they have no news sense.

The press committees would be in line with the wish of the Vatican ecumenical council to make the church more democratic, he said.

Representatives of the national group and its commissions on radio-television, the cinema and the press met here.

Jesus' Temptation

Pastor Jack Loughton will speak on "The Temptation of Jesus" at the Sunday morning service in the First Church of the Nazarene.

LBJ 'Poverty War' Message Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's long-awaited special message detailing plans for a war on poverty in the United States will be delivered to Congress Monday, the White House announced today.

Labor Increases Edge Over Tories

LONDON (Reuters)—Harold Wilson's opposition Labor party was heartened today by the latest results of public opinion polls which give it an 11-per-cent edge over the rulling Conservative party.

The percentage gave the Labor party a jump forward from the 5½-per-cent margin it had a few weeks ago and represented the biggest lead over their rivals since the end of 1963.

Tennis Ace to Shed Du Pont Hubbie

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—William du Pont Jr., scion of a giant chemical company, says his wife, former Wimbledon tennis champion Margaret Osborne, is in Reno to get a divorce.

Two Boys Killed In Car-Train Crash

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two young boys were killed today in a car-train collision in neighboring St. Vital that injured a third boy and the parents of the children.

Police said Keith Penner, eight, and John, four, were killed. Burton, five, was in hospital, as were Aaron Penner, 38, and his wife Lynda, 43. Byron was said to be severely injured.

CYPRUS DISPUTE

Plea for Calm Issued by UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The first troops of a UN peace force were flying to Cyprus today, and the Security Council called for renewed calm among the parties concerned in the festering dispute there.

The council adjourned an emergency session on Cyprus shortly before midnight with a unanimous appeal to all parties to do nothing to worsen the situation.

Earlier, Turkey had assured the council it had issued no ultimatum to Cyprus, dispatches from Ankara said Turkey had dropped plans for any immediate landing of troops there.

Russia and Czechoslovakia attacked Turkey for "flagrant violations of the UN charter" and "a reversion to the principles of Hitler Germany," but neither Communist nation voted against the resolution introduced by the five non-permanent members of the council calling for renewed calm.

As the resolution was passing, word came from Ottawa that the Canadian Parliament had authorized the sending of 1,150 men to Cyprus as part of a UN force.

A UN spokesman said that with the Canadians on the way the UN force "can be considered to be in operation."

The advance contingent of Canadians flew in to Cyprus today in an RCAF Yukon. It carried 42 officers and men of the Royal 22nd Regiment, the Royal Canadian Dragoons and the RCAF.

TEMPORARY CHIEF

They were met at the airport by the temporary commander of the international force, Maj.-Gen. Carlos Flores de Paiva-Chaves of Brazil.

Indian Lt.-Gen. P. S. Gyani, named by Secretary-General Thant as the force's permanent commander, is on a week's leave of absence in India for what have been described as "urgent personal reasons."

Turkey and Cyprus squabbled briefly in Friday night's debate over the interpretation of the resolution's call on all member states "to refrain from any action or threat of action likely to worsen the situation in Cyprus or endanger international peace."

Turkey said this was a clear reference to the Greek-Cypriots, but the Cypriots said it referred to Turkey.

The five sponsors of the resolution — Brazil, Bolivia, Ivory Coast, Norway and Morocco — did not rule either way. Norwegian Ambassador Sivert Nielsen said both sides should strive to keep the peace.

The place—half the place, rather, is a four-foot-wide shelf behind the oaken barrier that stretches across one end of the magnificent Chamber, its run broken midway by the ornate gable under which sits all-powerful Mr. Speaker on his throne.

Ten not very comfortable wooden chairs front a sloping oak counter from which at intervals jut plywood-boxed amplifiers. There are also inkwells with swingout lids. For years, these have been dry as a back bencher's maiden speech.

TURKISH CYPRIOTS FEARFUL

(Times News Services)

NICOSIA — Disappointment because Turkish troops have not landed, Turkish-Cypriots expressed fears today of a fresh wave of violence.

Many Turkish-Cypriots had gone to bed Friday night with high hopes that Turkish paratroopers and elements of its fleet would be here by morning.

Cyprus Tension Eases

CP from Reuters-AP

NICOSIA—The tense situation over troubled Cyprus appeared to ease from the brink of war today following a Turkish statement welcoming urgent moves to set up a United Nations peacekeeping force for the island.

The statement, issued after a cabinet meeting late Friday night, superseded an earlier warning to Cyprus of Turkish unilateral intervention if sweeping measures were not taken to restore peace and normality to the island.

Reports that 10,000 Turkish troops had embarked in ships at Iskenderun, a seaport on Turkey's southern coast facing Cyprus, had backed the Turkish warning and heightened the already sizzling tension in the three-month crisis.

GREECE HAPPY

In Athens, a Greek government spokesman expressed satisfaction with the Turkish statement. Following a two-hour emergency cabinet meeting, a government source said the Greek armed forces would be in a state of preparedness until the UN force arrived in Cyprus and guaranteed the integrity of the island.

A small reconnaissance party of Canadian soldiers and airmen arrived in Cyprus today to arrange for the landing of about 1,150 Canadian troops tentatively earmarked for the peace force.

INTERFERENCE

Earlier Greek-Cypriot President Makarios had rejected the Turkish warning and following talks in Athens, where he had attended the funeral of King Paul, said if the Turks landed in Cyprus the Greeks would come too.

He said the Turkish warning constituted "further untenable" interference in the internal affairs of Cyprus.

In Paris, the NATO permanent council met at the request of Greece to discuss the situation which, due to Greece and Turkey's membership in the western defence alliance, has been regarded as a potential serious NATO problem.

On Cyprus itself, people relaxed as the threat of a possible Turkish invasion receded. But there still were rumblings.

Several shots were heard in Nicosia suburbs this morning. They were thought to be accidental.

First Canadian Troops Reach Troubled Cyprus

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Canadian government today had Parliament's approval to send troops to help United Nations' peace-keeping in Cyprus and the first group of soldiers was packing gear to leave Sunday afternoon from Quebec City.

Both the Commons and Senate met in emergency sessions Saturday night to approve Prime Minister Pearson's decision to commit Canadian troops to the force.

He said the 1,150-man force was undertaking "perhaps a more difficult and dangerous role than any United Nations force since the world organization began."

But he said, "I ask the House to approve a contribution by Canada to this force for a high and noble purpose."

The Canadian Army flew a 26-man reconnaisance group to Cyprus Friday to prepare for the Canadians' arrival. They landed in Cyprus today.

A defence department spokesman said the first troops would arrive on Cyprus Monday afternoon and that the entire Canadian contingent would be on the embattled island in two weeks or so.

Transport aircraft were being flown from across Canada to get ready for the airlift. Small arms will go on the planes but vehicles and other heavy equipment are expected to be moved on the Canadian aircraft carrier Bonaventure.

The Canadian force is made up of the 1st Battalion of the famed French-Canadian Royal 22nd Regiment, the "Van Doos," from Valcartier, Que., with a reconnaisance group from the

IRISH GET SET TO GO

DUBLIN (Reuters) — The defence department announced today an advance party of Irish troops will leave Dublin shortly to pave the way for an Irish battalion going to Cyprus as part of the United Nations peace force on the island.

HELSINKI (AP) — The Finnish government decided today that Finland will send a battalion of soldiers to join the UN peace force on Cyprus.

A spokesman said it will take several weeks before the soldiers are trained and ready to take on such an assignment.

Case Pre-Judged, Charges Lawyer

(Times News Services)

DALLAS — Jack Ruby was convicted today of murder with malice in the killing of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, and was sentenced to death in the electric chair.

Chief defence lawyer Melvin Belli, red-faced and shouting, told reporters he will appeal.

He accused the jurors of having pre-judged the case.

Ruby sat stone-faced as jury foreman Max Causey, the first juror selected, handed over the verdict and Judge Joe B. Brown read it.

Officers hurried him back to solitary confinement in the county jail before anyone could question him.

The jury of eight men and four women received the case at 1:05 a.m. CST today, began its deliberation at 9:15 a.m. and reported it had reached a verdict at 11:34 a.m.

A date for formal sentencing will be set later.

In dead stillness, Brown read the verdict reached by the eight men and four women: "We, the jury, find murder with malice . . . and assess his punishment at death.

In Texas, the jury not only determines guilt or innocence but fixes the extent of the penalty.

The verdict in the courtroom was televised and broadcast nationally — as was the explosive moment of the shooting of Oswald last Nov. 24.

MELVIN BELLI
. . . blows his top

'Jury Shoved Down Our Throats'

Belli and his aides contend the jury had made its mind up before final arguments that stretched into early today. Belli called it a "kangaroo railroad" by a "jury that was shoved down our throats."

"The greatest kangaroo railroading disgrace in the history of American law," said Belli.

"Appeal, appeal," Belli screamed "today!"

He said he would go to the state capital, Austin, to file. Courts, however, are closed on Saturday in the state capital.

He raged more than he had during the frequent legal clashes at the trial.

He denounced the jury for wanting to continue in yesterday's marathon 16-hour session that ended at 1:05 a.m.

"Even in darkest Africa, you wouldn't argue for a man's life after midnight."

"A violent miscarriage of justice," said Asst. Defence attorney Joe H. Tonahill, "I am about to throw up."

Belli said Ruby did not say a word.

"I think he didn't get the full import of it."

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade said he thought the "facts fully warranted" the death penalty. He had said immediately after the handcuffed Oswald was shot to death that he would seek the death penalty.

Wade said it was a killing of "our government and law rather than men . . . not guilty would have put our civilization back to barbarianism."

In final arguments, he asked the jurors to show Ruby "the same compassion he showed Lee Harvey Oswald."

'I Think It Was a Proper Verdict'

Wade added, in a news conference, "I am very well satisfied with it. I think it was a proper verdict. I didn't think acquittal or a term of years was the proper verdict."

Assistant District Attorney William F. Alexander reviewed the entire prosecution case against Ruby Friday.

In tones dripping with sarcasm, he tore into the defence story that Ruby was unhinged by the assassination of the president, whom he "loved very much."

Alexander pointed out that at the time of Kennedy's motorcade in Dallas, Ruby was framing a newspaper advertisement for one of his night clubs. The 52-year-old girlie show operator has two establishments in Dallas.

"He wouldn't stir himself to walk five blocks to see the president," said Alexander.

Coming to the core of the state's argument for the death penalty, Alexander shouted: "American justice is on trial. Lee Harvey Oswald was entitled to the protection of the law until there was time to try him."

The lawyer shot out a long arm toward the accused man and said:

"You were the judge, the jury and the executioner. You

SECURITY INFORMATION SOUGHT

Store Manager Abducted

VANCOUVER (CP)—A supermarket manager and his pyjama-clad wife were held at gunpoint for more than two hours Friday night while two bandits threatened them in efforts to get information about security measures at Canada Safeway stores.

Cecil Bedford, 50, was abducted as he fixed a flat tire on his car outside his store in the Dunbar district. The bandits forced him into his car and made him drive to his Burnaby home, then forced his wife into the car.

They were driven to a wooded area and forced out of the car. The men drove away.

They robbed the couple of $3, using $2 for gas for the car. During the ride the men asked Mr. Bedford about security, safes, burglar alarms and working hours at the stores.

The couple walked out of the area and called police early today.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

On Thursday morning this week marine reporter Monte Roberts overslept and arrived at the office 35 minutes behind schedule.

Roberts

The ingenious Monte, however, did not come empty-handed. When city editor Lloyd Baker needled him about his tardiness, Roberts produced a bulletin of the SCPA (of which he is a director) describing him as "late columnist, The Victoria Times."

The SCPA was more correct, possibly, than it knew. For tonight Monte leaves the Times to join CKDA as editorial director—where, incidentally, he will work alongside His Favorite Wife, Cy

Monte has been with us for 12 years.

During that time he has been feature writer, columnist, marine reporter, and special navy correspondent. He has also been vice-president in charge of dogs cats, and Abner Goon, Our Very Own Correspondent at Lunchville, V.I.

Monte is an "old pro" with a wacky sense of humor. Times staffers, sorry to see him go, will bid him adieu at a farewell soiree tonight.

(One member of the staff is bearing up gamely.

Says his deskmate: "I'm trying to look at it on the bright side. It's not that I'm losing a partner so much as I'm gaining a telephone.)

The Michael Stephen credited with creating a "tour de force" (by drama critic Herb Whittaker) in the Dominion Drama Festival at Vancouver this week is the son of well-known local businessman Hugh Stephen.

Stephen

"Our children constantly surprise us," Hugh told a friend. "When I first went to the College to see Mike act, I had no idea of his talent. At the end of the show I was prepared to believe that he could apprentice with the Old Vic."

From a modest man like Hugh that's praise any son should relish.

Some people just love paying bills.

Well, sir, I have a couple . . .

It seems Victoria Golf Club, which completed extensive renovations last spring, owed a city furniture house about $500. The Oak Bay club was never billed.

The club was aware of the debt, however. And finally, with cheque in hand, someone went down to pay the bill and clear the books.

"Sorry, sir," said the employee in the furniture firm's accountant's office, "but the bill has already been paid!"

They checked further. It turns out that Uplands, which also had purchased furniture for its new clubhouse, received Oak Bay's bill and had paid it without question!

University of Victoria students turned out 998 strong to vote for six student council positions last week, which is commendable.

But it was discomfiting to note that our senior level of scholars, doctors and engineers perhaps, managed to spoil 362 ballots.

Comments the lead editorial in The Martlet:

"What fools still mark their ballots with a check rather than a cross, although the cross is the universal means of scoring a ballot and instructions on the ballot said so?"

Please, future leaders, before the next provincial and federal elections . . .

An article in Wednesday's Roundabout column said Victoria had long enjoyed Mount Baker from across the Strait of Georgia, but now ski enthusiasts are enjoying it at closer range.

Lort

Librarian John Lort was quick to report this attraction for the snow-capped mountain was not new. In fact, it was a Victorian who made the first ascent on Mount Baker.

Mountaineer, author, librarian and artist, Edmund T. Coleman came to Victoria in 1863. Two years later he became Victoria's first librarian in charge of the Mechanics Institute Library.

Then, in 1868, he crossed the Strait and proceeded to make the first ascent up the mountain he had enjoyed for five long years from the Victoria waterfront.

Today his expeditions are recorded in the mountaineer collection of the Vancouver Public Library.

I was fascinated to read about that African king who was accused of eating four prisoners, including two ex-ministers of state.

His answer: "Heads of state in my country do not eat political prisoners."

The question that inevitably springs to mind is:

Who does he eat?

Recently in our Ask the Times corner we advised that the family of a deceased person has two choices, interment or cremation. But we have been told by a mortician that his firm will conduct sea burials.

Personally, we prefer the idea over the first alternatives. In fact, we wonder if there isn't a business opportunity here for churches who need funds for their charities and missions. We roughly estimate a body could be decently laid to rest at sea in a weighted plastic envelope for less than $50.

Can anyone tell us why this isn't done? We can recall a wartime sea burial that lacked for nothing in dignity and conveyed a sense of immortality as the living sea took our friend to its bosom.

Royal Canadian Dragoons stationed at Camp Gagetown, N.B. In addition to 1,050 soldiers, about 100 Royal Canadian Air Force officers and personnel are included in the Canadian contingent.

Canada had held out for one other nation to commit troops before meeting UN Secretary-General Thant's call for a Canadian contingent. Ireland's commitment paved the way for Sweden's entry and then Canada's. The prime minister also said he hoped Finland would enter.

MARTIN PHONED

The prime minister asked for the emergency sitting after External Affairs Minister Paul Martin's telephone calls to Thant, and to Swedish, Finnish and Turkish governments indicated arrangement of a peace force was possible Friday evening.

Pearson won almost unanimous support for his resolution. Two French-Canadian Creditistes said Canada should spend money to help the needy at home before going abroad.

The Prime Minister said Canada was footing the estimated $2.6 million cost including one-way transportation for the first three months approved by the UN Security Council although the financing arrangements were a departure from past practice and "from what is desirable."

ALL SHOULD PAY

He said Canada maintained all UN members should contribute to UN peace-keeping operations and said he did not know how such operations could be carried out satisfactorily unless better arrangements are made.

Pearson said he was sorry about the delay in appointing a mediator to attempt a political solution but said he hoped the presence of a peace force will ease the atmosphere sufficiently to make some solution possible.

Fewer than 100 of the Commons' 265 seats were filled and the galleries only sparsely occupied when the prime minister opened debate.

DESK THUMPING

But his appeal for support drew loud desk-thumping from Progressive Conservative, New Democrat and Social Credit as well as government benches.

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker supported the resolution but asked that in future leaders of opposition be given more information as the crisis develops.

New Democrat Leader T. C. Douglas said although Canada was taking on a "hazardous, thankless and discouraging task" it was necessary to prevent "bush-fire" wars developing into global war.

SOCRED TOO

Social Credit spokesman A. B. Patterson (Fraser Valley) gave his party's full support and Creditiste Gilles Gregoire finally chimed in despite his two colleagues' earlier opposition.

Gregoire said he was proud Canada was sending a force and added that his colleagues' earlier opposition stemmed more from the government's attempts to hammer through the resolution without allowing any objections.

denied Oswald what you are asking for yourself. Lee Harvey Oswald's lips are sealed. He can't be recalled. He's dead."

Alexander also ripped into the defence contention that Ruby was insane. He recalled to the jury the fact that Ruby talked with psychiatrists sent by the defence but refused to discuss the killing with those sent by the state.

"Is this the position of a crazy man? To refuse to talk to some psychiatrists? To follow the advice of his attorney about others?" Alexander asked.

'Send Him Where He Belongs'

Belli and his two assistants argued that Ruby is "a sick man—a very sick man." They urged the jurors to "send him where he belongs." Presumably, they meant a mental institution.

The defence sought to convince the jurors that advanced psychiatric techniques show Ruby has organic brain damage—psychmotor epilepsy—and did not know what he was doing when he killed Oswald.

The defence based its entire case on Ruby's sanity.

"They didn't make a very good case of it and didn't ask for leniency or mercy," Wade noted.

Belli, volatile "king of torts" from San Francisco, began shouting his wrath to the press immediately after the jury filed out of the courtroom.

The scene grew so intense that Judge Brown came in without his robe and said: "Get those television cameras out of here or I am going to throw them out."

He then ordered the entire courtroom cleared.

Belli said he had information that one juror, whom he did not identify, told his employer that if he got on the Ruby panel he was going to vote the death penalty.

"Any independent appraisal of this all over the world," Belli said of the verdict, "would give a pretty good impression of one of the sore spots of America. If this venom spreads throughout the country, God help us all. This is the most disgusting thing I've ever seen in my life."

His voice rising, he added:

"Now, do you believe there is justice? And that there's an oligarchy in Dallas?

"Do you believe this is a part of the U.S.?

'Little Bit of Russia in the U.S.'

"You people (the press) have been here five weeks looking at a little bit of Russia in the United States.

"Dallas is a city of shame forevermore.

"This is one of the sore spots of America, and if this venom spreads through the whole country, God help us all."

Belli said that President Kennedy had come to this sort spot and been assassinated.

"The festering sore that is Dallas now announces itself as the most shocking thing I have ever seen in my life.

"This jury wasn't concerned with listening to us."

The verdict left unblemished Wade's record of convictions in capital cases.

It was the 24th time he has secured a maximum penalty in a murder with malice trial.

It was the climax of months of legal manoeuvering and four weeks of trial.

The trial began Feb. 17 after a week-long hearing on a defence motion for a change of venue to another Texas city.

Attorneys for Ruby contended he could not receive a fair trial in Dallas because of widespread publicity and sentiment in the city so recently shocked by the assassination of President Kennedy on Nov. 22, just two days before Oswald was killed.

It took another two weeks to choose a jury from more than 160 prospective veniremen.

Another two weeks of testimony was taken up in questioning of 66 witnesses, several of them policemen and eight qualified as experts in the field of psychiatry, psychology or neurology.

Court stood in recess for most of Friday while the defence argued 41 objections to points in the charge. A night session finally got under way Friday after 9 p.m. EST and final arguments lasted until 1:05 a.m. when the jury of eight men and four women got the case.

The weary jurors retired to their barracks-like quarters for the rest of the night without deliberation on the case.

3 Babies Abandoned, Police Hunt Parents

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP)—Police Chief Wilfred Whiteman Friday issued a warrant for the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Cofell of Ottawa, parents of three infant boys found abandoned here Monday in an unheated home.

The couple was charged with abandoning the children, one only 12 days old.

The children — Douglas, 12 days, Delbert, 18 months, and Christopher, 3 — were found Monday, shivering, covered with sores and suffering from malnutrition.

Chief Whiteman said a widespread search is being conducted for the man, about 25 and also known as Douglas Smith, and the woman, about 23, who also is known as Selena Helen Smith.

The children's father was last seen Sunday and their mother, formerly Hilda Michelek of Ottawa, was last seen Monday.

Mrs. Cofell's mother, Mrs. Edmonds Michelek, in a telephone interview from Ottawa Friday, confirmed that the boys are her grandchildren.

BIG WELFARE BOOST 'COST ONLY $500,000'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of the B.C. Association of Social Workers said Friday the provincial government could radically improve B.C.'s welfare services by spending an extra $500,000 a year.

Ronald E. Hawkes said that is what it would cost to increase the staff of the welfare department by 30 per cent.

He told a Community Chest meeting the government would save the money in the long run.

"As a taxpayer, this doesn't frighten me a bit, for an extra $500,000 we will radically improve welfare services in the province," he said.

KIERNAN PAY APPROVED

'Weekend' Vote Ends Park Row

The parks battle faded from the legislature—at least temporarily — late Friday afternoon after only 17 minutes of debate.

That's all it took for the House to approve the salary of Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan just before the weekend adjournment.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett pulled out the vote after more than three hours of debate on bills.

It worked.

The night before a marathon sitting failed to resolve the question of whether or not the government intended to allow new industry into the parks.

When the subject came up Friday, House chairman William Speare suggested MLAs confine themselves to direct questions as the policy issue had been dealt with "at length" Thursday.

The opposition submitted.

Mr. Kiernan leaves Sunday on a trip to California where he will kick off a tourist promotion tour. He won't return until Wednesday night. Then he will have to face the House again for approval of the rest of his recreation estimates.

Chairman Speare promised the Opposition it could ask more about the parks policy at that time.

Friday Mr. Kiernan refused to commit himself about further development of the Buttle Lake area for recreation.

He said he would go and look at the area with parks officials after the session.

Bellingham On Its Own Says Alaska

JUNEAU (AP) — Governor William Egan said Friday Alaska has no plans to extend its southeast marine highway ferry system south beyond Prince Rupert, B.C., the present southern terminus.

Taking note of an active attempt by the city of Bellingham, Wash., to have the southeast Alaska ferry service extended to that city, Egan said:

"Successful pioneering of the present route from Skagway and Haines to Prince Rupert has created justifiable and commendable interest in providing additional service to connect the Alaska marine highway with Puget Sound.

"I have been particularly impressed by the vigorous promotion of such a connecting link by Bellingham, Wash., interests. But I want to make it clear that if such a through service is developed, it will have to be as a result of ships and operations provided by interests other than the state of Alaska.

"There is no doubt in my mind but that service connecting Puget Sound on regularly scheduled passenger and auto service basis with the Alaska system will be developed.

"I also feel such a connection will greatly benefit all of Alaska, as well as British Columbia.

"But it will be the responsibility of interested parties in the state of Washington's Puget Sound area, to provide financing, vessels, etc., in order to inaugurate the desired extension of service.

"The state of Alaska cannot finance such a venture."

Militia Board

The Canadian commission on reorganization of the Canadian militia will arrive in Victoria Monday, last stop in a cross-country tour.

Col. Peter Ramsay, commanding officer, 25 Militia Group, will hold a reception for members of the commission and officers Monday at 9:30 p.m. in Bay Street Armory.

Chairman of the commission is Brig. E. K. Suttie.

50,000 Canadians Have Served With UN

OTTAWA (CP)—Nearly 50,000 Canadian servicemen have taken part in United Nations and similar duties in distant parts of the world since 1950.

Most of these—29,000—served with the Canadian brigade in the 1950-53 Korean War. Thousands of sailors also saw duty in Korean waters and two score Canadian airmen flew jets.

Some 20,000 Canadians have served in Indochina as members of the international truce supervisory commissions in Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia. This is not a UN operation.

About 9,500 Canadian soldiers and airmen have served with the UN emergency force in Egypt. Another 50 have worked with the UN in Yemen, more than 100 as truce observers in Palestine, another 80 as UN observers in Kashmir, 50 more in the three-months UN operation in New Guinea last year.

A total of some 1,700 Canadians have served for the UN in the Congo.

Cost of these Canadian contributions are not known in detail. Canada paid some, the UN others.

assigned to this choice but difficult beat. View them from public or ladies' galleries and they look to be asleep or daydreaming. But let the member from Juniper Junction intrude into his verbiage something that matters, and the pencils move as one.

From each wing of the shelf, stairs a trifle steeper than a destroyer's companionway pitch to a well that opens by a narrow door into Speaker's corridor. Those stairs haven't killed anyone yet. At least, not quite.

Parliament has its bar against strangers. Ours, though not of visible and well-shined brass, is equally solid. None save an accredited gallery member or a message-bearing page boy or attendant may risk his neck on our stairs.

Who's Invisible?

So much for the half of the place and institution which in theory (though definitely not in fact) is invisible to the Honourable Members.

The other half consists of two high-ceilinged rooms a pace beyond the corridor doors. They hold desks, antique typewriters, old orders of the day, and telephone booths scorched by sulphurous parleys between gallery men and their niggling editors.

Here are also reporters and correspondents (that's a reporter away from home), who type with two, four or nine fingers at fantastic speed. In the annex room are huge leather-covered armchairs sent down from a former Government House.

Pictures by the dozen gaze out of this orderly confusion. There are press gallery groups of bygone years, and photographs or sketches of great men from Bennett through Pattullo and on to times which few inmates now remember.

The main room has a fireplace sealed off with a metal sheet. It stood open once, but on a cold night long ago, a reporter whose name is still legend decided to eke out the warming powers of whisky with a merry blaze.

This he obtained by prying up a yard or so of wooden parquet floor, and firing it with a bundle of private members' bills. Next day, by Mr. Speaker's edict, in came the steel plate.

Naturally, no such nonsense goes on among today's press gallery card-holders. They work, mostly.

This half of our working world is open to visiting members except for the day each session when the budget must be boiled into news stories. Then, and perhaps on one or two other extraordinary occasions, a 'Closed' sign hangs on the doorknob.

Press conferences held in these cluttered quarters have foreshadowed significant events in British Columbia history. The gallery has guested politicians destined for fame . . . or for dismal extinction at the next election.

As I have noted, the press gallery has no official existence even though it holds annual elections, boasts its own letterhead, and these days is processing a generous share of your news.

End of Term

Invisible though it may be, the member for Outer Yakh is conscious of its presence, and the quality of debate has been known to improve remarkably when newsmen by ones and twos begin to retire from their perilous shelf.

When a session trails to its close, all but the handful of topnotch "regulars" who cover the government year-round can't get away fast enough. But before the year has gone full circle we fret to be here again.

Next: Five-Sided Schoolrooms

NANAIMO — A radical new concept of design of elementary schools has been developed here which may become the pattern for schools throughout the province.

Les Barley, Nanaimo architect, has drawn plans for a three-room school with five-sided classrooms.

Each room opens on to a play area and has one all-glass wall providing ample daylight. Facing in a northerly direction, the window wall requires no blinds because it will get no direct sunlight.

School board chairman Joe Shook said "foremost advantage of this design is flexibility tivity room accessible from the of room arrangement. An ac- classrooms can be divided or expanded as required."

Long halls are eliminated.

The basic three-room plan will be used for the first time in the school to be built at Rock City Road and Departure Bay road intersection.

Estimated cost of the school is about $58,000.

Dangerous Life

Accidents kill more Indians in B.C. than tuberculosis, Mrs. Douglas J. White, director of the Nanaimo Indian Band Council, told delegates attending the provincial safety council meeting in New Westminster Friday.

She said accidents are a leading cause of death in the Indian population.

Gentlemen:

For years I have used Chevrolet trucks for my city and country deliveries. I have always had really good service from them, with very little trouble. I recently traded a 1954 cab-over-engine model which had cost only $200.00 in repairs since new. A 1957 truck which I bought new is still running well with original parts throughout. From engine to rear axle, everything is original.

This kind of long service has convinced me that I buy the right trucks when I buy Chevrolet. Gas mileage is better than on any other make of truck I have owned, and my drivers tell me that there's lots of power there for their heaviest loads.

A multi-stop operation such as mine is hard on all parts of a truck but from my previous experience, I know my new Chevrolets will stand up to the job.

Yours very truly,

Mel Hill

President

Dear Sirs:

I have worked for Mel Hill Beverages since 1952. In 1954 I took over a new Chevrolet cab-over-engine which I drove until it was traded on a new Tilt-Cab Chevrolet.

During the time I drove the old truck, there never was a major mechanical failure. That was a good truck, but my new one is far superior in every way. Visibility and handling for city driving is outstanding, and the power steering is great. The truck will turn on a dime and is very stable when loaded or empty.

The 292 engine is tremendous, it's got lots of power, runs very smooth and quiet, and the performance is there when you need it. The suspension is really good and gives a very comfortable ride. Brakes are excellent and very smooth in stopping, and the emergency brake is ideal and well situated.

From my driving experience, I feel that Chevrolet trucks can't be beaten and are the best for our kind of heavy load multi-stop jobs. I make 45 to 50 calls a day and know how hard that is on a truck in city traffic.

Yours truly,

Richard P. Zimmerman
